Jane Burns, 2014-07-09 Clothing was used in the Middle Ages to mark religious military and chivalric orders lepers and prostitutes The ostentatious display of luxury dress more specifically served as a means of self definition for members of the ruling elite and the courtly lovers among them In Courtly Love Undressed E Jane Burns unfolds the rich display of costly garments worn by amorous partners in literary texts and other cultural documents in the French High Middle Ages Burns reads through clothes in lyric romance and didactic literary works vernacular sermons and sumptuary laws to show how courtly attire is used to negotiate desire sexuality and symbolic space as well as social class Reading through clothes reveals that the expression of female desire so often effaced in courtly lyric and romance can be registered in the poetic deployment of fabric and adornment and that gender is often configured along a sartorial continuum rather than in terms of naturally derived categories of woman and man The symbolic identification of the court itself as a hybrid crossing place between Europe and the East also emerges through Burns's reading of literary allusions to the trade travel and pilgrimage that brought luxury cloth to France The Moonstone Wilkie Collins, 2019 A fabulous yellow diamond disappears the case looks simple but in mid Victorian England no one is what they seem and nothing can be taken for granted Once a Week Eneas Sweetland Dallas, 1865 Memoir, 1921 The Car of Destiny C. N. Williamson, A. M.
