Murder In The Medical School:

Murder in the Medical School J. R. Schofield, 2000-12 A particularly gruesome murder occurs in the Anatomy Department of a 1950s medical school. Included is a graphic description of anatomical and pathological specimens in the Anatomists cadaver preparation room. The novel begins with preparations by the Anatomists to prepare a teaching exhibit of human structures in one inch cross sections of a human cadaver. The medical school is expanding into new clinical departments, recruitment of several departmental Chairs is described showing the quite variable characteristics of several clinical specialists. The narrator describes life in and problems of the medical school. The reader can follow selection of new medical students, academic disputations about the M.D. curriculum, behavior of some physicians in private practice, split opinions over the locations of the new charity hospital and a typical M.D. graduation ceremony with the administration of the ancient Oath of Hippocrates to the graduates. The narration is flavored with references drawn from the History of Medicine. Was there a murder? A person on staff of the medical is missing but no body could be found. The arrival of the missing person's girl friend triggers the attention of the police but until the penultimate chapter there is no solution until the two young anatomists convince the detective that they have solved the missing body question. Not until the Epilogue is the identity of the murderer revealed and how he did it.

Murder at Asheville's Battery Park Hotel Anne Chesky Smith, 2021-07-26 Did the phrase "That's what I was wondering" solve a murder? In the morning hours of July 16, 1936, Helen Clevenger's uncle discovered her bloodied body crumpled on the floor of her small room in Asheville's grand Battery Park Hotel. She had been shot through the chest. Buncombe County Sheriff Laurence Brown, up for reelection, desperately searched for the teenager's killer as the public clamored for answers. Though witnesses reported seeing a white man leave the scene, Brown's focus turned instead to the hotel's Black employees and on August 9 he arrested bell hop Martin Moore. After a frenzied four-day trial that captured the nation's attention, Moore was convicted of Helen's murder on August 22. Though Moore confessed to Sheriff Brown, doubt of his guilt lingers and many Southerners feared that justice had not in fact been served. Author Anne Chesky Smith weaves together varying accounts of the murder and investigation to expose a complex and disturbing chapter in Asheville's history.

Murder at Yale Stella Sands, 2010-06-29 Annie Le seemed to have it all. A beautiful graduate student at one of the world's most prestigious universities, she was also deeply in love. But just days before she was set to get married, Annie went mysteriously missing and her fiancé started to fear the worst. Raymond Clark III seemed like an average all-American boy next door. He was a sports hero in high school, adored by friends and family. But he had a secret dark side and a history of violence that was about to come to light. Annie and Ray worked in the same lab facility. Security records indicated that on September 8, 2009, Annie entered a restricted basement area followed by Ray. On the thirteenth, the date of her wedding, Annie's lifeless body was found. DNA evidence at the crime scene was eventually linked to Ray. Why did he do it? What did Annie do to set him off? This is the shocking true story of a Murder at Yale.

had legitimized the deaths of the last two babies by theorizing a cause for the mystery of SIDS suggesting it could be predicted and prevented and fostering the presumption that SIDS runs in families More than two decades of multimillion dollar studies have failed to confirm any of these widely accepted premises How all this happened could have happened is a compelling story of high stakes medical research in action And the enigma of familial SIDS has given rise to a special and terrible irony There is today a maxim in forensic pathology One unexplained infant death in a family is SIDS Two is very suspicious Three is homicide Journal of the American Medical Association ,1921 Crime H.
