Conceiving Sexuality Richard G. Parker, John H. Gagnon, 2013-11-15 First Published in 1995 After widespread neglect over many years the study of human sexuality has recently come to the forefront of many of the most important debates in contemporary society and culture The continued development of feminist theory the emergence of gay and lesbian studies and the impact of the international AIDS pandemic have combined to focus new attention on the ways in which gender and sexuality are shaped in different social and cultural settings and on the complex interactions between sexuality and health in the late twentieth century Edited by two of the leading figures in contemporary sex research Conceiving Sexuality brings together the contributions of writers from a wide range of social science disciplines and cultural traditions who are working at the cutting edge of contemporary sex research Focusing on key areas of concern such as gender power relations the formation of sexual identities the dynamics of sexual desire and the social construction of sexual risk the essays in Conceiving Sexuality provide an important overview of the most pressing topical and theoretical issues currently shaping debate in international and cross cultural research on sexuality

Lectures on Political Economy Dugald Stewart,1877 Cyclopædia of Political Science, Political Economy, and of the Political History of the United States John Joseph Lalor,1882 The Routledge Handbook of the Political Economy of Health and Healthcare David Primrose,Rodney D. Loepky,Robin Chang,2024-02-28

This handbook provides a comprehensive and critical overview of the gamut of contemporary issues around health and healthcare from a political economy perspective Its contributions present a unique challenge to prevailing economic accounts of health and healthcare which narrowly focus on individual behaviour and market processes Instead the capacity of the human body to reach its full potential and the ability of society to prevent disease and cure illness are demonstrated to be shaped by a broader array of political economic processes The material conditions in which societies produce distribute exchange consume and reproduce and the operation of power relations therein influence all elements of human health from food consumption and workplace safety to inequality healthcare and housing and even the biophysical conditions in which humans live This volume explores these concerns across five sections First it introduces and critically engages with a variety of established and cutting edge theoretical perspectives in political economy to conceptualise health and healthcare from neoclassical and behavioural economics to Marxist and feminist approaches The next two sections extend these insights to evaluate the neoliberalisation of health and healthcare over the past 40 years highlighting their individualisation and commodification by the capitalist state and powerful corporations The fourth section examines the diverse manifestation of these dynamics across a range of geographical contexts The volume concludes with a section devoted to outlining more progressive health and healthcare arrangements which transcend the limitations of both neoliberalism and capitalism This volume will be an indispensable reference work for students and scholars of political economy health policy and politics health economics health geography the sociology of health and other health related disciplines Chapters 1 8 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons CC BY NC ND 4 0 license
