near the end of the fifteenth century is an allegorical dream vision poem. It is notable for its strange mixture of both classical and Christian sources in which the classical pantheon debates over the moral state of an individual in an attempt to bring Reason and Sensuality into balance in the individual. This text is suitable for all levels of students with its introduction explaining the cultural and linguistic context of the text as well as a gloss and notes. This volume is invaluable to those teaching courses on late medieval allegory and dream poems.

The "Liber de diversis medicinis" in the Thornton manuscript (ms. Lincoln cathedral A. 5. 2.) Robert Thornton, 1938. A collection of medical prescriptions and charms written in a mid fifteenth century hand. The scribe, a Robert Thornton, has been variously identified with three persons of the name who flourished during that period. Robert Thornton of East Newton is considered the most probable person by the present editor and others (cf. Introduction p. viii xv; Dictionary of National Biography v. 56 p. 303, 304).
