Earth's people now urban dwellers and cities being the most efficient habitat for the utilisation of resources it is imperative that we continue to support standards of living and efficiencies of urban areas. However, the urbanisation process has not been without its problems. While much has been done to address the original issues surrounding the quality of urban life, new challenges continue to arise. It is no longer sustainable to achieve improvements by means that require greater and greater energy consumption as we did in the past. Despite their complexity, however, cities are a great laboratory for architects, engineers, and other key professionals to apply new ideas and new technology to meet our requirements for more sustainable city environments. Containing papers presented at the latest in a series of conferences organised by the Wessex Institute of Technology, these proceedings split into two volumes address not just environmental, architectural, and engineering concerns but also quality of life, security, risk, and heritage. The diversity of topics and the case studies based on existing projects make the book an important contribution to the literature on urban planning.

The Affordable Housing Reader J. Rosie Tighe, Elizabeth J. Mueller, 2013. The Affordable Housing Reader brings together classic works and contemporary writing on the themes and debates that have animated the field of affordable housing policy as well as the challenges in achieving the goals of policy on the ground. It is particularly suited for graduate and undergraduate courses on housing policy offered to students of public policy and city planning. The Reader is structured around the key debates in affordable housing, ranging from the conflicting motivations for housing policy through analysis of the causes of and solutions to housing problems to concerns about gentrification and housing and race. Each debate is contextualized in an introductory essay by the editors and illustrated with a range of texts and articles. Beiträge Zur 15. Internationalen Konferenz Zu Stadtplanung, Regionalentwicklung und Informationsgesellschaft Manfred Schrenk, 2010. Compromise Planning : A Theoretical Approach from a Distant Corner of Europe Louis C. Wassenhoven, 2022-03-28. The purpose of the book is to elaborate a planning theory which departs from the plethora of theories which reflect the conditions of developed countries of the North West The empirical material of this effort is derived from a country Greece which sits on the edge between North West and South East at the corner of Europe No doubt there is extensive international literature on planning theory in general from a bewildering variety of viewpoints The interested professional or student of urban and regional planning is certainly aware of the dizzying flood of books articles and research reports on planning theory and of their never ending borrowing of obscure concepts from more respectable scientific disciplines from mathematics to philosophy and from physics to economics human geography and sociology He or she probably observed that there is a growing interest in theoretical approaches from the viewpoint of the so called Global South The author of the present book has for many decades faced the impasse of attempting to transplant theories founded on the experience of the North West to countries with a totally different historical political social and geographical background He learned that the reality that planners face is unpredictable patchy and responsive to social processes frequently of a very pedestrian nature Planning strives to deal with private interests which planners are keen to envelop in a single public interest which is extremely hard to define The behaviour of the average citizen far from being that of the neoclassical model of the homo economicus is that of an individual a kind of homo individualis who interacts with the state and the public administration within a complex web of mutual dependence and negotiation The state and its administrative apparatus i e the key determinants and fixers of urban and regional planning policy bargain with this individual offer inducements exemptions derogations and privileges deviate unhesitatingly from their grand policy pronouncements but still defend the rationality and comprehensiveness of the planning system they have legislated and operationalized It is by and large a successful modus vivendi but only thanks to a constant practice of compromise Hence the term compromise planning which the author coined as an alternative to all the existing theoretical forms of planning This is the sort of planning and of the accompanying theory with which he deals in this book It is the outcome of experience and knowledge accumulated in a long personal journey of academic teaching in England and Greece research and professional involvement important contemporary issues as sustainability walkable communities the role of urban design in public safety changes in housing needs for a changing population and multi modal transportation planning Unlike competing books it addresses all of these topics in the context of the local comprehensive plan There is a broad audience for this book planning students practicing planners and individual citizens who want to better understand local planning and land use controls Boxes at the end of each chapter explain how professional planners and individual citizens respectively typically engage the issues addressed in the chapter For all readers Community Planning provides a pragmatic view of the comprehensive plan clearly explained by a respected authority
