Longleaf , Looking for Longleaf Lawrence S. Earley, 2005-10-12 Covering 92 million acres from Virginia to Texas the longleaf pine ecosystem was in its prime one of the most extensive and biologically diverse ecosystems in North America Today these magnificent forests have declined to a fraction of their original extent threatening such species as the gopher tortoise the red cockaded woodpecker and the Venus fly trap Conservationists have proclaimed longleaf restoration a major goal but has it come too late In Looking for Longleaf Lawrence S Earley explores the history of these forests and the astonishing biodiversity of the longleaf ecosystem drawing on extensive research and telling the story through first person travel accounts and interviews with foresters ecologists biologists botanists and landowners For centuries these vast grass covered forests provided pasture for large cattle herds in addition to serving as the world s greatest source of naval stores They sustained the exploitative turpentine and lumber industries until nearly all of the virgin longleaf had vanished Looking for Longleaf demonstrates how in the twentieth century forest managers and ecologists struggled to understand the special demands of longleaf and to halt its overall decline The compelling story Earley tells here offers hope that with continued human commitment the longleaf pine might not just survive but once again thrive Inland Dunes of North America

A Delicious Country Scott Huler, 2019-02-05 In 1700 a young man named John Lawson left London and landed in Charleston South Carolina hoping to make a name for himself For reasons unknown he soon undertook a two month journey through the still mysterious Carolina backcountry His travels yielded A New Voyage to Carolina in 1709 one of the most significant early American travel narratives rich with observations about the region's environment and Indigenous people Lawson later helped found North Carolina's first two cities Bath and New Bern became the colonial surveyor general contributed specimens to what is now the British Museum and was killed as the first casualty of the Tuscarora War Yet despite his great contributions and remarkable history Lawson is little remembered even in the Carolinas he documented In 2014 Scott Huler made a surprising decision to leave home and family for his own journey by foot and canoe faithfully retracing Lawson's route through the Carolinas This is the chronicle of that unlikely voyage revealing what it's like to rediscover your own home Combining a traveler's curiosity a naturalist's keen observation and a writer's wit Huler draws our attention to people and places we might pass regularly but never really see What he finds are surprising parallels between Lawson's time and our own with the locals and their world poised along a knife edge of change between a past they can't forget and a future they can't quite envision
