Committee, 2007-11-15 In March 2006 the Government published its White Paper on the BBC A public service for all the BBC in the digital age Cm 6763 ISBN 9780101676328 which set out the framework for the BBC s role as a public service broadcaster over the next ten years Given the concerns that have been raised over the future sustainability of the current public service broadcasting system the Committee s report examines a range of issues including the prospects for maintaining plurality in public service broadcasting in the digital age the practicality of continuing to impose public service obligations on commercial broadcasters the viability of existing funding models for ITV Channel 4 and Five and the case for public funding of broadcasters in addition to the BBC Amongst its findings although the Committee notes its overall confidence in the viability of most types of public service content it recognises that some content is already coming under pressure and that this is likely to increase over time The report argues that the BBC should not be left as the only supplier of public service content in any area of programming as the maintenance of plurality is an important public policy objective Public funding using licence fee income or general taxation should be made available to all broadcasters on a contestable basis to bring the benefits of competition to the provision of public service content that the market might not otherwise provide such as UK produced children s programming or regional programming Transportation Policy United States.

still relevant in that provision He also examines how and where they are currently considered and then suggests why how and where this might be changed The book explains how some of the most complex competition law cases can be understood and offers a framework for those fighting or deciding such cases in the future As such it will be of interest to European competition lawyers both academics and practitioners furnishing them with a framework for hard cases as well as students seeking a deeper understanding of how the European competition rules work and how they interact both with European Union and Member State public policy goals It will also help competition economists by revealing the mechanisms through which public policy considerations impact upon the consumer welfare test in European law

Public Policy and Economic Competition in Japan Michael L. A Framework for European Competition Law Christopher Townley, 2018-11-29 This book asks whether the current push to increase uniformity in substantive and procedural competition policy and enforcement in Europe as well as in related institutional structures is desirable It focuses on European Union EU competition policy and enforcement related to Articles 101 and 102 TFEU and the merger rules the equivalent rules in the Member States and the relationships between these different legal orders Uniformity has many benefits yet the advantages of diversity are also legion enabling more policy experimentation and innovation and improving the ability to accommodate national preferences Contrary to the overwhelming view of academics practitioners and regulators in this area the book argues that uniformity is insufficient and examines ways of achieving a better mix of uniformity and diversity the EU's motto is United in Diversity To achieve this better mix the book offers a new framework for European competition law Coordinated Diversity Finally this book discusses whether Coordinated Diversity fits with the current legal order in the EU as well as the EU constitutional settlement more generally and suggests some ways that it might be made compatible with this order with relative ease The book's impact could be significant changing the results in individual cases the way cases are argued and what information is relevant More importantly it builds the theoretical foundations for fundamentally altering the way in which the EU and the Member States competition authorities interact allowing space for disagreement and uncertainty The aim is to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of competition policy making and enforcement in Europe It should also increase the legitimacy in this field rebalancing towards the Member States Coordinated Diversity provides a new way of seeing the EU that better blends difference when this is demanded with uniformity and its benefits as necessary A timely and ambitious work this book will be read with interest by all practitioners and academics interested in EU competition law as well as the related fields of political science and economics International Cooperation, Competition Authorities and Transnational Networks Mateusz Błachucki, 2023-11-30 This book presents a comprehensive study of the emergence functioning and evolution of international cooperation among competition authorities It presents an in depth look at network cooperation taking place within international organisations as well as networks based on binding international agreements and various informal networks among others. It further identifies and analyses the forms of international cooperation among national competition authorities (NCAs) that are taking place within transnational competition networks. The book classifies these forms of cooperation by grouping them into three stages: soft developed and enhanced cooperation, discussing each in detail. It thus reflects the evolution of the international cooperation process and provides insights as to its possible development. This work will be of interest to researchers, academics and advanced students in the fields of competition law, public administration, international relations and those interested in international competition law and its contribution to global public governance.

Complexity and the Art of Public Policy David Colander, Roland Kupers, 2016-02-16 How ideas in complexity can be used to develop more effective public policy. Complexity science, made possible by modern analytical and computational advances, is changing the way we think about social systems and social theory. Unfortunately, economists' policy models have not kept up and are stuck in either a market fundamentalist or government control narrative. While these standard narratives are useful in some cases, they are damaging in others, directing thinking away from creative, innovative policy solutions. Complexity and the Art of Public Policy outlines a new, more flexible policy narrative which envisions society as a complex, evolving system that is uncontrollable but can be influenced. David Colander and Roland Kupers describe how economists and society became locked into the current policy framework and lay out fresh alternatives for framing policy questions. Offering original solutions to stubborn problems, the complexity narrative builds on broader philosophical traditions such as those in the work of John Stuart Mill to suggest initiatives that the authors call activist laissez faire policies. Colander and Kupers develop innovative bottom-up solutions that, through new institutional structures such as for benefit corporations, channel individuals' social instincts into solving societal problems, making profits a tool for change rather than a goal. They argue that a central role for government in this complexity framework is to foster an ecostructure within which diverse forms of social entrepreneurship can emerge and blossom.

Economic Geography and Public Policy Richard Baldwin, 2003 Illustrating policy insights that stem from economic geography models, this text focuses on trade policy, tax policy and regional policy. The authors show how these models can be used to make sense of real-world situations.

European Union Competition Policy versus Industrial Competitiveness Hikaru Yoshizawa, 2021-11-10 The book examines whether EU competition policy is applied fairly and consistently to EU and non-EU firms despite persistent political pressure from member states for a relaxation of the rules and deals with the dilemma of regional organisations in the global political economy. Focussing on the EU's desire to achieve balance between the promotion of market competition and the enhancement of international competitiveness, the book explores the validity of its attempts successfully to ensure a stringent competition policy which is nationality blind and comparatively strict. Finally, it shows that the competition competitiveness dilemma remains unresolved because the EU's capability to set global regulatory standards is constrained by competition and the need to engage in multilateral forums such as the WTO and the International Competition Network This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of European Union studies EU competition law and policy EU external action and more broadly to global governance international political economy and international relations The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

EU Sports Law and Breakaway Leagues in Football Katarina Pijetlovic, 2015-02-02 Katarina Pijetlovic is the first author to address the issue of breakaway leagues in football and their treatment under EU law In this book she guides the reader through EU sports law the specificities of the sporting industry and the problems and power struggles in European football governance in the context of the breakaway threats by elite clubs In order to analyse the legality of UEFA clauses that restrict the formation of such breakaway structures the author first provides a progressive interpretation of the applicable EU sports law and an in depth analytical review of EU sports cases decided under internal market and competition provisions including a novel perspective on the UEFA home grown rule and the Bosman case Thereafter she sets out an original theory of convergence between TFEU provisions on competition and the internal market in the light of sporting exceptions Finally in applying the legal principles thus outlined Katarina Pijetlovic explores the legality of the restrictive UEFA clauses and the case for the formation of alternative leagues in European football under EU sports law A number of surprising outcomes emerge from this analytical process Conversely she also tests the largely neglected issue of the legality of forming a breakaway league by the European elite football clubs The systematic way in which the reader is guided through EU sports law and the legal issues under consideration makes the book accessible for EU lawyers as well as non EU sports lawyers on both an academic and a practitioner's level Katarina Pijetlovic holds licentiate and doctoral degrees in EU sports law from the University of Helsinki The book appears in the ASSER International Sports Law Series under the editorship of Dr David McArdle Prof Ben Van Rompuy and Marco van der Harst LL.M

Regulating Big Tech Martin Moore, Damian Tambini, 2022 Selected chapters from this book are published open access and free to read or download from Oxford Scholarship Online <https://oxford.universitypressscholarship.com> Since Digital Dominance was published in 2018 a global consensus has emerged that technology platforms should be regulated. Governments from the United States to Australia have sought to reduce the power of these platforms and curtail the dominance of a few yet regulatory responses remain fragmented with some focused solely on competition while others seek to address issues around harm, privacy and freedom of expression. Regulating Big Tech condenses the vibrant tech policy debate into a toolkit for the policy maker, legal expert and academic seeking to address one of the key issues facing democracies today: platform dominance and its impact on society. Contributors explore elements of the toolkit through comprehensive coverage of existing and future policy on data, antitrust, competition, freedom of expression, jurisdiction, fake news, elections, liability and accountability while also identifying potential policy impacts on global communication, user rights, public welfare and economic activity. With original chapters from leading academics and policy experts, Regulating Big Tech sets out a policy framework that can address interlocking challenges of contemporary tech regulation and offer actionable solutions for our technological future.
