Handbook of Developments in Consumer Behaviour Victoria Wells, G. R. Foxall, 2012-01-01
This Handbook examines the area of consumer behaviour from the perspective of current developments and developing areas for the discipline to new opportunities that comprehend the nature of consumer choice and its relationship to marketing. Consumer research incorporates perspectives from a spectrum of long established sciences: psychology, economics and sociology. This Handbook strives to include this multitude of sources of thought adding geography, neuroscience, ethics and behavioural ecology to this list. Encompassing scholars with a passion for researching consumers, this Handbook highlights important developments in consumer behaviour research including consumer culture, impulsivity and compulsiveness, ethics and behavioural ecology. It examines evolutionary and neuroscience perspectives as well as consumer choice. Undergraduate and postgraduate students and researchers in marketing with interests in consumer behaviour will find this enriching resource invaluable.

An Introduction to Corporate Environmental Management Stefan Schaltegger, Roger Burritt, Holger Petersen, 2017-09-08
This book is designed to meet the urgent need for a comprehensive and definitive introduction and teaching text on corporate environmental management. It aims to become the standard textbook for courses examining how business can take the environment into account while also providing an accessible and thorough overview of this increasingly multidisciplinary subject for practitioners. Written by the internationally acknowledged experts Stefan Schaltegger and Roger Burritt, authors of the highly influential Contemporary Environmental Accounting along with Holger Petersen, the book invites the reader to join in an exploration of the ways in which companies can engage in environmental management and why such engagement can be profitable for business. The reader is invited to examine whether the contents reflect their own experience, take their experience further or oppose their own views; note which of the ideas presented are especially important, add to those ideas or encourage a reaction; positive or negative; answer questions creatively based on their own perspective of the issues; encourage themselves to be inspired by questions which can be investigated further through other written sources of information such as books you will be guided to through the bibliography, the Internet or the general media and think about and plan the ways in which the knowledge provided can be implemented in your own situation. The book is organised into four main sections. First, the fundamental ideas and linkages behind business management the environment and sustainable development are briefly but clearly sketched The second part of the book outlines the criteria against which environmentally oriented business management can be assessed and the fields of action in which success can be achieved The third part presents a discussion and examples of strategies for environmental management which are linked in the fourth part to the essential tools of environmental management especially green marketing environmental accounting and eco control The book is full of case studies and examples related to the main contents of each chapter and each chapter provides a number of questions for the student or reader to address An Introduction to Corporate Environmental Management is both a textbook and a sourcebook The reader can either work through the material in a structured way or dip into the content and follow up on specific areas of interest The materials are designed to be used for understanding and reference rather than to be learned by heart The primary aim is for the reader to obtain a practical understanding of the relationship between management and environmental issues which can be applied in day to day situations whether as part of a student s wider view of management or within the practitioner s real world situation It will be essential reading for many years to come Globalization and Partnerships Jacques-Marie Aurifeille, Serge Svizzero, Clement Allan Tisdell, 2007 Growing economic globalisation has increased international business competition and international economic interdependence From this perspective many firms have formed business partnerships and most nations have had to re evaluate their economic interdependence This book explores changes that have occurred or have been proposed in this regard It provides new insights into business partnerships and international economic interdependence given growing economic globalisation and explores the managerial and socio economic consequences of those ideas The contributions in this book have been divided into four parts Those in Part II concentrate on the specification of partnerships and reasons for business partnerships in the context of a globalisation The idea of global networks in which some hard and soft forms of partnerships would appear and mix is introduced and discussed according to the partners involved nations unions firms and consumers and the economic activities whether tangible or abstract Globalisation also has a number of consequences for business co ordination in particular when they are based on outsourcing strategies in which cost reduction is balanced with knowledge transfers These are amongst the issues explored in Part III The difficulty to monitor and predict the effects of global partnerships tends to increase the importance of cultural and psychological variables such as trust and commitment Therefore the role of attitudes and perceptions is very important Whatever the agreement and the conjoined management among partner firms the attitude of the other agents can produce asymmetric affects on these firms and considerably bias their partnership strategy Such biases are particularly likely from consumers Their attitude towards globalisation is not the only bias that may occur Their loyalty is also an important issue in a globalising world particularly in the service sector where lots of partnerships have been made on a global scale eg banks airlines leisure These are amongst the relationship marketing issues explored in Part IV In Part V the factors introduced in the previous chapters are considered from a regional and cultural perspective where nations and regions themselves are engaged in global partnership In this context discrepancy often develops between the domestic and the international globalisation strategies as well as between the capital and labour markets The resulting complexity is particularly problematic for the developing and peripheral economies Novel insights about partnership emerge as studied in this concluding part of the book

New Developments in Online Marketing Stephen Tagg, Alan Stevenson, Tiziano Vescovi, 2013-09-13 There can be little doubt about the profound impact that the Internet has had on all aspects of business over the past decade Indeed it is now widely accepted that we have entered a new and even more revolutionary phase in the development of the Net as a global marketing and communications platform a phase characterised by information pull rather than push user generated content openness sharing collaboration interaction communities and social networking New generation Web based communities and hosted applications are beginning to have a major impact on customer behaviour across a diverse range of industries These new applications represent a fundamental change in the way people use the Internet their online expectations and experiences From a marketing perspective the most distinctive feature is not the technology involved but rather the growth of a new global culture a Net generation culture based on decentralised authority rather than hierarchy and control online socialising and collaboration user generated and distributed content open communications peer to peer sharing and global participation Success in this new online environment characterised by people and network empowerment requires new mindsets and innovative approaches to marketing customer and network relationships This book makes a valuable contribution to the field by examining recent and future developments in online marketing including the revolutionary impact of new media Chapters cover a wide range of topics including information exchange on bulletin board systems and in online consumer portals Web 2 0 and New Wave Globals online tribal marketing co creation industry impact privacy issues online advertising effectiveness and practitioner prognostics for the future of online marketing This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Marketing Management

Bounded Rational Choice Behaviour Soora Rasouli, Harry Timmermans, 2015-01-30 The book is an attempt to stimulate development in travel behaviour analysis and provide a basic source of reference to the transportation research community The aim of the book is to give centre stage to some recent innovative approaches to models of bounded rationality both under conditions of certainty and uncertainty

Contemporary Consumption Rituals Cele C. Otnes, Tina M. Lowrey, 2004-05-20 This work offers a multifaceted exploration of new rituals such as Celebrating Kwanzaa and of the ways entrenched rituals such as Mardi Gras gift giving and weddings have changed Moreover it examines the influence of both cultures and subcultures

Innovations in Classification, Data Science, and Information Systems Daniel Baier, Klaus-Dieter Wernecke, 2006-06-06 The volume presents innovations in data analysis and classification and gives an overview of the state of the art in these scientific fields and applications Areas that receive considerable attention in the book are discrimination and clustering data analysis and statistics as well as applications in marketing finance and medicine The reader will find material on recent technical and methodological developments and a large number of applications demonstrating the usefulness of the newly developed techniques

Psycholinguistic Phenomena in Marketing Communications Tina M. Lowrey, 2020-07-24 The field of psycholinguistics and the application of psycholinguistic theory to advertising and marketing communication has become a topic of great prominence in the field of consumer behavior Psycholinguistic Phenomena in Marketing Communications is the first book to address the growing research in this area This timely volume combines research conducted by current scholars as it demonstrates diversity of the field in terms of relevant topics and methodological approaches It examines brand names and their semantic and sound based impact sentence structure and research in marketing communication advertising narratives evoking emotional responses the effects of empathy response on advertising and the role of language and images in creation of advertising The book includes authors from a variety of fields including mass communication marketing social psychology linguistics and neuropsychology A range of perspectives is discussed from qualitative text analysis to controlled psychological experimentation Psycholinguistic Phenomena in Marketing Communications is intended for students and scholars in numerous disciplines such as advertising marketing social psychology sociology and linguistics It is also suitable for graduate courses in these disciplines
