Manuela Semidei, 1968 Reinventing Revolution Edward J Mccaughan, 2019-05-20 Based on in depth interviews with seventy four intellectuals of the lefts in Cuba and Mexico Reinventing Revolution explores the rapidly changing thinking of progressives on the big and enduring questions of democracy economic alternatives and national sovereignty Offering a unique world systems perspective on the sociology of intellectuals and Case Studies in Insurgency and Revolutionary Warfare Norman A. Bilan de la révolution cubaine, 1976

State and Revolution in Cuba Robert Whitney, 2017-11-01 Between 1920 and 1940 Cuba underwent a remarkable transition moving from oligarchic rule to a nominal constitutional democracy The events of this period are crucial to a full understanding of the nation's political evolution yet they are often glossed over in accounts that focus more heavily on the revolution of 1959 With this book Robert Whitney accords much needed attention to a critical stage in Cuban history Closely examining the upheavals of the period which included a social revolution in 1933 and a military coup led by Fulgencio Batista one year later Whitney argues that the eventual rise of a more democratic form of government came about primarily because of the mass mobilization by the popular classes against oligarchic capitalism which was based on historically elite status

rather than on a modern sense of nation Although from the 1920s to the 1940s politicians and political activists were bitterly divided over what popular and modern state power meant this new generation of politicians shared the idea that a modern state should produce a new and democratic Cuba

Revolution and Reaction in Cuba Samuel Farber, 2007-04 Revolution and Reaction in Cuba 1933 1960 is an historical study of the Cuban Revolution of 1959 and at the same time an explanation of Castro's rise to power Rather than an event by event description of this upheaval it is a careful consideration of the entire period from the Revolution of 1933 until early in 1960 when Cuba became openly and fully Communist Applying the techniques of the sociological method to his examination of historical facts Mr Farber places as much emphasis on Cuban society during this crucial period as on Cuban politics He examines the development of political groups in terms of how they emerged from or were expressions of the Cuban class structure emphasizing the impact of the events of the 1933 Revolution in forming attitudes and institutions important to the Revolution of 1959 His conclusions deny the commonly accepted thesis that the Castro revolution was created by the revolt of a particular class He categorizes it instead as Bonapartist in the Marxian sense of the word That is as having had a revolutionary leadership not directly responsive to any single class but rather manipulative of all classes since none alone was strong enough to dominate
