RELIGION AND AFRICAN CIVIL WARS; ED. BY NIELS KASTFELT. , 2005 War and Conflict in Africa Paul D. Williams, 2016-06-23 After the Cold War Africa earned the dubious distinction of being the world's most bloody continent But how can we explain this proliferation of armed conflicts What caused them and what were their main characteristics And what did the world's governments do to stop them In this fully revised and updated second edition of his popular text Paul Williams offers an in depth and wide ranging assessment of more than six hundred armed conflicts which took place in Africa from 1990 to the present day from the continental catastrophe in the Great Lakes region to the sprawling conflicts across the Sahel and the web of wars in the Horn of Africa Taking a broad comparative approach to examine the political contexts in which these wars occurred he explores the major patterns of organized violence the key ingredients that provoked them and the major international responses undertaken to deliver lasting peace Part I Contexts provides an overview of the most important attempts to measure the number scale and location of Africa's armed conflicts and provides a conceptual and political sketch of the terrain of struggle upon which these wars were waged Part II Ingredients analyses the role of five widely debated features of Africa's wars the dynamics of neopatrimonial systems of governance the construction and manipulation of ethnic identities questions of sovereignty and self determination as well as the impact of natural resources and religion Part III Responses discusses four major international reactions to Africa's wars attempts to build a new institutional architecture to help promote peace and security on the continent this architecture's two main policy instruments peacemaking initiatives and peace operations and efforts to develop the continent War and Conflict in Africa will be essential reading for all students of international peace and security studies as well as Africa's international relations The Logic of Ethnic and Religious Conflict in Africa John F. McCauley, 2017-04-27 This book explains why conflicts in Africa are sometimes ethnic and sometimes religious and why a conflict might change from ethnic to religious even as the opponents remain fixed Conflicts in the region are often viewed as either tribal or Muslim Christian seemingly rooted in deep seated ethnic or religious hatreds Yet as this book explains those labels emerge as a function of political mobilization It argues that ethnicity and religion

inspire distinct passions among individuals and that political leaders exploit those passions to achieve their own strategic goals when the institutions of the state break down To support this argument the book relies on a novel experiment conducted in Cote d'Ivoire and Ghana to demonstrate that individual preferences change in ethnic and religious contexts It then uses case illustrations from Cote d'Ivoire Nigeria and Sudan to highlight the strategic choices of leaders that ultimately shape the frames of conflict

African Conflicts and Informal Power Mats Utas, 2012-03-08 In the aftermath of an armed conflict in Africa the international community both produces and demands from local partners a variety of blueprints for reconstructing state and society The aim is to re formalize the state after what is viewed as a period of fragmentation In reality African economies and polities are very much informal in character with informal actors including so called Big Men often using their positions in the formal structure as a means to reach their own goals Through a variety of in depth case studies including the DRC Sierra Leone and Liberia this comprehensive volume shows how important informal political and economic networks are in many of the continent's conflict areas Moreover it demonstrates that without a proper understanding of the impact of these networks attempts to formalize African states particularly those emerging from wars will be in vain

Seeds of Conflict in a Haven of Peace Frans Jozef Servaas Wijsen, 2007 On 7 August 1998 the American embassies in Nairobi and Dar es Salaam were bombed and 200 people lost their lives These bombings shattered the image of Africa's tradition of peaceful religious coexistence Since then inter religious dialogue has been high on the agendas of ecclesial and religious organisations but not so much of faculties of theology and departments of religion in East Africa This book investigates why this is so How are interreligious relations dealt with in Africa and more particularly how are they and how should they be taught in institutions of higher learning This book is based on fieldwork in Nairobi from 2001 onwards It shows why Africa's tradition of peaceful coexistence is not going to help Africa in the 21st century and recommends a shift in the education in inter religious relations from religions studies to inter religious studies of international politics and connect religion to a rising form of populist politics in the developing world Contributors identify religion as pervasive and distinctive forcing a reframing of international relations theory that reinterprets traditional paradigms One essay draws on both realism and constructivism in the examination of religious discourse and transnational networks Another positions secularism not as the opposite of religion but as a comparable type of worldview drawing on and competing with religious ideas With the secular state's perceived failure to address popular needs religion has become a banner for movements that demand a more responsive government The contributors to this volume recognize this trend and propose structural and theoretical innovations for future advances in the discipline
