Developing a framework to study what makes a region Amitav Acharya investigates the origins and evolution of Southeast Asian regionalism and international relations He views the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN from the bottom up as not only a U S inspired ally in the Cold War struggle against communism but also an organization that reflects indigenous traditions Although Acharya deploys the notion of imagined community to examine the changes especially since the Cold War in the significance of ASEAN dealings for a regional identity he insists that imagination is itself not a neutral but rather a culturally variable concept The regional imagination in Southeast Asia imagines a community of nations different from NAFTA or NATO the OAU or the European Union In this new edition of a book first published as The Quest for Identity in 2000 Acharya updates developments in the region through the first decade of the new century the aftermath of the financial crisis of 1997 security affairs after September 2001 the long term impact of the 2004 tsunami and the substantial changes wrought by the rise of China as a regional and global actor Acharya argues in this important book for the crucial importance of regionalism in a different part of the world      Non-Western International Relations Theory Amitav Acharya, Barry Buzan, 2009-12-22

Given that the world has moved well beyond the period of Western colonialism and clearly into a durable period in which non Western cultures have gained their political autonomy it is long past time that non Western voices had a higher profile in debates about international relations not just as disciples of Western schools of thought but as inventors of their own approaches Western IR theory has had the advantage of being the first in the field and has developed many valuable insights but few would defend the position that it captures everything we need to know about world politics In this book Acharya and Buzan introduce non Western IR traditions to a Western IR audience and challenge the dominance of Western theory An international team of experts reinforce existing criticisms that IR theory is Western focused and therefore misrepresents and misunderstands much of world history by introducing the reader to non Western traditions literature and histories relevant to how IR is conceptualised Including case studies on Chinese Japanese South Korean Southeast Asian Indian and Islamic IR this book redresses the imbalance and opens up a cross cultural comparative perspective on how and why thinking about IR has developed in the way it has As such it will be invaluable reading for both Western and Asian audiences interested in international relations theory      South East Asia in the World-Economy Chris J. Dixon, 1991-07-26

South East Asia has for many centuries occupied a pivotal position in the wider Asian economy linking China and the Far East with India and the Middle East and since the early 1500s the region has also played a major role in the world economy South East Asia in the World economy is a textbook survey of the area s interaction with these wider regional and international structure Professor Chris Dixon demonstrates how this region s role has undergone frequent and profound chance as a result of the successive emergency and dominance of mercantile industrial and finance capital He shows how the region has developed as a supplier of luxury product such as spices as a producer of bulk primary products and how since the mid 1960s it has become a major recipient of investment and a favoured location for European and American markets The author examines how these phases in the evolution of the international economy have been reflected in the relations of evolution of the production and in the spatial pattern of economic activity He also discusses how the progressive integration of South East Asia in the world economy has established the dominance of a small number of core areas and produced a pattern of uneven development throughout the region In a concluding chapter Chris Dixon explores the prospects for South East Asia in the 1990s in the light of the restructuring of the world economy
