Mair, Nancy Shatzman Steinhardt, Paul R. Goldin, 2005-01-31 The Hawai'i Reader in Traditional Chinese Culture is a collection of more than ninety primary sources all but a few of which were translated specifically for this volume of cultural significance from the Bronze Age to the turn of the twentieth century They take into account virtually every aspect of traditional culture including sources from the non Sinitic ethnic minorities Archives of Asian Art, 2001 Tao Yuanming and Manuscript Culture Xiaofei Tian, 2011-07-01 Winner of a 2006 Choice Magazine Outstanding Academic Title Award As medieval Chinese manuscripts were copied and recopied through the centuries both mistakes and deliberate editorial changes were introduced thereby affecting readers' impressions of the author's intent In Tao Yuanming and Manuscript Culture Xiaofei Tian shows how readers not only experience authors but produce them by shaping texts to their interpretation Tian examines the mechanics and history of textual transmission in China by focusing on the evolution over the centuries of the reclusive poet Tao Yuanming into a figure of epic stature Considered emblematic of the national character Tao Yuanming also known as Tao Qian 365-427 c.e. is admired for having turned his back on active government service and city life to live a simple rural life of voluntary poverty The artlessness of his poetic style is held as the highest literary and moral ideal and literary critics have taken great pains to demonstrate perfect consistency between Tao Yuanming's life and poetry Earlier work on Tao Yuanming has tended to accept this image interpreting the poems to confirm the image Tao Yuanming and Manuscript Culture is a study of how this cultural icon was produced and of the elusive traces of another historical Tao Yuanming behind the icon By comparing four early biographies of the poet Tian shows how these are in large measure constructed out of Tao Yuanming's self image as projected in his poetry and prose Drawing on work in European medieval literature she demonstrates the fluidity of the Chinese medieval textual world and how its materials were historically reconfigured for later purposes Tian finds in Tao's poetic corpus not one essentialized Tao Yuanming but multiple texts continuously produced long after the author's physical demise Her provocative look at the influence of manuscript culture on literary perceptions transcends its immediate subject and has special resonance today when the transition from print to electronic media is shaking the literary world in a way not unlike the transition from handwritten to print media in medieval China

Persian Christians at the Chinese Court R. Todd Godwin, 2018-01-30 The Xi'an Stele erected in Tang China's capital in 781 describes in both Syriac and Chinese the existence of Christian communities in northern China While scholars have so far considered the Stele exclusively in relation to the Chinese cultural and historical context Todd Godwin here demonstrates that it can only be fully understood by reconstructing the complex connections that existed between the Church of the East Sasanian aristocratic culture and the Tang Empire 617-907 between the fall of the Sasanian Persian Empire 225-651 and the birth of the Abbasid Caliphate 762-1258 Through close textual re-analysis of the Stele and by drawing on ancient sources in Syriac Greek Arabic and Chinese Godwin demonstrates that Tang China 617-907 was a cosmopolitan milieu where multiple religious traditions namely Buddhism Zoroastrianism Manichaeism and Christianity formed zones of elite culture Syriac Christianity in fact remained powerful in Persia throughout the period and Christianity not Zoroastrianism was officially regarded by the Tang government as The Persian Religion Persian Christians at the Chinese Court uncovers the role played by Syriac Christianity in the economic and cultural integration of late Sasanian Iran and China and is important reading for all scholars of the Church of the East China and the Middle East in the medieval period

The Tragedy of Lin Biao Frederick C. Teiwes, Warren Sun, 1996-01-01 The Lin Biao affair which saw the Minister of Defence dramatically rise to become Mao Zedong s designated successor at the start of the Cultural Revolution in 1966 and even more dramatically die in a plane crash while fleeing his country in September 1971 remains the least understood of all Chinese Communist Party elite conflicts of the Maoist era Despite the pivotal importance of Lin s rise and fall in the history of contemporary China his career has received little scholarly attention In this pathbreaking study Frederick Teiwes and Warren Sun offer an interpretation which radically undermines the standard view of Lin Biao as an ambitious politician who manoeuvred his way to the top adopted a radical position during the Cultural Revolution to promote his own interests and eventually came undone by seeking to consolidate his own power and military dominance over the polity thus leading to a vicious power struggle with Mao They reveal Lin as someone basically uninterested in power or even politics who was thrust into leading positions and the successor role by Mao against his wishes who never opposed Mao politically but instead attempted to follow his wishes in every way to the extent that they could be determined who had no policy programme whose rare initiatives were on the side of moderation and whose political decline was due to Mao s reaction to complex factors unconnected with either a bid by Lin for personal aggrandizement or an effort to entrench army power In this Teiwes and Sun refute both the official Chinese verdict on Lin Biao and the prevailing Western interpretation

Power of Place James Robson, 2020-03-17 Throughout Chinese history mountains have been integral components of the religious landscape They have been considered divine or numinous sites the abodes of deities the preferred locations for temples and monasteries and destinations for pilgrims Early in Chinese history a set of five mountains were co-opted into the imperial cult and declared sacred peaks yet demarcating and protecting the boundaries of the Chinese imperium The Southern Sacred Peak or Nanyue is of interest to scholars not the least because the title has been awarded to several different mountains over the years The dynamic nature of Nanyue raises a significant theoretical issue of the mobility of sacred space and the nature of the struggles involved in such moves Another facet of Nanyue is the multiple meanings assigned to this place political religious and cultural Of particular interest is the negotiation of this space by Daoists and Buddhists The history of their interaction leads to questions about the nature of the divisions between these two religious traditions James Robson's analysis of these topics demonstrates the value of local studies and the emerging field of Buddhist Daoist studies in research on Chinese religion
