Apoptosis and Beyond, 2 Volume Set James A. Radosevich, 2018-12-27 These volumes teach readers to think beyond apoptosis and describes all of the known processes that cells can undergo which result in cell death This two volume source on how cells dies is the first comprehensive collection to cover all of the known processes that cells undergo when they die It is also the only one of its kind to compare these processes It seeks to enlighten those in the field about these many processes and to stimulate their thinking at looking at these pathways when their research system does not show signs of activation of the classic apoptotic pathway In addition it links activities like the molecular biology of one process eg Necrosis to another process eg apoptosis and contrasts those that are close to each Volume 1 of Apoptosis and Beyond The Many Ways Cells Die begins with a general view of the cytoplasmic and nuclear features of apoptosis It then goes on to offer chapters on targeting the cell death mechanism microbial programmed cell death autophagy cell injury adaptation and necrosis necroptosis ferroptosis anoikis pyronecrosis and more Volume 2 covers such subjects as phenoptosis pyroptosis hematopoiesis and eryptosis cyclophilin d dependent necrosis and the role of phospholipase in cell death Covers all known processes that dying cells undergo Provides extensive coverage of a topic not fully covered before Offers chapters written by top researchers in the field Provides activities that link and contrast processes to each other Apoptosis and Beyond The Many Ways Cells Die will appeal to students and researchers clinicians in cell biology molecular biology oncology and tumor biology

The Enzymes of Biological Membranes A.N. Martonosi, 2012-12-06 In the first edition of The Enzymes of Biological Membranes published in four volumes in 1976 we collected the mass of widely scattered information on membrane linked enzymes and metabolic processes up to about 1975 This was a period of transition from the romantic phase of membrane biochemistry preoccupied with conceptual developments and the general properties of membranes to an era of mounting interest in the specific properties of membrane linked enzymes analyzed from the viewpoints of modern enzymology The level of sophistication in various areas of membrane research varied widely the structures of cytochrome c and cytochrome b5 were known to atomic detail while the majority of membrane linked enzymes had not even been isolated In the intervening eight years our knowledge of membrane linked enzymes expanded beyond the wildest expectations The purpose of the second edition of The Enzymes of Biological Membranes is to record these developments The first volume describes the physical and chemical techniques used in the analysis of the structure and dynamics of biological membranes In the second volume the enzymes and metabolic systems that participate in the biosynthesis of cell and membrane components are discussed The third and fourth volumes review recent developments in active transport oxidative phosphorylation and photosynthesis

Cecilia M. Fenoglio-Preiser, Marianne Wolff, Franco Rilke, 2013-06-29 Zoology P. Spencer Davies, A. Punt, G. M. Hughes, 2013-09-03 Perspectives in Experimental Biology Volume 1 Zoology contains the proceedings of the 50th Anniversary Meeting of the Society for Experimental Biology held at the University of Cambridge UK on July 16 19 1974 The papers explore research in zoology and cover a wide range of topics such as osmotic and ionic regulation invertebrate and insect physiology respiratory physiology and cell chemistry Comprised of 43 chapters this volume begins with an introduction to the history of the Society for Experimental Biology followed by a discussion on calcium metabolism and acid base balance in Helix pomatia Subsequent chapters explore water movement in cells and tissues ion transport and osmoregulation in marine fish hormonal control of reproduction in cephalopods and how hormones affect flight in the locust Other sections focus on the temperature dependence of the respiratory activity of mitochondria biochemical mechanisms of tissue injury laser light scattering from nerve and motile cells transmitter release from insect motoneurons and neural consequences of early experience in birds The final section is devoted to animal locomotion and includes chapters that address undulatory swimming in polychaetes and energy storage in jumping animals This book is intended for research workers and undergraduates interested in experimental biology Methods in Membrane Biology Edward D. Korn, 2012-12-06 Three articles make up Volume 10 of Methods in Membrane Biology In the first of these Papahadjopoulos Poste and Vail extensively review much of the available data on the fusion of natural membranes model membranes liposomes and natural membranes with liposomes The authors are led by their review of the experimental methods and their interpretations of the results obtained to a general theory of membrane fusion which they believe is applicable to all systems that have been studied Arguing that although protein and carbohydrate may serve in some cases to bring membranes into sufficiently close proximity for fusion to occur and in other cases to remove peripheral and integral proteins from the regions that are to undergo fusion the authors conclude that membrane fusion per se is solely a property of the lipid bilayer In their view all the experimental observations to date can be subsumed under a unifying hypothesis in which membrane fusion is the result of a phase separation in one half of the membrane bilayer brought about by the interaction of calcium ions with acidic phospholipids mostly phosphatidylserine Where half membranes already contain sufficient acidic phospholipids a local increase in calcium ion concentration may suffice to induce fusion examples might include exocytosis and fusion of intracellular membrane systems In other cases natural or experimentally induced events preceding fusion might be necessary to increase the local concentration of the acidic phospholipids in the half membrane virus or fusogenic agent induced cell to cell fusion or endocytosis for example International Review of Cytology ,1981-05-19 International Review of Cytology

Pathophysiology of Severe Ischemic Myocardial Injury H.M. Piper, 2012-12-06 In industrialized countries ischemic heart disease is by far the most common organ specific cause of death The thrombotic occlusion of a coronary artery which had previously been severely altered by atherosclerosis is the most frequent cause of ischemic deterioration of myocardial tissue i e myocardial infarction Death of the human individual occurs when myocardial ischemia causes a critical impairment of cardiac pump function The failure of a heart with an ischemic area may be due to the amount and location of contractile tissue becoming paralyzed or even necrotic or to arrhythmias provoked by the ischemic condition or by a combination of both factors Considerable progress has been made in the development of antiarrhythmic therapy Effective tools have been developed to reperfuse ischemic myocardial tissue as soon as the patient reaches hospital However therapeutical principles for the ischemic reperfused myocardium which would specifically interfere with the state of injury of the ischemic tissue at the onset of reperfusion and avoid the apparent hazards of the reperfusion process itself have yet to be established But not only approved therapeutical concepts are lacking the pathophysiology of myocardial cell injury in progressive ischemia and under reperfusion is in itself only partly understood

International Review of Connective Tissue Research David A. Hall,D. S.
