Rudy, 2003 Drugs Alcohol and Social Problems a collection edited James D Orcutt and David R Rudy includes 14 clearly written articles that exemplify the best of sociological scholarship on drug and alcohol problems The readings strike a balance between constructionist epidemiological and ethnographic approaches to the study of drinking drug use and related problems such as domestic violence crime and the spread of HIV AIDS A general introduction and five section introductions written especially for this volume highlight basic theoretical questions and analytical themes that run through the articles In contrast to many books on problems of substance use Drugs Alcohol and Social Problems devotes equal attention to drug and alcohol related issues The volume is organized around important theoretical and research approaches to the sociology of social problems making it suitable for adoption as a supplement in undergraduate courses on social problems as well as for more specialized undergraduate and graduate courses in the area of drug and alcohol studies

Social Problems Donileen R. Loseke, Joel Best, 2017 This collection of focused essays is directed at several levels of students of social problems It is accessible to the uninitiated who are not familiar with the constructionist literature and aimed at those who are not particularly interested in subtle theoretical and empirical issues of concern to academics studying social problems from constructionist perspectives Some readings focus on the construction of problems by scientists and other professionals others examine the work of social activists mass media and social service personnel Among the topics included are studies of social inequalities and individual deviance a comparison of the images of social problems in the United States with those in other countries and an examination of the importance of politics and power in constructing public images of social problems Constructionist perspectives have become the leading theoretical approach for sociology and allied fields in studying social problems Yet constructionists impact on the teaching of social problems has been far less dramatic Undergraduate courses on social problems are often subject to a theoretical barrage of eclectic perspectives Just as the first social problems textbooks did almost a century ago textbooks continue to present a series of unrelated chapters each devoted to a particular social problem Social Problems is an effort at systematic analysis rather than random thought on the subject Social Problems presents detailed case studies demonstrating how constructionist perspectives can actually be applied to understand particular social problems While these articles can be read alone the editors have organized these selections to correspond with the chapter topics in the second edition of Donileen Loseke s Thinking about Social Problems an accessible introduction to constructionist approaches At the same time some instructors who use this edited collection might wish to provide their own mix to the selection process Many of the contributions make multiple points and so reasonably could be used to illustrate other basic texts or classic studies in the field of social problems Donileen R Loseke is professor of sociology at the University of South Florida Joel Best is professor and chair Department of Sociology and Criminal Justice University of Delaware He has also served as an advisory editor for Aldine in the area of social problems
