Goodlander,2016-10-31 Wayang kulit or shadow puppetry connects a mythic past to the present through public ritual performance and is one of most important performance traditions in Bali The dalang or puppeteer is revered in Balinese society as a teacher and spiritual leader Recently women have begun to study and perform in this traditionally male role an innovation that has triggered resistance and controversy In Women in the Shadows Jennifer Goodlander draws on her own experience training as a dalang as well as interviews with early women dalang and leading artists to upend the usual assessments of such gender role shifts She argues that rather than assuming that women performers are necessarily mounting a challenge to tradition tradition in Bali must be understood as a system of power that is inextricably linked to gender hierarchy She examines the very idea of tradition and how it forms both an ideological and social foundation in Balinese culture Ultimately Goodlander offers a richer more complicated understanding of both tradition and gender in Balinese society Following in the footsteps of other eminent reflexive ethnographies Women in the Shadows will be of value to anyone interested in performance studies Southeast Asian culture or ethnographic methods Troubleshooting Puppet indicates better alternatives Trust and Skepticism Elizabeth J. Robinson, Shiri Einav, 2014-04-16 Children learn a great deal from other people including history science and religion as well as language itself Although our informants are usually well intentioned they can be wrong and sometimes people deceive deliberately As soon as children can learn from what others tell them they need to be able to evaluate the likely truth of such testimony This book is the first of its kind to provide an overview of the field of testimony research summarizing and discussing the latest findings into how children make such evaluations when do they trust what people tell them and when are they skeptical The nine chapters are organized according to the extent to which testimony is necessary for children to learn the matter in question from cases where children are entirely dependent on the testimony of others to cases where testimony is merely a convenient way of learning Chapters also consider situations where reliance on testimony can lead a child astray and the need for children to learn to be vigilant to deception to ask questions appropriately and to evaluate what they are told With an international range of contributors and two concluding commentaries which integrate the findings within a broader perspective of research on child development the book provides a thorough overview of this emerging sub field Trust and Skepticism will be essential reading for researchers academic teachers and advanced students working in the areas of cognitive development and language development and will also be of great interest to educationists concerned with nursery and primary education ↑

The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a exceptional and gripping novel that will keep you speculating until the very end. The novel is a cautionary tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
