Piotrowski, 2016-09-07 Matthew crowds more Old Testament quotations and allusions into the prologue than anywhere else in his gospel In this volume Nicholas G Piotrowski demonstrates the narratological and rhetorical effects of such frontloading Particularly seven formula quotations constellate to establish a redemptive historical setting inside of which the rest of the narrative operates This setting is defined by Old Testament expectations for David's great son to end Israel's exile and rule the nations Piotrowski contends that the rhetorical effect of this intertextual storytelling was to provide the Matthean community with an identity in a contentious atmosphere in terms of God's historical design for the ages now fulfilled in Jesus and his followers Jesus, Contradicted Michael R. Licona, 2024-05-28 The differences and discrepancies in the Gospels constitute the foremost objections to their reliability and the credibility of their message. Some have tried to resolve Gospel contradictions with strained harmonization efforts. Many others conclude that the Gospels are hopelessly contradictory and therefore historically unreliable accounts of Jesus. In Jesus Contradicted, New Testament scholar Michael Licona shows how the genre of ancient biography to which the Gospels belong actually allows biographers to be flexible in how they report events, construct a narrative, and make an argument. Licona demonstrates that the intentional changes to the Jesus tradition by the Evangelists reveal that the differences in how the Gospels report events are not grounds for their rejection. Instead, they are a result of the Gospel writers employing standard literary conventions common in their time for writing ancient biography. Licona introduces readers to the genre of ancient biography through Plutarch, who wrote 48 of the 90 extant biographies written within 150 years of Jesus, giving numerous examples of compositional devices employed by Plutarch and comparing them with instances in the Gospels where the Evangelists appear to use similar techniques. Licona also examines Theon's Progymnasmata, a first-century textbook that provides six techniques for paraphrasing one's sources when writing a narrative. In doing so, he helps readers understand why the Gospels report many events differently. Finally, Licona concludes by addressing the thorny question of whether the editorial moves commonplace in ancient biography are compatible with the doctrines of the divine inspiration and the inerrancy of Scripture. Rather than trying to resolve discrepancies by bending the Gospel narrative, which risks making them say things they aren't saying, Jesus Contradicted situates the Gospels within their proper context and helps readers account for differences in the Gospels in a cohesive and historically cogent way.

Matthew's Judaization of Mark Anne M. O'Leary, 2006-09-23 Creative imitation Gk mimesis Lt imitatio was the primary literary convention of the ancient world of the first century CE. In the first part of the book, it is demonstrated that it was the principal means by which classical authors, for example, Virgil, Seneca, Plutarch, and Livy, composed their works. An examination of the use of sources in both Jewish and Christian Sacred Scriptures in the light of this convention provides a new and fruitful approach to scripture scholarship. The Book of Tobit and Paul's First Letter to the Corinthians 1 Cor 8:10 are examined to demonstrate this thesis. This sets the context for an examination of Matthew's use of Mark as a literary source in the light of Graeco-Roman literary conventions. In part two of the book, such a use is entirely plausible when one considers that, penned in Greek, probably to Diaspora audiences, the canonical gospels reflect Greco-Roman rather than strictly Palestinian Jewish literary conventions. Both the way in which Matthew incorporates his Markan source into his text and the function and effect of this source in its new Matthean context are examined. This methodology provides compelling evidence that Matthew's use of Mark as a source was toward the Judaization of his Gospel.

insightful and engaging survey of Mark's Gospel exploring each major section of the text along with key themes. It is a work that can be enjoyed by laypersons as well as pastors and teachers. Pastors will find the abundant use of illustrations to be helpful in preparing their own messages and as such it will find a welcome place in the preacher's library. Simply powerfully with great precision and exegetical accuracy Kieran Beville masterfully brings us on a life-transforming journey. Readers will be both inspired and challenged as they hear the words of Jesus speaking afresh from the page of Scripture and experience the ministry of Jesus in a spiritually captivating way. The author has a pastor's heart, a theologian's mind, and a writer's gift. His style is gripping as he beautifully explains and illustrates Mark's Gospel. Kieran Beville has done a great service to the church and especially to true believers who desire to grow in grace, increase in their knowledge of truth, and experience the intimacy, joy, and undeserved and unspeakable privilege of walking as disciples with Jesus. This book is ideal as a study companion for Mark's Gospel. One can read a section from the gospel and then read the corresponding section to receive a fresh viewpoint and a practical application. The author often helpfully refers to background and historical information from the Ancient Middle East that would not otherwise be easily understood by modern western readers. Many times there will be cross references to other passages of Scripture thereby connecting Mark's writing with other important passages from the Bible. Other times the author provides insights from current events, history, literature, church life, or his rich personal experience. These draw out the ongoing relevance of the Gospel of Mark. Journey with Jesus is coordinated with the chapters of Mark. Each section is divided appropriately with the modern scholarly understanding of the Gospel. The volume concludes with helpful essays on Who Killed Jesus, Judas Iscariot, and Pontius Pilate.

At the Intersection of Hermeneutics and Homiletics Yung Suk Kim, 2025-04-18. While hermeneutics involves comprehensive study of the biblical text, whether through historical or literary or reader-focused approaches, homiletics is concerned with a selected theme, message, and on the composition and delivery of sermonic discourse aimed at a particular audience. But the border between hermeneutics and homiletics is blurry because both disciplines require readers to engage the biblical text from their own contexts. This collection deals with the intersection of hermeneutics and homiletics by exploring two revelatory texts: one from the Hebrew Bible and the other from the New Testament, the book of Ruth and Matthew 15:21-28, a Canaanite woman's encounter with Jesus. Both reflect agonizing issues that readers must tackle: immigration, family, community, identity, agency, race, ethnicity, gender, class, culture, economy, and religion. A diverse group of scholars brings their transgressive perspectives to the above texts. Unfolding new areas of interest, inquiry, and insight, they will transgress authoritative readings of biblical texts, fashion hermeneutic horizons in dialogue with the text, and forge homiletic trajectories toward contemporary audiences. Without limiting interpretation to a box, this volume looks to register bold voices to perennial issues in our day. Homiletic transformation occurs through the relentless, resistant reading of the text and through reimagining our world. Religion Index One, 2007.
