Making Of Canadian Food Aid Policy:

The Making of Canadian Food Aid Policy Mark William Charlton, 1992 Since the Colombo Plan in the early 1950s food aid has been an important and highly visible component of the Canadian development assistance program Until the early 1970s however the Canadian food aid program was little more than a loosely connected collection of disparate programs designed to meet a host of sometimes conflicting objectives In the wake of the world food crisis of 1972 75 a growing number of groups began to question the developmental effectiveness of food aid In response the Canadian government undertook an extensive review and assessment of its food aid program which resulted in a series of new policy initiatives designed to change both the substance of food aid programs and the manner in which they were administered These changes marked a watershed in the history of the Canadian food aid program setting out the fundamental policy themes that have been consolidated and refined in the 1980s and early 1990s Mark Charlton examines the evolution of the Canadian food aid program during this critical period of policy reform Focusing on the rationale of the food aid program the nature of the planning and programming process the selection of delivery channels the make up of the food aid commodity basket and the nature of donor recipient relations Charlton provides useful insights into the overall objectives and priorities of Canadian foreign policy in the developing world He also reveals the impact of domestic economic interests Canadian political culture Canadian International bureaucratic politics and the global food aid regime on the evolution of Canadian aid policies Development Assistance Policies Cranford Pratt, 1996 For 25 years Canadians have argued whether the Canadian International Development Agency is the primary vehicle for helping basic human and development needs of the poorest countries and people or a tool for commercial exploitation and foreign policy Contributors from the government development organizations and academia analyze the components of Canadian aid the issues the agency has to deal with and the pressures it responds to Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR Making of Canadian Food Aid Policy Mark W. Transforming Development Jim Freedman, 2000-01-01 Foreign aid is now known more for its failures than its successes leading to claims in academic and policy circles that foreign aid has outlived its usefulness Instead of foreseeing the end of foreign these essays show how it might be restored Food Aid After Fifty Years Christopher B. Barrett, Dan Maxwell,2007-05-07 This book analyzes the impact food aid programmes have had over the past fifty years assessing the current situation as well as future prospects Issues such as political expediency the impact of international trade and exchange rates are put under the microscope to provide the reader with a greater understanding of this important subject matter This book will prove vital to students of development economics and development studies and those working in the Uniting on Food Assistance Christopher Barrett, Julia Steets, 2011-12-20 This book chronicles the most essential causes and implications of these trends which have expanded international food assistance well beyond the simple shipment of donated food aid commodities We pay particular attention to how these trends shape and are shaped by European Union EU and United States U S food assistance policy and practice and highlight the principles to which donors can adhere to move international food assistance forward The UN World Food Programme and the Development of Food Aid D. Shaw, 2001-05-17 This is the first history to be written of the World Food Programme WFP the food aid arm of the United Nations System It tells the story of the antecedents and origins of WFP and growth from modest beginnings as a three year experiment in 1963 65 to become the main source of international food aid for both disaster relief and development against the background of the evolution and development of food aid This dual role has put WFP in the front line of the United Nations attack on poverty hunger and food insecurity Hunger in the Balance Jennifer Clapp, 2015-10-27 Food aid has become a contentious issue in recent decades with sharp disagreements over genetically modified crops agricultural subsidies and ways of guaranteeing food security in the face of successive global food crises In Hunger in the Balance Jennifer Clapp provides a timely and comprehensive account of the contemporary politics of food aid explaining the origins and outcomes of recent clashes between donor nations and between donors and recipients She identifies fundamental disputes between donors over tied food aid which requires that food be sourced in the donor country versus untied aid which provides cash to purchase food closer to the source of hunger These debates have been especially intense between the major food aid donors particularly the European Union and the United States Similarly the EU s rejection of GMO agricultural imports has raised concerns among recipients about accepting GMO foodstuffs from the United States For the several hundred million people who at present have little choice but to rely on food aid for their daily survival Clapp concludes the consequences of these political differences are profound Food and Culture Carole Counihan, Penny Van Esterik, 2013 This reader reveals how food habits and beliefs both present a microcosm of any culture and contribute to our understanding of human behaviour Particular attention is given to how men and women define themselves differently through food choices Canada Among Nations, 2009-2010 Fen Hampson, Fen Osler Hampson, Paul Heinbecker, Norman Paterson School of International Affairs, 2010 Marking the 25th anniversary of the series Canada Among Nations 2009 focuses on how leading foreign and Canadian thinkers and doers assess Canada's prospects in a world in which the US will become more pre eminent and predominant The rise of China India Russia and Brazil as well as the increased significance of Europe and the further development of Africa are all transforming the context in which Canadians live Given the change in the tone style and substance of American foreign policy and the need to deal with unprecedented international financial problems and global economic retreat the topic of this volume is especially timely Canada will need to formulate sound policies on key issues such as energy and environmental sustainability nuclear nonproliferation human rights and trade and investment in key areas such as Afghanistan and the Middle East Astute bilateral diplomacy and constructive engagement in multilateral forums such as the United Nations and the G20 will be crucial to Canada's success Contributors to this volume critique Canada's performance on the world stage offering advice on initiatives Canada can take in its own and in the common interest Aid and Ebb Tide David R. Morrison, 2006-01-01 Aid and Ebb Tide A History of CIDA and Canadian Development Assistance examines Canada's mixed record since 1950 in transferring over 50 billion in capital and expertise to developing countries through ODA It focuses in particular on the Canadian International Development Agency CIDA the organization chiefly responsible for delivering Canada's development assistance Aid and Ebb Tide calls for a renewed and reformed Canadian commitment to development co operation at a time when the gap between the world's richest and poorest has been widening alarmingly and millions are still being born into poverty and human insecurity Canada First, Not Canada Alone Adam Chapnick, Professor of Defence Studies Adam Chapnick, Asa McKercher, Assistant Professor of History Asa McKercher, 2024 The definitive history of Canadian foreign policy since the 1930s Canada First Not Canada Alone examines how successive prime ministers have promoted Canada's national interests in a world that has grown increasingly complex and interconnected Case studies focused on environmental reform Indigenous peoples trade hostage diplomacy and wartime strategy illustrate the breadth of issues that shape Canada's global realm Drawing from extensive primary and secondary research Adam Chapnick and Asa McKercher offer a fresh take on how Canada positions itself in the world The International Politics of Genetically Modified Food R. Falkner, 2015-12-11 Genetically modified food is at the heart of a new global conflict over how to govern risky technologies in an era of globalization This timely collection brings together experts from the fields of IR environmental studies trade and law to examine the sources of international friction and to explore the prospects for international co operation The Making of Canadian Food Aid Policy Mark William Charlton, 1992 Charlton provides insight into the overall objectives and priorities of Canadian foreign policy in the developing world He also reveals the impact of domestic economic interests Canadian political culture bureaucratic politics and the global food aid regime on the evolution of Canadian food aid policies Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR Globalisation and Development Kenneth A. Reinert, 2017-03-31 Characterised by conceptual diversity the Handbook of Globalisation and Development presents contributions from prominent international researchers on all aspects of globalisation and carefully considers their role across a whole host of development processes The Handbook is structured around seven key areas international trade international production international finance migration foreign aid a broader view and challenges Adopting a multi disciplinary approach the section on a broader view delves into dimensions of globalisation and development that go beyond the mere economic such as culture technology health and poverty Carefully crafted the chapters herein offer a rigorous and comprehensive assessment of the available research to date and provide an assessment of policy options across all areas considered Food Jennifer Clapp, 2012 Food is one of the most basic resources that humans need for daily survival Forty percent of the world's population gains a livelihood from agriculture and we all consume food Yet control over this fundamental resource is concentrated in relatively few hands The 2008 food price crisis illustrated both the volatility and vulnerability built into the current global food system at the height of the crisis the number of hungry people on the planet climbed to over 1 billion At the same time there are serious ecological consequences that stem from an increasingly industrial model of agriculture that has spread worldwide This book aims to contribute to a fuller understanding of the forces that influence and shape the current global food system Author Jennifer Clapp explores how corporate control inequitable international agricultural trade rules and the financialization of farm commodities have each had a fundamental influence on the practices that dominate today s global food system By contrast farmers and consumers particularly in the developing world have had little voice to change the rules of the game But movements are emerging to challenge the dominant global system The extent to which these alternative movements can displace it however remains to be seen Transforming the Prairies Shannon Stunden Bower, 2024-11-01 Transforming the Prairies proposes a new understanding of Canada's Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration PFRA complicating common views of the agency as a model of effective government environmental management Between 1935 and 2009 the PFRA promoted agricultural rehabilitation in and beyond the Canadian Prairies with mixed and equivocal results The promotion of strip farming as a soil conservation technique for example left crops susceptible to sawfly infestations The PFRA s involvement in irrigation development in Ghana increased the local population s vulnerability to various illnesses And PFRA infrastructure construction intended to serve the public good failed to account for the interests of affected Indigenous peoples The PFRA is revealed as being a high modernist state agency that produced varied environmental outcomes and that contributed to consolidating colonialism and racism This investigation affirms the importance of engaging historical perspectives to help ensure that contemporary environmental management efforts support more just and sustainable futures Food Aid World Food Programme, 1988 Rethinking Canadian Aid Stephen Brown, Molly den Heyer, David R. Black, 2016-06-09 In 2013 the government abolished the Canadian International Development Agency CIDA which had been Canada's flagship foreign aid agency for decades and transferred its functions to the newly renamed Department of Foreign Affairs Trade and Development DFATD As the government is rethinking Canadian aid and its relationship with other foreign policy and commercial objectives the time is ripe to rethink Canadian aid more broadly Edited by Stephen Brown Molly den Heyer and

David R Black this revised edition not only analyzes Canada's past development assistance it also highlights important new opportunities in the context of the recent change in government Designed to reach a variety of audiences contributions by twenty scholars and experts in the field offer an incisive examination of Canada's record and initiatives in Canadian foreign aid including its relatively recent emphasis on maternal and child health and on the extractive sector as well as the longer term engagement with state fragility The portrait that emerges is a sobering one This book is essential reading for anyone interested in Canada's changing role in the world Published in English Doing Ethics in a Pluralistic World Helen M. Buss,Roger Hutchinson,Canadian Corporation for Studies in Religion,2002-05-30 Annotation A collection of essays in honur of the man who encouraged and participated in shaping a Canadian contextual social ethics
