

FROM THE DIRECTOR OF
INDEPENDENCE DAY AND STARGATE

A movie poster for the film 'Making Contact'. The scene is set inside a dark wooden closet. A young boy with dark hair, wearing a blue t-shirt and dark pants, is seen from the back, reaching out with both hands towards a bright, glowing figure. The figure is a cartoonish alien with a large head, wide eyes, and a mustache, wearing a blue suit. It is surrounded by intense white and yellow lightning bolts. Various objects are floating or falling around the central scene: a skateboard at the top, a portable cassette player on the left, a soccer ball on the right, a tennis racket, a tennis ball, a pair of sneakers, and a video cassette tape on the floor. The lighting is dramatic, with the central figure being the brightest source of light, casting a glow on the surrounding objects and the boy.

Education I have used Seidman's text with great success with graduate students new to qualitative research. Its complex yet readable treatment is an essential part of the toolbox for both novice and experienced qualitative interviewers. Mark R. Warren, Associate Professor of Public Policy and Public Affairs, University of Massachusetts Boston. This is a thoughtful and well-written introduction to the topic. I assign it in multiple undergraduate and graduate classes I teach. The chapter on interview technique is particularly helpful, giving students useful advice on topics like how to avoid asking leading questions. Highly recommended. Amy Bruckman, College of Computing, Georgia Institute of Technology. Now in its fourth edition, this popular book provides clear step-by-step guidance for new and experienced interviewers to develop, shape, and reflect on interviewing as a qualitative research process. Using concrete examples of interviewing techniques to illustrate the issues under discussion, this classic text helps readers understand the complexities of interviewing and its connections to broader issues of qualitative research. The text includes principles and methods that can be adapted to a range of interviewing approaches. Appropriate for individual and classroom use, the new edition has been completely updated and expanded to include important new material on ethical issues, long-distance interviewing, computer-assisted data analysis, and more.

Classic comprehensive guide to digital and film photographic theory and practice, completely updated for this 8th edition.      Automobile Electrical and Electronic Systems, Tom Denton, 2013-07-04. This textbook will help you learn all the skills you need to pass Level 3 vehicle electrical and electronic systems courses or related modules from City and Guilds IMI and BTEC and is also ideal for higher-level ASE AUR and other qualifications. As electrical and electronic systems become increasingly more complex and fundamental to the workings of modern vehicles, understanding these systems is essential for automotive technicians. For students new to the subject, this book will help to develop this knowledge but will also assist experienced mechanics in keeping up with recent technological advances. This new edition includes information on developments in hybrid car technology, GPS multiplexing, and electronic stability vehicle dynamics control. In full colour and covering the latest course specifications, this is the guide that no student enrolled on an automotive maintenance and repair course should be without.
