Regional Integration The West European Experience:

Regional Integration William Wallace, Professor of International Relations William Wallace, 1994 The European Union is the oldest and most highly developed example of institutionalized regional integration Since its establishment in the early 1950s the EU has moved from the shallow integration of dismantling trade barriers to the deep integration of accepting common policies on agriculture environment transport and working conditions common rules on competition mergers and financial transfers and common laws in the domestic courts of member states The EU experience is a successful example of integrating national economies but how far should those promoting regional integration in the Western Hemisphere and the Pacific look to the EU as a model Can regional and global integration proceed harmoniously Or will tensions between regional and global priorities unavoidably arise This book part of the Integrating National Economies series examines the evolution of West European integration over the past forty years William Wallace analyzes the historical circumstances under which the institutions of integration developed and the internal tensions and contradictions created by the deepening of integration and repeated enlargements He explains that in recent years deep integration has presented a challenge to national identity forcing policymakers to confront issues of sovereignty political commitment and regional balance Wallace concludes that the European experience provides a number of important cautionary lessons for those promoting regional integration in the Western Hemisphere and the Asia Pacific region However it does not offer a model that these areas can easily follow Wallace emphasizes that the experience of West European economic integration during the cold war years will do little to reconcile global and regional integration in the post cold war world the political and security concerns are no longer the same He contends that the international community must develop rules for the new global order without searching for historical parallels as those creating the institutions of regional integration in Western Europe did in their time A volume of Brookings Integrating National Economies Series Globalization and Regional Integration in Europe and Asia Dr Nam-Kook Kim, 2013-04-28 This volume discusses the current trend of globalization and the main characteristics of world order focusing specifically on the destiny of the nation state the threat against human rights and conflicts between unilateral hegemony of the USA and Europe It examines the contemporary European experience and compares it with Asian reality with a view to implications for the future development of Asia It also discusses regional integration as a framework for bringing stable peace exploring detailed principles and specific forms of a regional community in Asia Contributors from Europe and Asia critically review previous literature on this topic and suggest new theoretical and empirical grounds of regional community in Asia The book takes the viewpoint of comparative civilization and experiences of European integration to offer meaningful lessons for the future of nation states and the possibility of building regional communities in Asia The EU's Experience in Integration Lisheng Dong, Günter Heiduk, 2007 The thirteen ASEAN 3 countries are inching forward toward closer economic cooperation Can the European Union serve as a model for this Asian interregional integration process Although there are common cultural threads running through all ASEAN 3 countries these countries have not so far envisaged themselves forming a political and supra national legal community similar to the EU Nevertheless the EU as innovator and forerunner offers Asia an unparalleled road map to further regional integration Where are the boundaries of the European Model What form will Asian economic cooperation take Asian and European scholars discussed these and other pressing questions on the invitation of the EU China European Studies Centres Programme ESCP at a conference entitled The EU's Experience in Integration A Model for ASEAN 3 held in Shanghai in January 2006 Their findings are presented in this collection of fifteen papers on politics economics and history of the two regions

Regionalisms is a key resource to understanding the major debates in the field. Organized into three main sections, this volume deals with a wide range of issues covering the following important research areas: Section one covers theoretical and methodological approaches to the study of established and formal regionalism, emerging and informal regionalism, inter-regionalism, and levels of regionalism. Section two provides detailed case studies of established and formal regionalisms: EU, NAFTA, ASEAN, SAARC, OAS, MERCOSUR, AU, ECOWAS, and SADC. Section three offers case studies that investigate emerging and informal regionalisms in Oceania, the Arab League, BRICSAM, and the Commonwealth, as well as thought-provoking chapters on micro-regional processes evident in spatial development, initiatives, transnational gangs, transfrontier conservation areas, and the migration-conflict nexus in natural resource sectors. ASEAN Beyond the Regional Crisis Mya Than, 2001. As the regional financial and economic crisis has bottomed out and the ASEAN countries are on the recovery path, this volume seeks to carry out a post-mortem on the crisis to evaluate the sustainability of the recovery and the long-term direction of the ASEAN economies. It also examines the challenges and competitiveness of these economies, which have become significant issues in the post-recovery process. Since it is not sufficient to address the economic and financial aspects, the volume also looks at the human and social dimensions, such as food security, poverty, and cross-border pollution. Furthermore, in the wake of the regional crisis, ASEAN has been criticized as being ineffective. This has prompted a re-examination of the relevance of the regional grouping in its present form, evaluating ASEAN's performance, challenges, and opportunities, and assessing whether there is a need for change.

This book examines the European Union's EU's norm and policy diffusion in relation to the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN). By looking at the EU engagement with ASEAN in trade and non-traditional security, the book analyzes the drivers, processes, and effectiveness of the EU's norm and policy diffusion in ASEAN and explains the EU's foreign policy and power projection in the context of its relationship with ASEAN. In doing so, it helps to advance knowledge about the EU external relations and power projection in relation to regional political entities beyond its immediate borders and affords firsthand empirical material on how the EU's power in global politics is impacted by external perceptions and responses in different policy fields. This book will be of key interest to scholars, students, and practitioners of EU foreign policy, EU-ASEAN relations, and ASEAN politics, and more broadly to European Studies, Comparative Regionalism, Asian Studies, and International Relations.
