Digital International Relations Corneliu Bjola, Markus Kornprobst, 2023-11-03 This book analyses how digital transformation disrupts established patterns of world politics moving International Relations IR increasingly towards Digital International Relations This volume examines technological agential and ordering processes that explain this fundamental change The contributors trace how digital disruption changes the international world we live in ranging from security to economics from human rights advocacy to deep fakes and from diplomacy to international law The book makes two sets of contributions First it shows that the ongoing digital revolution profoundly changes every major dimension of international politics Second focusing on the interplay of technology agency and order it provides a framework for explaining these changes The book also provides a map for adjusting the study of international politics to studying International Relations making a case for upgrading augmenting and rewiring the discipline Theory follows practice in International Relations but if the discipline wants to be able to meaningfully analyse the present and come up with plausible scenarios for the future it must not lag too far behind major transformations of the world that it studies This book facilitates that theoretical journey This book will be of much interest to students of cyber politics politics and technology and International Relations Freedom vs Necessity in International Relations Professor David Chandler, 2013-03-14 The last two decades have seen the remarkable rise to dominance of human centred understandings of the world Indeed it is now rare to read any analysis of insecurity conflict or development which does not discuss the need to empower or capacity build local individuals or communities In this path breaking book Chandler presents a radical challenge to such approaches arguing that the solutions to the world's problems are now not perceived to lie within external structures of economic political and social relations but instead with individuals and groups who are often seen to be the most marginal and powerless This fundamental change has gone hand in hand with the shift from state based to society based understandings of the world Chandler provocatively argues that human centred approaches have limited rather than expanded the transformative possibilities available to us and if real change is to be achieved both at a local and a global level then a radical re think in Western thought is required
