Regional Dynamics of the Indonesian Revolution Audrey Kahin, 1985      Regional Dynamics of the Indonesian Revolution Anton E. Lucas, 1985 First chapter in part I The Tiga Daerah Affair social revolution or rebellion 16 pages typed and map drawing      Monarchies and decolonisation in Asia Robert Aldrich, Cindy McCreery, 2020-06-05 With original case studies of a more than a dozen countries Monarchies and decolonisation in Asia offers new perspectives on how both European monarchs who reigned over Asian colonies and Asian royal houses adapted to decolonisation As colonies became independent states and European countries and other colonial powers lost their overseas empires monarchies faced the challenges of decolonisation republicanism and radicalism These studies place dynasties both European and native at the centre of debate about decolonisation and the form of government of new states from the sovereigns of Britain the Netherlands and Japan to the maharajas of India the sultans of the East Indies and the white rajahs of Sarawak It provides new understanding of the history of decolonisation and of the history of modern monarchy      Towards the Indonesian Republic: Marxist Lineages in the National Revolution Geoffrey Gunn, 2025-05-22 Drawing on little known archival sources this work brings to the fore the salience of a schism in the Indonesian communist movement between pro Moscow loyalists and national communists reaching back to the 1920s which survived even the Japanese occupation and surfaced in the throes of the National Revolution 1945-49 At the heart of the rift lay contrasting visions of revolutionary tactics the salience of Islam in an Islamic majority society the vexed question of alliance between leftists and other anti colonial forces and even the concept and definition of state and national ideology As such we cannot ignore the lineages of Marxism in the National Revolution which trace their roots to the pioneer actions on Java by Dutch communists themselves influenced by the Bolshevik Revolution Contrary to the image of a non revolutionary peasantry and a nationalist leadership broken or tamed by colonial carceral practices the picture that emerges is one of acute agency on the part of an awoken population at a critical historical moment at the end of World War II There is no more complicated period in the history of the Indonesian national revolution than that of 1945-49 during the war with the Dutch colonial armies nor a more complicated strand in Indonesian history than that of its Marxist lineage Dr Gunn's book is a truly unique and fascinating account of both fusing perspectives from a range of colonial as well as indigenous sources Sukarno Hatta Sjahrir Amir Sjariffudin all appear but none more so than Tan Malaka It is as provocative a read as any well researched historical novel but it is not fiction but reality It is very well documented and needs to be read at least twice Max Lane Visiting Senior Fellow Indonesia Studies Programme ISEAS Yusof Ishak Institute There have been numerous books on Indonesian independence movements that led to the birth of the Republic of Indonesia Nevertheless this book by Geoffrey Gunn differs from previous ones in the sense that it focuses on the role of Marxist radical movements especially that of Tan Malaka in the Indonesian anti colonial struggle It begins with the emergence of the Communist movement failed rebellions of 1926-27 the Japanese occupation the Madiun Affair and ends with the international recognition of Indonesia's independence in 1949. Using various newly available archives including that of the Russian and recently published articles and books on the subject, the author has presented a revisionist history of Indonesian independence with a fresh perspective. Leo Suryadinata, Visiting Senior Fellow ISEAS Yusof Ishak Institute, formerly Professor in Political Science, National University of Singapore.

National Integration in Indonesia Christine Drake, 2019-03-31. Indonesia's great size and diversity and its history of regional dissension have made its struggle for national integration particularly complex. Christine Drake presents an informed and balanced picture of past and present developments in this struggle, offering readers a realistic assessment of the current status and future prospects of national integration in Indonesia. By addressing historical, political, social and economic issues in conjunction with statistical analysis, Professor Drake argues that the spatial pattern of integration is far more complex than the commonly accepted core-periphery model of Indonesian integration and development. The author examines the effectiveness of Indonesian government policies in promoting national integration and concludes that in general they have led to greater national unity, although many serious problems remain.

Historical Atlas of Indonesia Robert Cribb, 2013-02-01. This pioneering volume traces the history of the region which became Indonesia from early times to the present day in over three hundred specially drawn full-colour maps with detailed accompanying text. In doing so, the Atlas brings fresh life to the fascinating and tangled history of this immense archipelago. Beginning with the geographical and ecological forces which have shaped the physical form of the archipelago, the Historical Atlas of Indonesia goes on to chart early human migration and the changing distribution of ethnic groups. It traces the kaleidoscopic pattern of states in early Indonesia and their gradual incorporation into the Netherlands Indies and eventually into the Republic of Indonesia.

Women and Sharia Law in Northern Indonesia Dina Afrianty, 2015-05-01. This book examines the life of women in the Indonesian province of Aceh where Islamic law was introduced in 1999. It outlines how women have had to face the formalisation of conservative understandings of sharia law in regulations and new state institutions over the last decade or so, how they have responded to this, forming non-governmental organisations, NGOs that have shaped local discourse on women's rights, equality and status in Islam, and how these NGOs have strategised, demanded reform and enabled Acehnese women to take active roles in influencing the processes of democratisation and Islamisation that are shaping the province. The book shows that although the formal introduction of Islamic law in Aceh has placed restrictions on women's freedom, paradoxically it has not prevented them from engaging in public life. It argues that the democratisation of Indonesia, which allowed Islamisation to occur, continues to act as an important factor shaping Islamisation's current trajectory, that the introduction of Islamic law has motivated women's NGOs and other elements of civil society to become more involved in wider discussions about the future of sharia in Aceh, and that Indonesia's recent decentralisation policy and growing local Islamism have enabled the emergence of different religious and local adat practices which do not necessarily correspond to overall national trends.

Asian Labor in the Wartime Japanese

Empire Paul H. Kratoska, 2014-12-18 During the Pacific War the Japanese government used a wide range of methods to recruit workers for construction projects throughout the occupied territories. Mistreatment of workers was a major grievance both in widely publicized cases such as the use of prisoners of war and forced Asian labor to construct the Thailand Burma Death Railway and in a very large number of smaller projects. In this book an international group of specialists on the Occupation period examine the labor needs and the recruitment and use of workers whether forced military or otherwise throughout the Japanese empire. This is the first study to look at Japanese labor policies comparatively across all the occupied territories of Asia during the war years. It also provides a graphic context for examining Japanese colonialism and relations between the Japanese and the people living in the various occupied territories. The Encyclopedia of Political Revolutions

Raiding the Land of the Foreigners Danilyn Rutherford, 2021-01-12 What are the limits of national belonging? Focusing on Biak, a set of islands off the coast of western New Guinea in the Indonesian province of Irian Jaya, Danilyn Rutherford's analysis calls for a rethinking of the nature of national identity. With the resurgence of separatism in the province, Irian Jaya has become the focus of fears that the Indonesian nation is falling apart. Yet in the early 1990s the fieldwork for this book was made possible by the government's belief that Biaks were finally beginning to see themselves as Indonesians. Taking in the dynamics of Biak social life and the islands' long history of millennial unrest, Rutherford shows how practices that indicated Biaks' submission to national authority actually reproduced antinational understandings of space, time, and self. Approaching the foreign as a focus of longing in cultural arenas ranging from kinship to Christianity, Biaks participated in Indonesian national institutions without accepting the identities they promoted. Their remarkable response to the Indonesian government and earlier polities laying claim to western New Guinea suggests the limits of national identity and modernity writ large. This is one of the few books reporting on the volatile province of Irian Jaya. It offers a new way of thinking about the nation and its limits, one that moves beyond the conventions of both scholarship and recent journalism. It shows how people can belong to a nation yet maintain commitments that fall both short of and beyond the nation-state. Coming Apart, Coming Together

Edward R. Kantowicz, 2000 An independent scholar and former history professor addresses the post WWII period in Volume 2 of his narrative history of the 20th century. His account revolves around two dominant global events: the Cold War and the revolt against imperialism, showing how these events both drove nations apart while creating political and regional alliances.

History in Uniform Katharine E. McGregor,2007 Under the New Order regime 1967-98 the Indonesian military sought to monopolise the production of official history and control its contents The goal was to validate the political role of the armed forces condemn communism and promote military values A detailed examination of the Indonesian military's image making under Suharto      The Making of Middle Indonesia Gerry van Klinken,2014-01-30 What holds Indonesia together A strong leader is the answer most often given This book looks instead at a middle level of society Middle classes in provincial towns around the vast archipelago mediate between the state and society and help to constitute state power Middle Indonesia is a social zone connecting extremes The Making of Middle Indonesia examines the rise of an indigenous middle class in one provincial town far removed from the capital city Spanning the late colonial to early New Order periods it develops an unusual associational notion of political power Soft modalities of power included non elite provincial people in the emerging Indonesian state At the same time growing inequalities produced class tensions that exploded in violence in 1965-1966      Realpolitik Ideology Leonard C. familiarity has resulted in a highly readable and lively chronicle While giving due regard to the early history of the region Osborne concentrates on the changes that have taken place since the eighteenth century the impact of colonial rule economic transformations of the 19th and 20th centuries the emergence and triumph of the independence movements the impact of social change and the pivotal roles played by religion ethnic minorities and immigrant groups He also provides an introduction to the art of the region and a comprehensive guide to literature about Southeast Asia Clearly written and extensively illustrated this tenth edition of Southeast Asia An introductory history remains a classic in the field Military Politics, Islam, and the State in Indonesia Marcus Mietzner,2009 Based on a decade of research in Indonesia this book provides an in depth account of the military s struggle to adapt to the new democratic system after the downfall of Suharto s authoritarian regime in 1998 Unlike other studies of the Indonesian armed forces which focus exclusively on internal military developments Mietzner s study emphasizes the importance of conflicts among civilians in determining the extent of military involvement in political affairs Analysing disputes between Indonesia s main Muslim groups Mietzner argues that their intense rivalry between 1998 and 2004 allowed the military to extend its engagement in politics and protect its institutional interests The stabilization of the civilian polity after 2004 in contrast has led to an increasing marginalization of the armed forces from the power centre Drawing broader conclusions from these events for Indonesia s ongoing process of democratic consolidation the book shows that the future role of the armed forces in politics will largely depend on the ability of civilian leaders to maintain functioning democratic institutions and procedures The British Occupation of Indonesia: 1945-1946 Richard Mcmillan,2006-05-17 Original and critical scholarship with a high standard of writing crisp and measured Relevant to a wide range of undergraduate courses in history This book revises history and presents new ideas on the British official interpretation of post war events in Southeast Asia the condemnation of British policy by many Dutch scholars and the ideas popularly held in Indonesia and by those sympathetic to the nationalist cause that Britain was playing a Dutch game Leadership on Java Hans Antlov,Sven Cederroth,2014-04-08 This text examines how leaders on Java rise to power stay in power and pass their power on Most of these essays deal with rural power but a few address more general issues of leadership
