Role Of Social And Behavioral Sciences In Water Resources Planning And Management Conference Proceedings:

The Role of Social and Behavioral Sciences in Water Resources Planning and Management Engineering Foundation (U.S.). Conference, 1988 Institutional and Policy Analysis of River Basin Management William Blomquist, Ken S. Calbick, Ariel Dinar, Institutional and Policy Analysis of River Basin Management the Fraser River Basin, Canada , Decentralization of River Basin Management , 2005 Decentralization and increased stakeholder involvement have been major elements of water sector reform as ways to promote sustainable and integrated resource management particularly of river basins Based on an analytical framework for relating decentralization and stakeholder involvement to improved river basin management this paper infers several hypotheses about factors associated with greater or lesser likelihood of success of the decentralization process using data from 83 river basins worldwide The results suggest that physical political economic financial and institutional characteristics of the basin do affect the process and the level of performance of the decentralization In particular the presence of water scarcity may be a stimulus to reform uniting the stakeholders in the basin and leading to better performance organized user groups push for the initiation of decentralization reforms but may be associated with costs to the process and difficulty of achieving decentralization the existence of dispute resolution mechanisms supports stakeholder involvement and improves decentralization performance where stakeholders accepted greater financial responsibility complying with tariffs and contributing to the budget for basin management the decentralization process and performance measures increased basins with higher percentages of their budgets from external governmental sources benefited from better stability and support and it shows in the performance of the decentralization process Institutional and Policy Analysis of River Basin Management , Index of Conference Proceedings British Library. Document Supply Centre, 1989 Allocation of Water Resources Jodee Kuske, 1991 Institutional and Policy Analysis of River Basin Management The Murray Darling River Basin, Australia Anjali Bhat, William Andrew Blomquist, 2005 Comparison of Institutional Arrangements for River Basin Management in Eight Basins William Andrew Blomquist, 2005 This study represents an effort toward understanding conditions that affect successful or unsuccessful efforts to devolve water resource management to the river basin level and secure active stakeholder involvement A theoretical framework is used to identify potentially important variables related to the likelihood of success Using a comparative case study approach the study examined river basins where organizations have been developed at the basin scale and where organizations perform management functions such as planning allocation and pricing of water supplies flood prevention and response and water quality monitoring and improvement This paper compares the alternative approaches to basin governance and management adopted in the following river basins the Alto Tiete and Jaguaribe River Basins Brazil the Brantas River Basin East Java Indonesia the Fraser River Basin British Columbia Canada the Guadalquivir Basin Spain the Murray Darling River Basin Australia the Tarcoles River Basin Costa Rica and the Warta River Basin Poland The analysis

focuses on how management has been organized and pursued in each case in light of its specific geographical historical and organizational contexts and the evolution of institutional arrangements The cases are also compared and assessed for their observed degrees of success in achieving improved stakeholder participation and integrated water resources management
