Subcommittee on Housing, 1971 Air Quality Management and Research in Southeast Asia Erik Velasco, Armando Retama, Dimitris Stratoulis, 2024-12-01 This book examines the capabilities for monitoring air quality developing emission inventories and running chemical transport models for regulatory forecasting and research purposes in Southeast Asia It also reviews scientific efforts made to better understand and characterize air pollution in the region Poor air quality poses a threat to public health It affects people s lives and undermines economic growth but as in many other parts of the world it has been overlooked in Southeast Asia International assessments suggest that it is the culprit of 335

thousand premature deaths in the region each year entailing a monetary cost equivalent to 6.75% of the regional GDP. Reducing air pollution requires concerted efforts from all Southeast Asian nations to implement local and regional air quality policies following a science policy approach. For such endeavor it is essential to develop tools that enable timely and reliable air quality management. This entails collecting data to characterize the magnitude, origin and impact of air pollution to support corrective actions. The objective of this book is to provide a starting point for a science based conversation about implementing solutions to Southeast Asia's air pollution problem by bringing together an analysis of the availability of air quality data and studies from across the region.

National Security and Human Health Implications of Climate Change Harindra Joseph Fernando, Z.B. Klaić, J.L. McCulley, 2012-01-06. Climate change has been identified as one of the greatest threats to humanity of all times. In addition to producing adverse environmental conditions such as rising sea level, drought, crop failure, vector borne diseases, extreme events, degradation of water, air quality and heat waves, climate change is also considered a threat multiplier that leads to local and international conflicts and armed interventions. Urban areas may bear the brunt of climate change as they are the centers of human habitation, anthropogenic stressors and environmental degradation, and the ensuing health impacts are of grave societal concern. The papers in this volume span a suite of climate change repercussions, paying particular attention to national security and human health aspects. It is an outcome of a NATO Advanced Research Workshop held during April 28-30, 2011 in Dubrovnik, Croatia, sponsored by the NATO Science for Peace and Security Program. The contributions cut across the elements of modeling, natural, political and social sciences, engineering, politics, military intervention, urban planning, industrial activities, epidemiology and healthcare.

City-Region 2020 Joe Ravetz, 2016-05-13. Based on analysis of the Manchester city region, this book offers a vision of a sustainable urban future through integrated strategic management of the entire city region. It translates principles into practice for achieving the necessary balance to ensure a higher standard of living and safe environment. The text presents a 25 year horizon for the evolution and restructuring of the urban system, a focus for linkages and synergies between economic, social and environmental sectors, technical scenarios for land use, energy and material flows, spatial scenarios for each area and settlement type, and lateral thinking on cultural information, localization and globalization trends. Also included are practical actions, methods and tools such as sustainability indicators and appraisals that can be applied anywhere in the western world.
