Musical Observer ,1916 The Congregationalist ,1922 Islam & Civil Society in Southeast Asia Mitsuo Nakamura, Sharon Siddique, Omar Farouk Bajunid, 2001 The Islamic world often regarded as an anathema to civil society in fact has rich traditions of associational life pursuing common good These religious resources have been reinterpreted for the enhancement of civic virtues and participatory politics in contemporary context that is democratization Such pioneering efforts have been clearly observable in Muslim Southeast Asia In November 1999 the Sasakawa Peace Foundation invited ten Muslim activists and scholars from the region to Japan for exchanging views and experiences among themselves and with Japanese participants Here their papers and discussions are compiled into a book Islam and Civil Society in Southeast Asia

The Politics of Multiculturalism Robert W. Hefner, 2001-08-31 Few challenges to the modern dream of democratic citizenship appear greater than the presence of severe ethnic religious and linguistic divisions in society With their diverse religions and ethnic communities the Southeast Asian countries of Malaysia Singapore and Indonesia have grappled with this problem since achieving independence after World War II Each country has on occasion been torn by violence over the proper terms for accommodating pluralism Until the Asian economic crisis of 1997 however these nations also enjoyed one of the most sustained economic expansions the non Western world has ever seen This timely volume brings together fifteen leading specialists of the region to consider the impact of two generations of nation building and market making on pluralism and citizenship in these deeply divided Asian societies Examining the new face of pluralism from the perspective of markets politics gender and religion the studies show that each country has developed a strikingly different response to the challenges of citizenship and diversity The contributors most of whom come Southeast Asia pay particular attention to the tension between state and societal approaches to citizenship They suggest that the achievement of an effectively participatory public sphere in these countries will depend not only on the presence of an independent civil society but on a synergy of state and society that nurtures a public culture capable of mediating ethnic religious and gender divides The Politics of Multiculturalism will be of special interest to students of Southeast Asian history and society anthropologists grappling with questions of citizenship and culture political scientists studying democracy across cultures and all readers concerned with the prospects for civility and tolerance in a multicultural world Arts & Humanities Citation Index ,2000 The Watchman-examiner ,1922 Princeton Alumni Weekly ,1929 The Congregationalist ,1922
