Inventing the German Nation in Travel Literature, 1738-1839 Karin Baumgartner, 2025. Far into the nineteenth century Germany was not yet a nation state but a conglomeration of principalities. The causes and consequences of its belatedness compared to other European countries such as England and France have been much debated. The present book breaks new ground by identifying travel literature as an important factor in the forging of a distinct and cohesive German identity well before political unification in 1871. First, foreign travelers' accounts, travelogues, guidebooks referred to and treated Germany as a distinct place even though it was still politically divided, thus enabling German readers to imagine their fragmented nation as a conceptual whole. Second, Germans themselves began to explore their homeland and write travelogues that solidified the nascent sense of national identity. Ethnographic descriptions from places and peoples far away further aided this process as Germans learned to view themselves through this particular lens. Surveying a large corpus of German and some British and French travelogues, travel handbooks and popular geographic texts and bringing to bear discourses of nationalism and geography including Edward Soja's seminal concept of Thirdspace, Karin Baumgartner reveals what travel writing can tell us about conceptual changes in geographic paradigms and national identity in Germany in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. A Select Catalogue of German Books Prince and Cooke (Firm), 1789. The Routledge History of the Domestic Sphere in Europe Joachim Eibach, Margareth Lanzinger, 2020-12-29. This book addresses the multifaceted history of the domestic sphere in Europe from the Age of Reformation to the emergence of modern society. By focusing on daily practice, interaction and social relations, it shows continuities and social change in European history from an interior perspective. The Routledge History of the Domestic Sphere in Europe contains a variety of approaches from different regions that each pose a challenge to commonplace views such as the emergence of confessional cultures of private life and of separate spheres of men and women. By analyzing a plethora of manifold sources including diaries, court records, paintings and domestic advice literature, this volume provides an overview of the domestic sphere as a location of work and consumption conflict and cooperation emotions and intimacy and devotion and education The book sheds light on changing relations between spouses parents and children masters and servants or apprentices and humans and animals or plants thereby exceeding the notion of the modern nuclear family This volume will be of great use to upper level graduates postgraduates and experienced scholars interested in the history of family household social space gender emotions material culture work and private life in early modern and nineteenth century Europe
