Taliaferro, 2019-06-30 Great powers often initiate risky military and diplomatic inventions in far off peripheral regions that pose no direct threat to them risking direct confrontation with rivals in strategically inconsequential places Why do powerful countries behave in a way that leads to entrapment in prolonged expensive and self defeating conflicts Jeffrey W Taliaferro suggests that such interventions are driven by the refusal of senior officials to accept losses in their state s relative power international status or prestige Instead of cutting their losses leaders often continue to invest blood and money in failed excursions into the periphery Their policies may seem to be driven by rational concerns about power and security but Taliaferro deems them to be at odds with the master explanation of political realism Taliaferro constructs a balance of risk theory of foreign policy that draws on defensive realism in international relations and prospect theory in psychology He illustrates the power of this new theory in several case narratives Germany s initiation and escalation of the 1905 and 1911 Moroccan crises the United States involvement in the Korean War in 1950 52 and Japan s entanglement in the second Sino Japanese war in 1937 40 and its decisions for war with the U S in 1940 41 International Encyclopedia of Military History James C.
