Revising Herself Ruthellen Josselson, 1998-04-23 In 1972 Ruthellen Josselson was a young psychologist fascinated by the riddle of how a woman creates an identity and chooses one path over another in life particularly in the face of the nascent feminist movement which challenged as never before the traditional role models of earlier generations Selecting at random thirty young women in their last year of college Josselson undertook a ground breaking study that would follow these women s personal odysseys over the next twenty two years from graduation to midlife What she learned about the ways women reinvent themselves in an ever changing world is the subject of Revising Herself a myth shattering look at both a unique generation of American women on the front lines of wrenching social change and at the conflicts and compromises facing women today With stunning candor and hard won insight the ordinary and anonymous women in Josselson s study reveal how much more complex and interesting real women s lives are than the one dimensional stereotypes often portrayed in the media Dismissing a traditional stage theory of development as overly simplistic Josselson identifies four trajectories that women take from adolescence to adulthood Guardians are the good girls high achieving and committed to fulfilling their family s expectations but rigid in outlook and resistant to change Pathmakers are not afraid of risk or commitment striving to balance their own needs with others The often idealistic Searchers are overwhelmed by choice and unable to make commitments while Drifters live only for the moment avoiding choice and an exploration of identity Reflecting the degree to which women take risks make choices and form commitments these paths form a foundation for adulthood but they also lead to surprises at midlife Guardians seem strikingly able to cut loose from earlier traditional patterns while many Drifters have found themselves sometimes in quite traditional ways And coming of age just as the feminist movement gathered momentum the women in Josselson s study were the first to confront many contemporary issues not faced by their mothers or their mothers mothers How does an Irish Catholic contemplate an abortion How does a woman whose parents believe education is wasted on a daughter find the will to apply to medical school In examining these questions and others Josselson shows that the forging of a woman's identity whatever her path is ongoing a balancing of the need for self assertion against the equally compelling need for relationships Women create their identities along the seams of both competence and connection and continually revise what they have made Allowing women to define themselves in their own terms Revising Herself holds up a provocative mirror in which readers can reflect upon their own life choices Whether a Guardian Pathmaker Searcher or Drifter readers will recognize themselves in these women's experiences and gain new insight into how we construct our identities over a lifetime Medium Rare: For Deader or Worse Michelle Witvliet, 2025-02-26 As a medium Jennifer Flagg has dealt with the dead for many years Having died herself a few weeks earlier made her birthday celebration this year that much sweeter because she shared the day with her family and friends like her death never happened Since her birthday Jennifer's parabilities have expanded to a point where she doesn't know what will manifest next When the place where she works burns down she's enlisted to help her detective fiancé search for the missing business owner She uses those newly emerging abilities to apprehend the perpetrators and solve the case Being a paranormal does have its perks The Erotic Screen Thomas Wolman, 2020-02-29 The Erotic Screen takes as its starting point that Hollywood movies were steeped in eroticism from the beginning but censorship forced filmmakers to devise hidden sexual subtexts to preserve a film's subliminal eroticism In this way Hollywood films seed our collective psyches with unconscious subtexts Science fiction films are particularly effective using horror to induce sexual excitement as studied in Part I The nature of desire in a trio of science fiction thrillers Another device was to display unrestricted consumption of alcohol and tobacco and gratuitous spending Today this is a cliché of mainstream cinema but some filmmakers expose the dark underbelly The five films scrutinized in Part II Portraits of addiction in Hollywood melodrama make explicit the connections between greed addictions and sexuality Finally in Part III Perverse desire in mainstream cinema the nuanced position toward the psychosexual obsessions on view in the films is investigated by posing the provocative question of whether S M practice can work as a cure for psychic suffering by raising the alarm over sexuality run amok in a suburban community and by offering a devastating critique of voyeurism's fatal attraction to viewers The Erotic Screen is an investigation of the nature of human sexuality through the medium of film It stirs up discussion and debate and helps these movies live on in our minds Women's Studies in the 1990s Joanna de Groot, Mary Maynard, 2016-07-27 This interdisciplinary collection is concerned with important theoretical and methodological issues facing women's studies Drawing on feminist theory and politics it addresses a range of questions raised for women's studies by work conducted in history literature politics and sociology The editors provide a context for these debates in their introductory essay which gives an overview of the development of women's studies and reflects on its current position In their concluding chapter they also suggest a framework from which women's studies might move forward Curriculum Studies Handbook - The Next Moment Erik Malewski, 2009-09-10 What comes after the reconceptualization of curriculum studies What is the contribution of the next wave of curriculum scholars Comprehensive and on the cutting edge this

Handbook speaks to these questions and extends the conversation on present and future directions in curriculum studies through the work of twenty four newer scholars who explore each in their own unique ways the present moment in curriculum studies To contextualize the work of this up and coming generation each chapter is paired with a shorter response by a well known scholar in the field provoking an intra inter generational exchange that illuminates both historical trajectories and upcoming moments From theorizing at the crossroads of feminist thought and post colonialism to new perspectives that include critical race currere queer southern studies Black feminist cultural analysis post structural policy studies spiritual ecology and East West international philosophies present and future directions in the U S American field are revealed

Psychomagic Alejandro Jodorowsky, 2010-06-18 A healing path using the power of dreams theater poetry and shamanism Shows how psychological realizations can cause true transformation when manifested by concrete poetic acts Includes many examples of the surreal but successful actions Jodorowsky has prescribed to those seeking his help While living in Mexico Alejandro Jodorowsky became familiar with the colorful and effective cures provided by folk healers He realized that it is easier for the unconscious to understand the language of dreams than that of rationality Illness can even be seen as a physical dream that reveals unresolved emotional and psychological problems Psychomagic presents the shamanic and genealogical principles Jodorowsky discovered to create a healing therapy that could use the powers of dreams art and theater to empower individuals to heal wounds that in some cases had traveled through generations The concrete and often surreal poetic actions Jodorowsky employs are part of an elaborate strategy intended to break apart the dysfunctional persona with whom the patient identifies in order to connect with a deeper self That is when true transformation can manifest For a young man who complained that he lived only in his head and was unable to grab hold of reality and advance toward the financial autonomy he desired Jodorowsky gave the prescription to paste two gold coins to the soles of his shoes so that all day he would be walking on gold A judge whose vanity was ruling his every move was given the task of dressing like a tramp and begging outside one of the fashionable restaurants he loved to frequent while pulling glass doll eyes out of his pockets The lesson for him was that if a tramp can fill his pockets with eyeballs then they must be of no value and thus the eyes of others should have no bearing on who you are and what you do Taking his patients directly at their words Jodorowsky takes the same elements associated with a negative emotional charge and recasts them in an action that will make them positive and enable them to pay the psychological debts hindering their lives

Broken Irelands Mary M. McGlynn, 2022-10-17 While the national narrative coming out of Ireland since the 2008 economic crisis has been relentlessly sanguine fiction has offered a more nuanced perspective from both well established and emerging authors In Broken Irelands McGlynn examines Irish fiction of the post crash era addressing the proliferation of writing that downplays realistic and grammatical coherence Noting that these traits have the effect of diminishing human agency blurring questions of responsibility and emphasizing emotion over rationality McGlynn argues that they reflect and respond to social and economic conditions during the global economic crisis and its aftermath of recession austerity and precarity Rather than focusing on overt discussions of the crash and recession McGlynn explores how the dominance of an economic worldview including a pervasive climate of financialized discourse shapes the way stories are told In the writing of such authors as Anne Enright Colum McCann Mike McCormack and Lisa McInerney McGlynn unpacks the ways that formal departures from realism through grammatical asymmetries like unconventional verb tenses novel syntactic choices and reliance on sentence fragments align with a cultural moment shaped by feelings of impotence and rhetorics of personal responsibility
