Regional Security Ethnicity And Governance:

Regionalism and Regional Security in South Asia Zahid Shahab Ahmed, 2016-04-08 Zahid Shahab Ahmed evaluates the progress of the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation SAARC. This study goes beyond economic integration to present a detailed appraisal of cooperation under the overarching themes of economic cooperation, environmental security, human welfare, and cooperation in security matters. According to the author, SAARC is making progress in addressing the myriad of issues on its agenda. The transition from agreements to actions and frequent interactions among the member states has boosted confidence. The progress of SAARC is more evident in the less controversial areas of human security such as poverty alleviation, health and safety, human resources development, and higher education. Notwithstanding enthusiastic commitments reflected in agreements and action plans, there is a gulf between rhetoric and implementation, most notably in sensitive areas relating to traditional security. In the light of the findings of this study, the author proposes that greater cooperation in common human security areas has a potential to pave the way for a cooperation on issues of a contentious nature, particularly terrorism.

Understanding Security Practices in South Asia Monika Barthwal-Datta, 2012-05-04 This book explores the ways in which non-state actors (NSAs) in South Asia are involved in securitizing non-traditional security challenges in the region at the sub-state level. South Asia is the epicentre of some of the most significant international security challenges today. Yet the complexities of the region's security dynamics remain under-researched. While traditional security issues such as inter-state war, border disputes, and the threat of nuclear devastation in South Asia remain high on the agendas of policy makers and academics both within and beyond the region, scant attention has been paid to non-traditional or new security challenges. Drawing on various case studies, this work offers an innovative analysis of how NSAs in South Asia are shaping security discourses in the region and tackling security challenges at the sub-state level. Through its critique of securitization theory, the book calls for a new approach to studying security practices in South Asia, one which considers NSAs as legitimate security actors. This book will be of much interest to students of security studies, Asian security, Asian politics, critical security studies, and IR in general.

Comparative Regional Security Governance Shaun Breslin, Stuart Croft, 2013-03-01 This book seeks to understand the role of regions in the provision of security and insecurity practices across the globe. Specialists with expertise in the regions they examine present eight case studies and analyses of the Americas, Africa, and the Middle East, South and East Asia, and Europe. Discussing both the state and people in the context of security, this book examines four categories: inter-state security, transnational criminal practices, the drugs trade, human trafficking, migration, proliferation issues, both nuclear and non-nuclear, and issues of domestic state collapse. The book uses an inclusive definition of security to include traditional and non-traditional conceptions and incorporates the use of force and the threat of the use of force as well as issues related to the integrity of peoples. The chapters weave theory and case studies to provide a rich description of a variety of regional governance forms and, where applicable, the absence of them to move beyond regionalism to consider the key determining features of regional governance Comparative Regional Security Governance will be of interest to students and scholars of international security international relations and governance
