Regulating International Business Through Codes Of Conduct

Sol Picciotto, Ruth Mayne

Regulating International Business Through Codes Of Conduct:

Regulating International Business Through Codes of Conduct Raymond J. Waldmann, 1980
Regulating International Business Sol Picciotto, Ruth Mayne, 2016-07-27 This timely book points the way towards a new positive regulatory framework for international investment following the failure of the Multilateral Agreement on Investment MAI. It examines the flaws in free market strategies underpinning the recent phase of globalization in particular drawing out the lessons from the MAI which was suspended in October 1998. The authors explore an alternative based on a positive regulatory framework for international business aimed at maximizing the positive contribution to development of foreign investment and minimizing its negative social and environmental impacts. The contributors include academics, researchers for non-governmental organizations and business and trade union representatives writing from a combination of economic, legal and political perspectives. The book combines academic analysis with grass roots and practical experience and suggests concrete policy proposals.

International Economic Organizations in the International Legal Process Sergei A. Voitovich, 2023-08-28

Voitovich presents a clear and lucid discussion of the manner and form in which international economic organizations (IEOs) participate in two main stages of the international legal process: law making and law implementation. The book is based on normative instruments and fragments of practice of about fifty IEOs. In order to ensure a proper and timely realization of their normative acts, IEOs exercise a number of law implementing functions which are subject to a thorough comparative examination. The author concludes that existing IEOs, not being ideal institutional models, possess a sufficient arsenal of law implementing instruments to make a considerable impact on the international legal regulations in the economic field. The book will be of interest to academics and economic political scientists.

Regulating Multinationals in Developing Countries Edwin Mujih, 2016-04-08 Edwin Mujih explores the difficulties associated with regulating multinational companies operating in developing countries with a particular focus on extractive industries. The author highlights the need to establish an international legally binding framework to ensure that multinationals operate in a socially responsible manner to protect local communities and the environment. Edwin Mujih's analysis reveals that the existing mechanisms for controlling the behaviour of huge multinational entities are of normative force only; that these are particularly inadequate and that the notion of corporate social responsibility is only meaningful where behaviour can be legally regulated.

Regulating Multinationals in Developing Countries features a study of the Chad and Cameroon Oil and pipeline project which highlights the problems arising in countries that have neither the capacity nor the will to effectively regulate those operating within their borders. The author has evaluated compliance by the parties with their social and environmental obligations. He has found that despite controversy surrounding inadequate regulation of this project in its incipient stages, the system that was put in place following huge opposition from the affected communities and from NGOs is worthy of attention and could stand as a model for similar projects elsewhere This first title in Gower's Corporate Social Responsibility Series to approach CSR from a legal perspective provides insight not just into the complexity surrounding efforts to regulate multinationals operating in countries with weak regulatory regimes but also into the fundamental nature of multinational corporations and the debate about different notions of CSR itself Arbitration of International Business Disputes William W. Park, 2012-09-20

Arbitration of International Business Disputes 2nd edition is a fully revised and updated anthology of essays by Rusty Park a leading scholar in international arbitration and a sought after arbitrator for both commercial and investment treaty cases This collection focuses on controversial questions in arbitration of trade financial and investment disputes The essays address some of the most interesting topics in cross border business dispute resolution many of which have endured over several decades and remain subject to radically different views Examples include the proper role of judicial review the allocation of jurisdictional tasks evolution of arbitration's statutory and treaty framework free trade and bilateral investment agreements and the balance between fixed rules and arbitral discretion The book is structured around three themes arbitration's legal framework the conduct of arbitral proceedings and a comparison of arbitration in specific fields such as finance intellectual property and taxation In each of these areas analysis includes the tensions between fairness and efficiency and the accurate application of substantive law as well as the implications of mandatory procedural norms Augmented by more than a dozen new contributions and a revised introduction this 2nd edition retains all of its earlier practical and scholarly relevance and includes a Foreword by V V Johnny Veeder QC Regulating Transnational Corporations in Domestic and International Regimes Evaristus Oshionebo, 2009-01-01 This study explores the range of strategies for regulating the social and environmental practices of TNCs in Africa's extractive industries Corporate Governance Saleem Sheikh, 2002-03-20

This book critically considers the relationship between directors shareholders and auditors in the corporate governance system Traditionally company law has been primarily based on this tripartite relationship This book comprises a series of contributions from authors who argue that there are wider interests which British company law has largely ignored These include the interests of creditors employees consumers suppliers and the general public The concept of corporate governance is examined with comparative references to the USA and Canada Particular reference is made to the Cadbury Committee and its implications for future company law reform The ethical and sociological dimensions of corporate governance is also fully discussed The Law of Groups of Companies Christine Van Den Wyngaert, M Kruithof, 1991-12 The law and regulations governing groups of enterprises have undergone an amazing development during the last ten to twenty years The growing attention paid in legal writing to the specific issues raised by the group phenomenon is a direct consequence of the widespread and increasing utilization of separate legal entities to organize business activities whether in the profit or non profit sector It is increasingly felt that the traditional approach of today's company law does not provide adequate answers for the questions raised by today's enterprise organization. Few national regulations have paid specific attention to the growth of groups of companies. This does not mean that group law does not exist but rather that it has developed from its roots in judicial case law, administrative practice and in many particular provisions of different statutes. Legal doctrine has paid a great deal of attention to group relationships often utilizing material originating from other legal systems. At the EEC level a directive on groups of companies has been envisaged but no agreement has been reached on its content. The purpose of the research which resulted in the present publication was to document and orient research by everyone interested in the study of the law of groups of enterprises. The Law of Groups of Companies systematically classifies the wealth of literature which was thus revealed and makes clear that although formal statutes on groups of companies rarely exist the law has been developing and concepts, structures and reasoning have kept the minds of many legal writers active. This book is a publication of the Studiecentrum Ondernemingsgroepen / Centre d'Etude des Groupes d'Entreprises.

Corporations and International Lawmaking Stephen Tully, 2007. The classical model of international lawmaking posits governments as exclusively authoritative actors. However, commercially oriented entities have long been protagonists within the prevailing international legal order, concluding contracts and resolving disputes with governments. Is the international legal personality of corporations undergoing further qualitative transformations? Corporations influence the State, practice constitutive of custom and create, refashion or challenge normative rules. The corporate willingness to fill legal lacunae where governments do not exercise their full regulatory responsibility is also observable through resort to alternative legal mechanisms. Corporations moreover contribute directly to treaty negotiations and occupy crucial roles during subsequent implementation. Indeed, an analysis of the access conditions and participatory modalities for non-State actors could support a right to participate under common international procedural law. Their substantive contributions are also evident when corporations participate in enforcing international law against governments through national courts, diplomatic protection including the WTO and arbitration including NAFTA. However, the practice of intergovernmental organizations reveals several challenges including managing corporate interaction with developing country governments and other non-State actors. Acknowledging corporate contributions also has important implications for national regulatory autonomy, the ability of governments to mediate contested policy issues, the democratic legitimacy of the contemporary lawmaking process and an understanding of consent as the underlying basis for international law.

Rethinking International Organisation Barbara Emadi-Coffin, 2003-08-27. The function of the state as a symbol of identity has become increasingly important as major powers of the pre-Cold War era have given way to self-determination. The conventional role of the state has however simultaneously been challenged by the process of globalisation which transcends such national boundaries Barbara Emadi Coffin seeks to explain this contradiction through a radical new theory There are now 37 000 multinational corporations in the world many of which are increasingly seen as being among the new centres of political and economic power Barbara Emadi Coffin analyses the increasing interaction of multinational corporations international organizations and transnational interest groups such as Greenpeace and Amnesty International in processes of the global political economy Using examples of the free trade zones in Korea the UK and the People s Republic of China the author demonstrates these interactions In so doing she challenges prevailing notions surrounding International Organization theory
