Pain Seeking Understanding Suffering Medicine And Faith:

Pain Seeking Understanding Margaret E. Mohrmann, Mark J. Hanson, 1999 As medical science continues its rapid advances questions are raised that have more to do with theology than with technology Where is God when I am hurt or suffering What role does God play in my healing Pain Seeking Understanding examines how believers and nonbelievers alike wrestle with questions of faith when confronted with pain and suffering that medicine alone cannot treat Margaret Mohrmann and Mark Hanson call upon fellow experts in the fields of medicine ethics theology and pastoral care to help them weave the complex story of faith and science working together to ease suffering and to help broaden our understanding of God's role in suffering and healing Living Through Pain Kristin M. Swenson, 2005 In Living Through Pain Kristin Swenson charts the multifaceted personal and social problems caused by chronic pain This book also surveys professional efforts to mitigate and manage pain Because the experience of pain involves all aspects of a person body mind spirit and community Swenson consults an ancient resource for wisdom perspective and insight Her close reading of selected psalms from the Hebrew Bible demonstrates that the challenge of living through pain is timeless Living Through Pain chronicles how these ancient texts offer a vocabulary and grammar for understanding and expressing the contemporary experience of pain Pain is a universal experience and this book invites readers to consider more fully what is involved in the process of healing BOOK JACKET Suffering and the Christian Life Richard W. Miller, 2012-12-01 Suffering and Bioethics Ronald M. Green, Nathan J. Palant, 2014-08-01 Long before it cured disease medicine aimed to relieve suffering but despite that precedence the relief of suffering often takes a back seat in today's biomedical research and treatment Modern bioethics too has been slow to come to terms with suffering Attention to ethical quandaries has sometimes displaced attention to the experience of patients This book seeks to place suffering at the center of bioethical thinking once again Among the questions its contributors explore are What is the meaning of suffering How does it relate to pain If there can be pain without suffering can there be suffering without pain Does suffering require advanced cognitive abilities Can animals suffer Many believe that we have strong obligations to relieve or minimize suffering what are the limits of these obligations Does the relief of suffering justify the termination of a patient's life as proponents of euthanasia maintain What is the bearing of suffering on the cherished bioethical principle of autonomy Can suffering impair a patient's ability to make reasoned choices To what extent must the encounter with suffering be an important component of medical education Do religious traditions ever move from efforts to explain and relieve suffering to positions that justify and promote it The aim of this book is to undertake a new foray into this foreign territory of suffering With a foreword by the distinguished bioethicist Daniel Callahan its twenty two chapters authored by leading scholars in science and bioethics are organized so as to examine suffering in its biological psychological clinical religious and ethical dimensions Faith Seeking Understanding: Medical Assistance in Dying The Anglican Church of Canada, 2023-09-25 Canada is one of few countries in the world where medical assistance in dying

MAiD is a legal option and the number of permitted contexts terminal illness chronic illness mental illness is increasing This collection of essays and corresponding questions for reflection has been made available to help the wider church discuss and increase understanding of the realities of MAiD for our communities our role as Christians vulnerable populations healthcare social justice God's gift of life and our call to care for those who suffer The Sunday Assembly and Theologies of Suffering Katie Cross, 2020-07-05 This book draws on a study of the Sunday Assembly a godless congregation to reflect on how the Church might better deal with suffering lament and theodicy Against a backdrop of a shifting attitudes towards religion humans are now better connected than ever before It is no exaggeration to suggest that we carry the suffering of the world in our pockets In the midst of these intersecting issues the Sunday Assembly provides insight into how meaning making in times of trauma and crisis is changing Drawing on practical theology and using ethnographic tools of investigation this book includes findings from interviews and observation with the Sunday Assembly in London and Edinburgh It explores the Sunday Assembly's philosophy of celebrating life and what this means in practice At times this emphasis on celebration can result in situations where suffering is passed over or only briefly acknowledged In response this book considers a similar tendency within white Protestant churches to avoid explicit discussion of difficult issues This book challenges churches to consider how they might resist the avoidance of suffering through the practice of lament The insights provided by this book will be of particular interest to scholars of Religious Studies Practical Theology Secularism and Atheism Non religion

Raging with Compassion John Swinton, 2017-10-30 In Raging with Compassion Michael Ramsey prize winning author John Swinton argues for a practical theodicy one embodied in the life and practices of the Christian community This practicality does not seek to provide an explanation for the existence of evil but rather presents ways in which evil and suffering can be resisted and transformed This he insists will enable Christians to live faithfully with unanswered questions as they await God's redemption of the whole creation Swinton explores essential practices of redemption lament forgiveness thoughtfulness hospitality and friendship drawing out their implications for the faithful resistance of evil Enhanced by case studies from current events and by Swinton's own experience as a pastor and mental health nurse Raging with Compassion seeks to inspire fresh Christian responses and modes of practice in our broken fallen world God, Suffering, and

Disability Mary Schaefer Fast, 2019-05-22 God Suffering and Disability A Trinitarian Theodicy of the Cross utilizes both Christological and pneumatological perspectives of Luther's theology of the cross to address the complexities of suffering and disability Through the lens of the cross the God who suffers enables humans to call a thing what it is by recognizing the suffering that often accompanies disability Rather than asking why the Triune God allows people to suffer this theodicy of disability focuses on where the Father Son and Spirit are in that very human experience As a new theodic construct a Trinitarian theodicy of the cross responds to both the theological concerns of the church and the theoretical apprehensions of society It encourages Christians to live as theologians of the cross empowers the faith community by informing both its theology and praxis and provides a theoretical response to secular society that will enrich the field of disability studies

Patience, Compassion, Hope, and the Christian Art of Dying Well Christopher P. Vogt, 2004 By mining the rich tradition of virtue ethics Christopher Vogt uses the virtues of patience compassion and hope as a framework for specifying the shape of a good death and for naming the practices Christians should develop to live well and die well Bringing together historical biblical and contemporary sources in Christian ethics Vogt provides a long overdue theological analysis of the ars moriendi or art of dying literature of four centuries ago Through a careful analysis of Luke's passion narrative Vogt uses Jesus as the primary model for being patient in the face of death and for dying well

Disability and Christian Theology Embodied Limits and Constructive Possibilities Deborah Beth Creamer, 2009-01-05 Attention to embodiment and the religious significance of bodies is one of the most significant shifts in contemporary theology In the midst of this however experiences of disability have received little attention This book explores possibilities for theological engagement with disability focusing on three primary alternatives challenging existing theological models to engage with the disabled body considering possibilities for a disability liberation theology and exploring new theological options based on an understanding of the unsurprisingness of human limits The overarching perspective of this book is that limits are an unavoidable aspect of being human a fact we often seem to forget or deny Yet not only do all humans experience limits most of us also experience limits that take the form of disability at some point in our lives in this way disability is more normal than non disability If we take such experiences seriously and refuse to reduce them to mere instances of suffering we discover insights that are lost when we take a perfect or generic body as our starting point for theological reflections While possible applications of this insight are vast this work focuses on two areas of particular interest theological anthropology and metaphors for God This project challenges theology to consider the undeniable diversity of human embodiment It also enriches previous disability work by providing an alternative to the dominant medical and minority models both of which fail to acknowledge the full diversity of disability experiences Most notably this project offers new images and possibilities for theological construction that attend appropriately and creatively to diversity in human embodiment
