Regional Integration And Developing Countries:

Regional Integration Among Developing Countries Rolf J. Langhammer, Ulrich Hiemenz, 1990 Regional Integration Among Developing Countries, Revisited András Inotai, 1991 The formation of new powerful economic and trading blocs and the transition to market economies in Central and perhaps Eastern Europe has fostered a trend toward new regionalism in the world economy which the virtual failure of the GATT negotiations may speed up To minimize economic losses and avoid marginalization regional groups of developing countries must increasingly work out common positions and join one of the influential groups Regional Integration and Development Maurice W. Schiff, L. Alan Winters, 2003 This text examines regionalism from the perspective of developing countries It presents a comprehensive account of existing theory and empirical results and incorporates the findings of formal analyses of the politics and dynamics of regionalism Regional Integration and Developing Countries Robert Christopher York, Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, 1993 Economic Integration and Development Mordechai Elihu Kreinin, Michael G. Plummer, 2003-01-01 The intriguing and provocative results on the effects of the single European market and NAFTA make this short book worth a read even if one is concerned only with how developing countries have been affected by regional trade agreements that do not include them Peter J Montiel Journal of Regional Science This book is an excellent attempt to pin down the effects of regional economic integration on developing countries it will prove to be a good guide for researchers and students of development economics working in the area of regional trading arrangements and policymakers and governments which are in the process of exploring the possibilities of forming free trade areas Pravakar Sahoo Development Policy Review Students interested in either the methodological issues inherent in research on trade or on the economics of trading blocs in general would profit from the book James J Hentz The European Journal of Development Research Questions related to the economics of regionalism became increasingly important beginning in the late 1980s when regional groupings started to become very popular as a tool of commercial policy The goal of this book is to address the question of whether or not regionalism in developed countries has truly benefited developing countries and to what degree regionalism among developing countries and between developed and developing countries will improve economic development prospects Mordechai Kreinin and Michael Plummer consider the implications of the emerging global trend of economic regionalism for developing countries The analysis focuses on the trade and investment effects of integration in developed countries on developing countries as well as the ramifications of regional integration in the latter After an extensive review of the theoretical and empirical literature pertinent to the economics of regionalism the book considers the ex post trade and direct foreign investment effects of the Single Market Program in Europe and NAFTA followed by chapters on ASEAN and economic integration in Latin America primarily MERCOSUR The study suggests three salient conclusions First in designing preferential trading arrangements developed countries should recognize and attempt to minimize the possible discriminating effect on developing countries Second the developing countries have an abiding interest in the success of WTO negotiations that would minimize the discrimination against them of regional groupings in Europe and North America And third any customs unions or free trade areas among the developing countries themselves should be outward looking if they are to enhance the welfare of developing countries Economists and policy scholars as well as readers interested in regionalism and economic development will find this book a great resource Regional Integration Among Developing Countries Rolf J.

Langhammer,Ulrich Hiemenz,1990-01-01 Competition Policy and Regional Integration in Developing Countries

Josef Drexl,2012-01-01 This wonderful volume offers a timely and important look at competition policy where it is changing the most developing countries pursuing regional agreements It provides superb analytical discussions of the impact of regional competition policy integration why developing states have pursued this strategy and the extent to which it is meeting their needs the editors have assembled a superb roster of experts so it is not a surprise that the book recommendations are insightful and deserving of attention from policy makers Andrew Guzman Berkeley Law School US This book presents a detailed study of the interface between regional integration and competition policies of selected regional trade agreements RTAs and the potential of regional competition laws to help developing countries achieve their development goals the book provides insights on the regional integration experiences in developing countries their potential for development and the role of competition law and policy in the process Moreover the book emphasizes the development dimension both of regional competition policies and of competition law This timely book delivers concrete proposals that will help to unleash the potential of regional integration and regional competition policies and also help developing countries to fully enjoy the benefits deriving from a regional market Bringing together analysis from well known scholars in the developed world with practical insight from scholars in countries hoping to exploit the potential of competition law this book will appeal to academics working in the field of competition law practitioners policy makers and officials from developing countries as well as those in development organizations such as UNCTAD Regional Integration in Developing Countries Rasul

Shams,2003 Regional Integration in Europe and Its Effects on Developing Countries Ulrich Hiemenz,Erich

Gundlach,1994 Regional Integration in Europe and Its Effects on Developing Countries Ulrich Hiemenz,Erich

Gundlach,Rolf J. Langhammer,Peter Nunnenkamp,1994-06-01 Regional Integration and Food Security in Developing Countries Alan Matthews,Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2003-01-01 Developing countries are active participants in the formation of regional trade arrangements RTAs but viewpoints differ on the desirability and on the efficient design of regional integration The first objective of this paper is to review the regional integration debate for those involved in the preparation of food security strategies among developing countries The paper concentrates primarily on the economic arguments while acknowledging that political motivations may often be the primary driving force behind RTAs The second objective of the paper is to identify the potential role which regional integration arrangements might make to promoting food security among their members Regional Integration Among Developing Countries B. Mierau, 1983

The Quest for Regional Integration in the Twenty First Century Joram Mukama Biswaro, 2012 In the last five decades the world has witnessed dramatic changes The Cold War has ended and geopolitical relations among the major powers have been generally stable and tranquil Moreover the demise of colonialism has allowed newly independent countries to play a greater role in the international arena and countries that used to be foes have now joined hands to develop their economies and raise the living standards of their peoples At the same time economic integration both regional and global has taken a strong hold There is a growing realization that for the survival of the modern world with increasing cross national links and externalities global cooperation is a necessity The opponents of integration argue that it is merely a guise for exploiting people in developing countries which will cause massive disruptions of lives and with few benefits to the poor Its proponents however point to the significantly reduced levels of poverty in countries that have adopted economic integration such as China India Vietnam Brazil Chile South Africa Tanzania and others The EU experience is a successful example of integrating national economies but how far should those promoting regional integration in Africa and other regions look to the EU as a model Can regional and global integration proceed harmoniously The journey towards fully fledged regional integration in Africa and beyond could be long rough and tough Challenges and fears are enormous but hopes opportunities and prospects are immense From this study it can be further concluded that Regional Integration and Cooperation in the 21st century is a reality and relevant Regional Integration and Developing Countries OECD. , 1993 Regional Integration Altaf Gauhar, 1985

New Dimensions in Regional Integration Jaime De Melo, Arvind Panagariya, 1995 Interest in regional integration has recently revived in both developed and developing countries The US has responded to the lack of progress in the Uruguay Round of the GATT by pursuing bilateral trade negotiations while developing countries have been prompted to re evaluate the potential benefits of regional integration The tendency for the world trading system to divide into three blocs the European Community the Americas and East Asia is providing their members with guaranteed access to large markets however poor non member countries will suffer from the loss of access and the risk of trade wars is increased In this book leading international experts assess the renewed attractiveness of regional integration to individual countries the types of integration that are suitable to various circumstances the conditions necessary to their success and the relationship of regionalism to multilateral free trade Regional Cooperation, and the Role of International Organizations and Regional Integration Maurice Schiff, 2016 Schiff and Winters examine regional cooperation among neighboring countries in the area of regional public goods These public goods include water basins such as lakes rivers and underground water infrastructure such as roads railways and dams energy and the environment Their analysis focuses on developing countries and the potentially beneficial role that international organizations and regional integration may play in bringing the relevant countries to a cooperative equilibrium A major problem in reaching a cooperative solution is likely to be the lack of trust If neighboring countries do not trust each other because of past problems they may fail to reach a cooperative solution as each tries to maximize its gain from the regional public good These strategies typically do not account for spillover effects and ultimately leads to losses for all parties Other constraints on reaching a cooperative solution are its complexity and the financial requirements Two types of institutions may help resolve some or all of these problems International organizations can help with trust expertise and financing The United Nations and the World Bank have been involved in a number of such projects in Africa Asia and elsewhere and have been successful in helping parties reach cooperative solutions Regional integration agreements though not necessary for regional cooperation may also be helpful by embedding the negotiations on regional cooperation in a broader institutional framework The authors examine these issues with the support of both analysis and a number of case studies This paper a product of Trade Development Research Group is part of a larger effort in the group to examine the role and effects of regional integration Maurice Schiff may be contacted at mschiff@worldbank.org

The Development Dimension Regional Perspectives on Aid for Trade OECD,2014-11-03 Based on a rich set of experiences with aid for trade projects and programmes this study finds that regional aid for trade offers great potential as a catalyst for growth development and poverty reduction and recommends greater emphasis on regional aid for trade to spur regional integration Developing Countries and Regional Economic Cooperation M. Leann Brown,1994-11-22 Regional economic organizations of developing countries have a mixed record of success The author examines national decisions regional institutions and selected cases using a cognitive framing model in order to better understand the reasons behind their failures and successes Case studies are included on Chile Andean Pact Nigeria ECOWAS and the Philippines ASEAN This study will interest researchers and graduate level students of regional economic integration political economy of developing countries as well as specialists in Latin America West Africa and Southeast Asia The Role of Institutions in Regional Integration Among Developing Countries Dusan Sidjanski,United Nations Conference on Trade and Development,1974
