exoskeleton of a suit of armour was a more extravagant and less adaptable means of personal protection. It required greater metallurgical resources to make but offered far better protection against available weapons. This book tells the story from its invention in 14th century Lombardy which depended on the production of the necessary steel until its eventual decline in the 17th century principally because of the development of another military technology the gun. The metallurgy of 600 armours has been analysed and their probable effectiveness in battle is assessed by means of mechanical tests. A Poetical Chronology and Compendium of Ancient British and Modern English History Robert Clarke (Schoolmaster.), 1864
