Between Worlds Linda Chisholm, 2017-11-30

How the story of how missionary schools adopted the Bantu education reforms gives insight into the ongoing legacy of the apartheid in the South African educational system The transition from apartheid to the post apartheid era has highlighted questions about the past and the persistence of its influence in present day South Africa This is particularly so in education where the past continues to play a decisive role in relation to inequality

Between Worlds German Missionaries and the Transition from Mission to Bantu Education in South Africa scrutinises the experience of a hitherto unexplored German mission society probing the complexities and paradoxes of social change in education It raises challenging questions about the nature of mission education legacies Linda Chisholm shows that the transition from mission to Bantu Education was far from seamless Instead past and present interpenetrated one another with resistance and compliance cohabiting in a complex new social order At the same time as missionaries complied with the new Bantu Education dictates they sought to secure a role for themselves in the face of demands of local communities for secular state controlled education When the latter was implemented in a perverted form from the mid 1950s one of its tools was textbooks in local languages developed by mission societies as part of a transnational project with African participation Introduced under the guise of expunging European control Bantu Education merely served to reinforce such control The response of local communities was an attempt to domesticate and master the foreign body of the mission so as to create access to a larger world This book focuses on the ensuing struggle fought on many fronts including medium of instruction and textbook content with concomitant sub texts relating to gender roles and sexuality South Africa s educational history is to this day informed by networks of people and ideas crossing geographic and racial boundaries The colonial legacy has inevitably involved cultural mixing and hybridisation with paradoxically parallel pleas for purity Chisholm explores how these ideas found expression in colliding and coalescing worlds one African the other European caught between mission and apartheid education

Public History and Culture in South Africa Ali Khangela Hlongwane, Sifiso Mxolisi Ndlovu, 2019-04-11 The post apartheid era in South Africa has in the space of nearly two decades experienced a massive memory boom manifest in a plethora of new memorials and museums and in the renaming of streets buildings cities and more across the country This memorialisation is intricately linked to questions of power liberation and public history in the making and remaking of the South African nation Ali Khangela Hlongwane and Sifiso Mxolisi Ndlovu analyse an array of these liberation heritage sites including the Hector Pieterse Memorial and Museum the June 16 1976 Interpretation Centre the Apartheid Museum and the Mandela House Museum foregrounding the work of migrant workers architects visual artists and activists in the practice of memorialisation As they argue memorialisation has been integral to the process of state and nation formation from the pre colonial era through the present day

The Literature Police Peter D. McDonald, 2010-10-14 Censorship may have to do with literature Nadine Gordimer once said but literature has nothing whatever to do with censorship As the history of many repressive regimes shows this vital borderline has seldom been so clearly demarcated Just how murky it can sometimes be is compellingly exemplified in the case of apartheid South Africa For reasons that were neither obvious nor historically inevitable the apartheid censors were not only the agents of the white minority government s repressive anxieties about the medium of print They were also officially certified guardians of the literary This book is centrally about the often unpredictable cultural consequences of this paradoxical situation Peter D McDonald brings to light a wealth of new evidence from the once secret archives of the censorship bureaucracy from the records of resistance publishers and writers groups both in the country and abroad and uses extensive oral testimony He tells the strangely tangled stories of censorship and literature in apartheid South Africa and in the process uncovers an extraordinarily complex web of cultural connections linking Europe and Africa East and West The Literature Police affords a unique perspective on one of the most anachronistic exploitative and racist modern states of the post war era and on some of the many forms of cultural resistance it inspired It also raises urgent questions about how we understand the category of the literary in today s globalized intercultural world

Sharpeville Tom Lodge, 2011-05-12 On 21 March 1960 several hundred black Africans were injured and 69 killed when South African police opened fire on demonstrators in the township of Sharpeville protesting against the Apartheid regime s racist pass laws The Sharpeville Massacre as the event has become known signalled the start of armed resistance in South Africa and prompted worldwide condemnation of South Africa s Apartheid policies The events at Sharpeville deeply affected the attitudes of both black and white in South Africa and provided a major stimulus to the development of an international

Anti Apartheid movement In Sharpeville Tom Lodge explains how and why the Massacre occurred looking at the social and political background to the events of March 1960 as well as the sequence of events that prompted the shootings themselves He then broadens his focus to explain the long term consequences of Sharpeville explaining how it affected South African politics over the following decades both domestically and also in the country s relationship with the rest of the world

Monarchs, Missionaries and African Intellectuals Bhekizizwe Peterson,2000 Two case studies constitute the core around which is woven this intriguing story of the development of black theatre in South Africa in the early years of the century The first centres on Mariannhill Mission in Natal Here the evangelical and pedagogical drama pioneered by the Rev Bernard Hiss is considered alongside the work of one of the mission s most eminent alumni the poet and scholar B W Vilakazi The second moves to Johannesburg and gives a detailed insight into the working of the Bantu Dramatic Society and the drama of H I E Dholomo in relation to the British Drama League and other white liberal cultural activities from p 4 of cover

African Perspectives of King Dingane kaSenzangakhona Sifiso Mxolisi Ndlovu,2017-08-06 This book examines the active role played by Africans in the pre colonial production of historical knowledge in South Africa focusing on perspectives of the second king of amaZulu King Dingane It draws upon a wealth of oral traditions izibongo and the work of public intellectuals such as Magolwane kaMkhathini Jiyane and Mshongweni to present African perspectives of King Dingane as multifaceted and in some cases constructed according to socio political formations and aimed at particular audiences By bringing African perspectives to the fore this innovative historiography centralizes indigenous African languages in the production of historical knowledge

The British Empire and the First World War Ashley Jackson,2017-06-26 The British Empire played a crucial part in the First World War supplying hundreds of thousands of soldiers and labourers as well as a range of essential resources from foodstuffs to minerals mules and munitions In turn many imperial territories were deeply affected by wartime phenomena such as inflation food shortages combat and the presence of large numbers of foreign troops This collection offers a comprehensive selection of essays illuminating the extent of the Empire s war contribution and experience and the richness of scholarly research on the subject Whether supporting British military operations aiding the British imperial economy or experiencing significant wartime effects on the home fronts of the Empire the war had a profound impact on the colonies and their people The chapters in this volume were originally published in Australian
