Lunar Park:

Gothic-postmodernism Maria Beville, 2009 Being the first to outline the literary genre Gothic postmodernism this book articulates the psychological and philosophical implications of terror in postmodernist literature analogous to the terror of the Gothic novel uncovering the significance of postmodern recurrences of the Gothic and identifying new historical and philosophical aspects of the genre While many critics propose that the Gothic has been exhausted and that its significance is depleted by consumer society's obsession with instantaneous horror analyses of a number of terror based postmodernist novels here suggest that the Gothic is still very much animated in Gothic postmodernism These analyses observe the spectral characters doppelgangers hellish waste lands and the demonised or possessed that inhabit texts such as Paul Auster's City of Glass Salman Rushdie's The Satanic Verses and Bret Easton Ellis's Lunar Park However it is the deeper issue of the lingering emotion of terror as it relates to loss of reality and self and to death that is central to the study a notion of terror formulated from the theories of continental philosophers and contemporary cultural theorists With a firm emphasis on the sublime and the unrepresentable as fundamental to this experience of terror vital to the Gothic genre and central to the postmodern experience this study offers an insightful and concise definition of Gothic postmodernism It firmly argues that terror with all that it involves remains a connecting and potent link between the Gothic and postmodernism two modes of literature that together offer a unique voicing of the unspeakable terrors of postmodernity Bret Easton Ellis's Controversial Fiction

earlier by important theorists such as Stanley Cavell David Reynolds and William Van O Connor A number of literary works from the beginning of the nineteenth to the end of the twentieth centuries are taken up in order to illustrate the inherent links or family resemblances between the two modes with special reference to the way in which a Bakhtinian reading may facilitate our appreciation of their status within the canon These excursions into the House of Fantastic and Grotesque Fiction may be of interest not only to hardcore aficionados but also to philosophically minded readers in general in particular perhaps to those who have paid acute attention to debates on late twentieth and early twenty first century post structuralism and deconstruction where the classic positions of Foucault Derrida et al still appear to be relevant York Notes
