Reforming the Malawian Public Sector Richard Tambulasi, 2010-06-01 Reforming the Malawian Public Sector argues that the new public management model that Malawi like most African countries adopted under the influence of donor organisations has not led to the intended development The book examines decentralisation performance contracting and publicprivate partnerships as key aspects of the reforms and comes to the conclusion that at best it can be argued that the failures have been due to poor implementation and this could be attributed to the fact that the process was led by donors who lacked the necessary institutional infrastructure The book uses the 2005 6 fertiliser subsidy programme which the government embarked on despite donor resistance that it went against market models but which turned out to be overwhelmingly successful to demonstrate the states developmental ability and potential This volume is essential reading for academics students and practitioners seeking a deeper understanding of public administration management policy development and governance in Africa and the rest of the developing world The book is dedicated to the memory Guy Mhone a Malawian who was among Africas leading scholars in public administration and governance His works focused mainly on public sector reforms and development

Asia after the Developmental State Toby Carroll, Darryl S. L. Jarvis, 2017-10-12 Asia after the Developmental State presents cutting edge analyses of state society transformation in Asia under globalisation The volume incorporates a variety of political economy and public policy oriented positions and collectively explores the uneven evolution of new public management and neoliberal agendas aimed at reordering state and society around market rationality Taken together the contributions explore the emergence of marketisation across Asia including China Japan South Korea Indonesia Malaysia and Vietnam what is now often described as the world s most economically dynamic region and the degree to which marketisation has taken root in what forms and how this is impacting state society and market relationships

Think Tanks and Non-Traditional Security Erin Zimmerman, 2016-02-09 Asian security institutions have struggled to adapt to the so called non traditional security issues that characterise the strategic landscape of the 21st century The resulting gaps in governance have increasingly been filled by think tanks which have arguably begun to change the way that Asian security is governed

Japan's Environmental Politics and Governance Yasuo Takao, 2016-11-03 Environmental issues stretch across scales of geographic space and require action at multiple levels of jurisdiction including the individual level community level national level and global level Much of the scholarly work surrounding new approaches to environmental governance tends to overlook the role of sub national governments but this study examines the potential of sub national participation to make policy choices which are congruent with global strategies and national mandates This book investigates the emerging actors and new channels of Japan s environmental governance which has been taking shape within an increasingly globalized international system By analysing this important new phenomenon it sheds light on the changing nature of Japan s environmental policy and politics and shows how the links between global strategies national mandates and local action serve as an influential factor in Japan s changing structures of environmental governance Further it demonstrates that decision making competencies are shared between actors operating at different levels and in new spheres of authority resulting from collaboration between state and non state actors It highlights a number of the problems challenges and critiques of the actors in environmental governance as well as raising new empirical and theoretical puzzles for the future study of governance over environmental and global issues Finally it concludes that changes in the tiers and new spheres of authority are leading the nation towards an environmentally stable future positioned within socio economic and political constraints Demonstrating that bridging policy gaps between local action national policy and global strategies is potentially a way of reinventing environmental policy this book will be of interest to students and scholars of Environmental Studies Environmental Politics and Japanese Politics
