

Different Approaches to Expressive Writing

"Standard" expressive writing:

Deepest thoughts and feelings about a stressful or traumatic event. Write about the same or different topics over writing sessions.

Cognitive processing:

Thoughts and feelings with an attempt to derive more understanding and insight (cognitive processing) regarding a traumatic or stressful event.

Exposure:

Deepest thoughts and emotions about the same event across all writing sessions to promote emotional habituation/adaptation.

Benefit finding:

Identify an event and then focus on the positive aspects of the experience; this might include a focus on how you have grown or changed as a person due to the event and how you might be better equipped to meet future challenges.

Best possible future self:

Think about your life in the future and write about this life as if you have worked hard and succeeded at accomplishing all of your life goals.

Making Connections With Writing An Expressive Writing Model In Japanese Schools:

Making Connections with Writing Mary M. Kitagawa, Chisato Kitagawa, 1987 Resources in Education ,1999

Makiguchi Tsunesaburo in the Context of Language, Identity and Education Jason Goulah, 2018-10-15 Makiguchi Tsunesaburo 1871-1944 was a Japanese schoolteacher, principal, educational philosopher, and Buddhist war resister. The progenitor of the value-creating Soka pedagogy that inspires thousands of teachers worldwide and informs the network of 15 Soka schools, universities, and a women's college across seven countries in Asia and the Americas, Makiguchi has emerged as an important figure in international education, curriculum studies, and instructional practice. Few educators in the global academy, however, know of Makiguchi's extensive and lifelong work in language education. This edited volume, including a translation of an early Makiguchi essay heretofore unavailable in English, presents theoretical and empirical analyses of Makiguchi's perspectives and practices relative to language, identity, and education in historical and contemporary contexts. First published as a special issue of Journal of Language Identity and Education, this volume includes a new preface and three new chapters. Makiguchi Tsunesaburo in the Context of Language Identity and Education advances the field of Makiguchi studies and is indispensable for scholars and practitioners engaged in language and literacy education, international perspectives in education, and curriculum theorizing. Methods and Methodology in Composition Research Gesa Kirsch, Patricia A. Sullivan, 1992. In original essays, fourteen nationally known scholars examine the practical, philosophical, and epistemological implications of a variety of research traditions. Included are discussions of historical, theoretical, and feminist scholarship, case study, and ethnographic research, text and conversation analysis, and cognitive, experimental, and descriptive research. Issues that cross methodological boundaries, such as the nature of collaborative research and writing, methodological pluralism, the classification and coding of research data, and the politics of composition research, are also examined. Contributors reflect on their own research practices and so reflect the current state of composition research itself.

Perspectives on Activity Theory Yrjö Engeström, Reijo Miettinen, Raija-Leena Punamäke-Gitai, 1999-01-13. Activity theory is an interdisciplinary approach to human sciences that originates in the cultural-historical psychology school initiated by Vygotsky, Leontiev, and Luria. It takes the object-oriented, artifact-mediated collective activity system as its unit of analysis, thus bridging the gulf between the individual subject and the societal structure. This 1999 volume includes 26 chapters on activity theory by authors from ten countries. In Part I of the book, central theoretical issues are discussed from different points of view. Some topics addressed in this part are epistemology, methodology, and the relationship between biological and cultural factors. Part II is devoted to the acquisition and development of language. This part includes a chapter that analyzes writing activity in Japanese classrooms and a case study of literacy skills of a man with cerebral palsy. Part III contains chapters on play, learning, and education, and Part IV addresses the meaning of technology and the development of work activities. The final part covers issues of therapy and addiction. The Journal of the Association of Teachers of
