Workstyle Alex Hirst, Lizzie Penny, 2022-10-13 Workstyle is the freedom to choose when and where you work It is only now after centuries of formal and inflexible working hours that such an opportunity is on the horizon It is an opportunity that will have far reaching and profoundly positive implications levelling the playing field and helping to create true inclusivity and accessibility in our society This inspiring book will explain the history of work where the 9 5 came from and why the time is right for change You ll learn how workstyle differs from flexible hybrid or remote working and why it matters Most importantly you ll explore and design your own workstyle by reflecting on the things that matter to you acting to change your life and inspiring others to do the same all underpinned by research that proves that this is a better way to work for us all This book is for everyone who has had to take a day off work to receive a delivery or go to a doctor s appointment It is for anyone who has caring responsibilities for parents for those with illnesses with mental health issues who feel burnt out or who are living with disabilities It is for those who are older who identify as neurodiverse or who consider themselves different in any way It is for people who feel disenchanted with work and want to live a meaningful fulfilled life It is for anyone who questions why they need to commute to an office to be productive It is for every person who has a life outside of work This book is for everyone This book is for you

Low-carbon Growth Links with China Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Energy and Climate Change Committee,2012-08-29 China is the fastest growing economy in the world and by 2030 could account for half of the world s CO2 emissions It has recently set out ambitious plans to reduce the carbon intensity of its economy boost green energy draft a new climate law and introduce carbon trading MPs say that this is the ideal time for the UK to work together with China both to prepare the ground for a future international agreement and to secure potential opportunities for British businesses in China s burgeoning markets for low carbon technologies currently worth around 430 billion The report warns however that the Government s work in China suffers from a lack of strategic direction There are too many small projects focused on too many different areas rather than a coordinated effort to achieve key objectives tailored to appeal to Chinese priorities and which build on UK strengths For policy this means a focus on carbon pricing and accounting where the UK has experience to offer In the business area this mean identifying the potential markets and technologies in which the UK could have a comparative advantage One area in which the UK could establish a comparative advantage with the right Government support is carbon capture and storage CCS technology which could be a substantial export earner if the UK is able to develop CCS expertise early The UK s ability to influence policy in China and to compete for business in low carbon development depends on the reputation of the UK as a credible leader

Children, Food and Identity in Everyday Life A. James,A. Kjørholt,V. Tingstad,2009-11-27 This book explores the significance of food practices for childhood identities from early babyhood to middle childhood and teenage years It examines how children and families negotiate food and eating practices what influence the media has on these the role institutions play and how far class and ethnicity shape the food that children eat

The History of the Theory of Structures Karl-Eugen Kurrer,2012-01-09 This book traces the evolution of theory of structures and strength of materials the development of the geometrical thinking of the Renaissance to become the fundamental engineering science discipline rooted in classical mechanics Starting with the strength experiments of Leonardo da Vinci and Galileo the author examines the emergence of individual structural analysis methods and their formation into theory of structures in the 19th century For the first time a book of this kind outlines the development from classical theory of structures to the structural mechanics and computational mechanics of the 20th century In doing so the author has managed to bring alive the differences between the players with respect to their engineering and scientific profiles and personalities and to create an understanding for the social context Brief insights into common methods of analysis backed up by historical details help the reader gain an understanding of the history of structural mechanics from the standpoint of modern engineering practice A total of 175 brief biographies of important personalities in civil and structural engineering as well as structural mechanics plus an extensive bibliography round off this work

Congressional Record United States. Congress,1958

Men in reserve Juliette Pattinson,Arthur McIvor,Linsey Robb,2017-02-01 Men in reserve focuses on working class civilian men who as a result of working in reserved occupations were exempt from enlistment in the armed forces It uses fifty six newly conducted oral history interviews as well as autobiographies visual sources and existing archived interviews to explore how this group articulated their wartime experiences and how they positioned themselves in relation to the hegemonic discourse of military masculinity It considers the range of masculine identities circulating amongst civilian male workers during the war and investigates the extent to which reserved workers draw upon these identities when recalling their wartime selves It argues that the Second World War was capable of challenging civilian masculinities positioning the civilian man below that of the soldier hero while simultaneously reinforcing them by bolstering the capacity to provide and to earn high wages frequently in risky and dangerous work all which were key markers of masculinity
