Rehabilitation Of Degraded Forests In Asia:

Rehabilitation of Degraded Forests in Asia Ajit Kumar Banerjee,1995 Regional Strategy and Action Plan for Forest and Landscape Restoration in Asia-Pacific Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2018-01-31 Degradation of forests can have severe negative local impacts and far reaching consequences including soil erosion loss of biodiversity greenhouse gas emissions dust storms diminished livelihood opportunities and reduced yields of forest products and services Reversing the adverse conditions requires urgent and scaled up action through scientific and holistic landscape level restoration approaches balancing both socio economic and environmental goals and the diverse needs of various sectors and stakeholders in the landscape The forest and landscape restoration FLR approach has gained momentum in recent years The concept is based on the recognition that trees and forests comprise critical components of rural landscapes and that diversification at landscape levels can enhance ecological and socio economic resilience while accommodating different site conditions and land management goals Given the increasing challenge of mitigating and adapting to climate change and vast expanses of degraded landscapes with decreased capacity to provide essential forest products and services we are seeing increased political interest and commitment to enhance forest cover and functions and to FLR at both international and national levels With this background the Food and Agriculture Organization Regional Office for Asia and the Pacific FAO RAP initiated an effort to develop a strategy and action plan for forest and landscape restoration in the region The Forest Landscape Restoration Handbook Stewart Maginnis,Jennifer Rietbergen-McCracken,Alastair Sarre,2012-05-04 Forest loss and degradation have caused a decline in the quality of ecosystem services around the world But fixing the problem takes more than just planting trees practitioners increasingly realize that a landscape approach is essential This handbook authored and edited by international authorities in the field of forestry is the first practical guide to using forest landscape restoration FLR to repair the damage done to forest lands by poor land management practice Using research backed by respected institutions such as ITTO and the World Conservation Union IUCN it explains how to increase the resilience of landscapes and the communities they support through FLR The main aim of FLR is not to re establish pristine forest even if this were possible rather the objective is to make landscapes more resilient and thereby keep future management options open It also aims to support communities as they strive to increase and sustain the benefits they derive from land management This book explains the concept of FLR and guides the reader through the steps that must be taken to put it into practice It is an indispensable aid for practitioners in all aspects of forestry and natural resource management Degraded Forest Rehabilitation and Sustainable Forest Management in the Asia-Pacific Region Asia-Pacific Network for Sustainable Forest Management and Rehabilitation,2016 Asia-Pacific roadmap for primary forest conservation Laumonier, Y.,Azzu, N.,Adzan, G.,Narulita, S.,Khikmah, F.,Meybeck, A.,Pingault, N.,Gitz, V.,2022-07-31 Asia-Pacific roadmap for primary forest conservation Laumonier, Y., Azzu, N., Azdan, G., Narulita, S., Khikmah, F., Meybeck, A., Pingault, N., Gitz,

V.,2022-08-12 The purpose of the roadmap is to delineate and inform the process by which decision makers and actors can evaluate the status diversity and trends of primary forests in the region identify priority areas for primary forest conservation assess the threats they face and explore possible ways to address them This report suggests a practical process in four steps through which the recommendations can be articulated at different scales from regional to local and adapted to the specific context priorities and needs of various forest types countries and categories of actors

Catastrophe and Regeneration in Indonesia's Peatlands Kosuke Mizuno,Motoko S. Fujita,Shuichi Kawai,2016-02-26 The serious degradation of the vast peatlands of Indonesia since the 1990s is the proximate cause of the haze that endangers public health in Indonesian Sumatra and Borneo and also in neighbouring Singapore Malaysia and Thailand Moreover peatlands that have been drained and cleared for plantations are a major contributor to greenhouse gas emissions This new book explains the degradation of peat soils and outlines a potential course of action to deal with the catastrophe looming over the region Concerted action will be required to reduce peatland fires and a successful policy needs to enhance social welfare and economic survival support natural conservation and provide a return on investment if there is to be a sustainable society in the peatlands This book argues that regeneration is possible through a new policy of people s forestry that includes reforestation and rewetting peat soils The data come from a major long term research effort the humanosphere project that coordinates work done by researchers from the physical natural and human or social sciences

Forest Restoration in Landscapes Stephanie Mansourian,Daniel Vallauri,2006-02-23 Is it a sign of the times that last year the Nobel committee chose to award the Nobel Peace prize to Wangari Maathai for having planted 30 million trees We believe so We think that while in the 20th century conservation made signi cant progress on setting up a global protected area network the 21st century will be a time of forest restoration The fact that Wangari Maathai is the rst African woman to receive such an honourable distinction is in itself a major accomplishment What is even more remarkable is that for the rst time this highly esteemed prize which has long been associated with political feats was given for an environmental achievement And not just any environmental achievement but forest resto tion It is a comfort to see that it is not just us at WWF the global conservation organisation who believe forest restoration to be of global signi cance but that the Nobel committee is in agreement

Promising cases of forest and landscape restoration in Asia and the Pacific Mittelman, A.; Hokka, V.; Paudel, K.C.; Animon, I.; Ioannou, A.,2024-12-10

Forest and landscape restoration FLR is gaining momentum through the UN Decade on Ecosystem Restoration 2021 2030 National commitments for FLR are increasing under the three Rio conventions UNFCCC CBD UNCCD the Bonn Challenge the New York Declaration on Forests the Glasgow Leaders Declaration on Forest and Land Use and the Forest and Climate Leaders Partnership These restoration linked targets and declarations at the global level also include countries in Asia and the Pacific with a wave of regional level FLR targets and initiatives such as the ASEAN Green Initiative Landscape Partnership Asia and the Regional Strategy and Action Plan for FLR in Asia Pacific FLR ambitions and efforts on the ground are strong Many different types of approaches tools and innovative financing methods are being employed Interest is also robust in upscaling successful FLR that can contribute to enhancing or maintaining the delivery of ecosystem services addressing climate change and biodiversity loss and promoting poverty alleviation food security and economic development In this context the FAO Regional Office for Asia and the Pacific with support from the IUCN has examined FLR experiences in the region to identify promising FLR cases in various country settings and ecosystem types This publication presents 15 promising cases selected from 150 projects based on their alignment with the ten principles of the UN Decade on Ecosystem Restoration

Forestry Policies of Selected Countries in Asia and the Pacific Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,1993-01-01 Ecological Restoration Singarayer Florentine,Paul Gibson-Roy,Kingsley Wayne Dixon,Linda Broadhurst,2023-06-14 Ecological restoration although a relatively new endeavour compared to other disciplines has gained significant momentum during the last decade as accelerating global change becomes more apparent It is now widely accepted by the scientific community that to avoid further devastating effects of climate change and biodiversity loss humanity must determinedly move more to protect and restore natural ecosystems Many restoration efforts of the past have been ad hoc site and situation specific and have often failed to achieve desired outcomes but over the last decade many countries are allocating increasingly significant amounts of financial investment towards restoration with the goal of achieving more systematic and predictable outcomes Today activities related to restoring ecosystems natural assets and biodiversity are a global focus This book covers a wide range of topics related to ecological restoration including for grasslands wetlands temperate and tropical forests and arid zones Importantly it also focuses on ecological restoration in human disturbed landscapes such as for urban areas farmlands mine sites and transport corridors It highlights the necessity for evidence based approaches that are both nuanced and complementary with prescriptions for people based restoration that is socially inclusive and cognisant of historic and current community sentiment Ambitious landscape and continental scale targets for ecological restoration have been set across the globe However without practical guidelines developed from restoration evaluations from the recent past to follow future efforts are unlikely to be successful nor expected targets met To that end this book reviews and highlights a large number and variety of restoration stories from around the world Most are presented as reader friendly case studies that feature innovative and systematic techniques for undertaking species rich ecological restoration Together they provide inspiration for current and future professionals and offer unique glimpses into state of the art practice for this critically important discipline

Environmental Geography of South Asia R.B. Singh,Pawel Prokop,2015-10-13 This volume synthesizes critical environmental challenges of dynamic earth and human environment systems in South Asia emphasizing geographical dimensions It deals with spaceborne monitoring climate ecohydrology forests and biodiversity land use and land cover change LUCC natural hazards and disasters in order to contribute towards a sustainable future The contributions range from traditional field techniques to the use of remote sensing and geographic information systems The book integrates environmental attributes relating the past present and future of South Asia broadly based on biophysical and human dimensions in spatio temporal perspectives The monitoring of natural hazards and climate issues is considered a vital component in the context of environmental geography especially in observation and understanding of climate and water induced disasters It is important to communicate the advances in geoscience techniques to increase the resilience of the vulnerable society of South Asia and to promote livelihood security The sustainability of South Asia depends strongly on the earth environment and thus the development of geo environmental monitoring is critical for a better understanding of our living environment The aim of the book is to present dynamic aspects of environmental geography to contribute to future earth initiatives in South Asia Forestry in Asia - Issues for Responsible Investors , Social Development and Absolute Poverty in Asia and Latin America Willy De Geyndt,1996-01-01 Using econometric techniques analyzes causes of widespread poverty in Latin America and the 10 largest East and South Asian countries Concludes that slow economic growth is not the only explanatory variable and cites importance of schools and health care Handbook of Latin American Studies v 57 Advancing the role of natural regeneration in large-scale forest and landscape restoration in the Asia-Pacific region Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,Asia-Pacific Network for Sustainable Forest Management and Rehabilitation,2019-05-16 There are numerous global regional national and even subnational targets for increasing forest area and forest restoration In light of these global targets and emerging ambitious national commitments it is imperative to develop low cost strategies and techniques for landscape restoration The most widely used restoration strategies involving planting of tree seedlings are often costly and their application for restoring vast expanses of degraded forest lands in the region may be limited Case studies and experiences with natural regeneration from the region have shown that natural regeneration significantly reduces the cost of restoration in areas that meet certain conditions Native species that are adapted to the prevailing conditions re establish on their own with some assistance achieving accelerated growth in accordance with natural succession leading to the recovery of native ecosystems Restoration strategies based on natural regeneration also provide low cost opportunities for conserving biodiversity and enhancing ecosystem services including carbon sequestration and watershed protection Despite these economic and environmental advantages natural regeneration is often overlooked when restoration policies and programmes are designed for a number of reasons These include lack of its recognition as a viable restoration option perverse incentives favouring clearing of young secondary growth for plantation development or other land uses lack of institutional support by government agencies and other organizations unclear tenure and property rights lack of incentives for local communities and uncertainty about the restoration processes and outcomes This publication aims to share information on the outcome of the regional workshop entitled Promoting the Role of Natural Regeneration in Large scale Forest and Landscape Restoration Challenges and Opportunities held in Nanning Guangxi Province China from 19 to 21 June 2017 which was organized to better understand the challenges and opportunities for natural forest regeneration and to promote its inclusion as a major component of large scale restoration initiatives

A policy framework to facilitate integrated Forest Landscape Restoration (FLR) to enhance local livelihoods in Indonesia Adiwinata, A., Wicaksono, S.A., Ichsan, A.C., Yumn, A., Goib, B.K., Muslimah, S., Susanti, F.N., Purwanto, E., 2022-05-20

Enabling Asia to Stabilise the Climate Shuzo Nishioka, 2015-11-26 This book presents good practices in Asia and ASEAN countries for effectively promoting advances in response to climate change which can help to achieve sustainable development in Asia and around the world As a proposal the aim is to influence the discussions at COP 21 by providing a positive agenda with concrete actions from an Asian perspective The book is divided into three parts Part 1 describes the greenhouse gas GHG reduction scenario from an Asian perspective and in line with global 2 targets Based on modeling analysis the studies demonstrate the theoretical potentials and send the policymakers at COP 21 the positive message that Asia can reach the target As Asian countries vary in terms of their economic strength country specific scenario studies for the two giants China and India as well as for Japan and Vietnam are introduced to show the different approaches for each country Part 2 shows successful examples of how modeling analysis are reflected in actual policy development which provides practical guidelines to help policymakers develop their own roadmaps with stakeholder dialogue not only in Asia but also in other regions of the world The Nationally Appropriate Mitigation Action NAMA roadmap development in Thailand as well as the Iskandar Malaysia project show at the country and city level how researchers and policymakers are working closely to succeed Part 3 focuses on a number of sector specific activities including transportation forestry capacity development and inventory work in Asia Rather than discussing the Low Carbon Society LCS concept in detail the respective chapters highlight unique concrete and practically applicable examples from Asia showing how Asian countries are addressing climate change mitigation issues in a collaborative manner an approach that can be replicated in other regions While the ultimate goal of this book is to facilitate international climate regime making local government and international organizations United Nations World Bank and others officers researchers international NGO NPOs consultants students particularly those studying international relationships or environmental studies as well as reporters will find this book useful in broadening their understanding of low carbon development in Asia

Sustainable and Traditional Environmental Conservation in Asia Dipayan Dey, Ayyanadar Arunachalam, 2024-10-23 This book articulates the traditional Japanese concept of conservation called Satoyama for effective management of nature s goods and services at a community ecosystem interface in the climate milieu The term Satoyama refers to socio ecological production landscapes and seascapes which are mosaics of diverse land uses and ecosystems that have long been shaped through sustainable human interactions with nature This multilevel study of conservation science therefore serves an interdisciplinary academia consistent with conventions on climate change biodiversity and sustainable development to establish links between conservation priorities and development objectives In this book the Satoyama is introduced as a

rights based neo economic conservation paradigm for production linked sustainable development supplemented with case studies from Asia The International Partnership for the Satoyama Initiative was established at the 10th Conference of the Parties to the Convention on Biological Diversity in 2010 to protect and revitalise Satoyama However even after a decade this panacea for sustainability remains unfulfilled for practitioners and policy planners in the global south Satoyama have been disappearing as a result of irresponsible consumption of natural resources and drastically changing agro farming practices threatening wildlife inhabiting those areas as well as the life and livelihood of marginal communities in the vicinity In consideration of the global pandemic crisis the present monograph aims for introspection within a traditional sustainable practice of Asia to augment community resilience and preparedness Climate Smart Development in Asia Ancha Srinivasan, Frank Hiroshi Ling, Hideyuki Mori, 2013-07-03 The future of China India and Asia s other emerging economies and their ability to take a low carbon and climate resilient development path determine the future of global carbon emissions and climate change Indeed the battle to confront global climate change will be won or lost in Asia The transition to a low carbon climate resilient economy LCE which involves many steps towards improved energy efficiency alternative energy sources and transport systems sustainable land use eco friendly consumption and proactive adaptation may be regarded as the world s fourth revolution after the industrial revolution agricultural revolution and the information revolution Asia is highly vulnerable to impacts of climate change Yet because of its dynamic economies and massive populations Asia offers the greatest opportunity for overcoming the trade offs and pursuing low carbon development pathways With a growing consensus that there is limited time to avoid the worst impacts of climate change scientists engineers policymakers and economists across Asia have recently begun discussions on how Asia can make a transition to LCE Most discussions however focused on transfer of technologies from developed to developing countries and overlooked other equally important challenges such as financing governance and information dissemination This book is the first to look at these neglected aspects of LCE and attempt to integrate both market based and technology based solutions into a comprehensive strategy to creating a roadmap for LCE in Asia This book is an essential reading for economists policy makers practitioners engineers and researchers concerned with climate change energy production and development in Asia and the impacts and potential for the world Natural Resource Governance in Asia Raza Ullah, Shubhechha Sharma, Inoue Makoto, Sobia Asghar, Ganesh Shivakoti, 2021-04-28 Natural Resource Governance in Asia From Collective Action to Resilience Thinking identifies key leverage points where interventions can be made surrounding current and future impacts of ongoing environmental and sociopolitical challenges The book utilizes case studies from Asia a key demographic for natural resource management that can be applied globally in understanding solutions and the current state of knowledge in natural resource dynamics Users will find valuable sections on community forestry and socioecological systems community irrigation competing water demand robustness issues climate change and natural resource dynamics and challenges This interdisciplinary tome on the topic is invaluable to researchers and policymakers alike Combines collective action and resilience thinking to help readers understand complex issues and challenges in natural resource management Presents methods and case studies to validate theory in practice Includes up to date research applied to current issues to address both current and future risks and uncertainties
