Morphological characterization of edible banana varieties in Kerala (including germplasm collection) and male flower nutritional analysis of selected varieties: an overview Prem Jose Vazhacharickal, Jackson Jose, Sajeshkumar N.K, Jiby John Mathew, P. E. Sreejith, M. Sabu, Banana Musa is a fruit bearing plant belongs to the Musaceae family and mainly cultivated for its fruit which is used as a nutritionally rich food item. The banana male bud is also used as a food item due to its high nutritional content. The different banana varieties are found which differ in size, shape, appearance, fruit nutritional value etc. The banana is mainly used as a food item in major part of the world. The value added products can be developed from the fruit. Because of the high protein, fibre and vitamin content, the bananas are widely used. The morphological analysis of different varieties helps us to understand the difference between the 25 varieties in terms of size, shape, appearance and other internal features. The nutritional analysis of the banana male flower includes the proximate composition, estimation of dry matter, moisture content, estimation of crude protein, estimation of crude fibre, estimation of crude ash and insoluble ash, ether extract and gross energy analysis. From the proximate analysis, we identified that the Palayamkudan male flower contains a huge deposit of crude fibre and crude protein in it. The sample of Nyalipoovan male flower has comparatively low crude fibre content; the gross energy is high in the Nyalipoovan sample. The Plant Lice Or Aphididae of Great Britain Frederick Vincent Theobald, 1927 Hellenistic Pottery: Text Susan I.
