Key Qualifications in Work and Education W.J. Nijhof, J.N. Streumer, 2012-12-06 In today's rapidly changing world a constant renewal of knowledge and skills in every human endeavour can be observed. The characteristics of workers and the jobs that they perform have been attended by technological, social and political change on a global scale. New forms of employment have made work more mobile to an extent never experienced before. An increasing proportion of workers no longer need come to their employer's job site in order to do their work. The instability of employment is creating a new breed of workers who know how to move efficiently from one job to another. As a consequence workers need flexible qualifications to perform jobs. Key qualifications are the answer. Key qualifications provide the key to rapid and effective acquisition of new knowledge and skills. First qualifications enable workers to react effectively to and exercise initiative in changes to their work. Second qualifications enable workers to shape their own career in a time of diminishing job security nowadays frequently defined as employability.

HCI and Usability for Education and Work Andreas Holzinger, 2008-11-13 The Workgroup Human Computer Interaction Usability Engineering HCI UE of the Austrian Computer Society OCG serves as a platform for interdisciplinary change research and development. While human computer interaction HCI traditionally brings together psychologists and computer scientists usability engineering UE is a software engineering discipline and ensures the appropriate implementation of applications. Our 2008 topic was Human Computer Interaction for Education and Work HCI4EDU culminating in the 4th annual Usability Symposium USAB 2008 held during November 20-21 2008 in Graz Austria <http://usab.symposium.tugraz.at>. As with the field of Human Computer Interaction in Medicine and Health Care HCI4MED which was our annual topic in 2007 technological performance also increases exponentially in the area of education and work. Learners, teachers and knowledge workers are ubiquitously confronted with new technologies which are available at constantly lower costs. However it is obvious that within our Society the knowledge acquired at schools and universities while being an absolutely necessary basis for learning may prove insufficient to last a whole life time. Working and learning can be viewed as parallel processes with the result that lifelong learning LLL must be considered as more than just a catch phrase within our society it is an undisputed necessity. Today we are facing a tremendous increase in educational technologies of all kinds and although the influence of these new technologies is enormous we must never forget that learning
