This book is the first to describe the role of business interest groups in the development of Brazil during the nineteenth century      Urbanization, Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services: Challenges and Opportunities Thomas Elmqvist,Michail Fragkias,Julie Goodness,Burak Güneralp,Peter J. Marcotullio,Robert I. McDonald,Susan Parnell,Maria Schewenius,Marte Sendstad,Karen C. Seto,Cathy Wilkinson,2013-09-21 Urbanization is a global phenomenon and the book emphasizes that this is not just a social technological process It is also a social ecological process where cities are places for nature and where cities also are dependent on and have impacts on the biosphere at different scales from local to global The book is a global assessment and delivers four main conclusions Urban areas are expanding faster than urban populations Half the increase in urban land across the world over the next 20 years will occur in Asia with the most extensive change expected to take place in India and China Urban areas modify their local and regional climate through the urban heat island effect and by altering precipitation patterns which together will have significant impacts on net primary production ecosystem health and biodiversity Urban expansion will heavily draw on natural resources including water on a global scale and will often consume prime agricultural land with knock on effects on biodiversity and ecosystem services elsewhere Future urban expansion will often occur in areas where the capacity for formal governance is restricted which will constrain the protection of biodiversity and management of ecosystem services      Technocrats and the Politics of Drought and Development in Twentieth-Century Brazil Eve E. Buckley,2017-09-11 Eve E Buckley s study of twentieth century Brazil examines the nation s hard social realities through the history of science focusing on the use of technology and engineering as vexed instruments of reform and economic development Nowhere was the tension between technocratic optimism and entrenched inequality more evident than in the drought ridden Northeast sert o plagued by chronic poverty recurrent famine and mass migrations Buckley reveals how the physicians engineers agronomists and mid level technocrats working for federal agencies to combat drought were pressured by politicians to seek out a technological magic bullet that would both end poverty and obviate the need for land redistribution to redress long standing injustices Scientists planned and oversaw huge projects including dam construction irrigation for small farmers and public health initiatives They were Buckley shows sincerely determined to solve the drought crisis and improve the lot of poor people in the sert o Over time however they came to the frustrating realization that despite technology s tantalizing promise of an apolitical means to end poverty political collisions among competing stakeholders were inevitable Buckley s revelations about technocratic hubris the unexpected consequences of environmental engineering and constraints on scientists as agents of social change resonate with today s hopes that science and technology can solve society s most pressing dilemmas including climate change Index-catalogue of Medical and Veterinary Zoology

Fieldiana, 1997. Commerce Reports, 1917. Brazilian Beach Systems. Andrew D. Short, Antonio Henrique da F. Klein, 2016-07-19. This book is about the more than 4 000 beach systems that form most of the 9000 km long Brazilian coast. It focuses on the beaches of each of the seventeen coastal states and three oceanic islands: their nature, morphodynamics and status. It is a must for anyone who wants to know more about this great coast and its beach systems. This is the first book ever written about the beach systems of Brazil and actually the very first about the beaches of an entire country. The Brazilian coast extends from the mighty Amazon River and its muddy shores in the north to one of the world's longest sandy beaches in the southern Rio Grande do Sul. It contains every beach type from wave to tide dominated which range in size from small embayed beaches to long barrier beaches. The book is written by leading Brazilian academics and researchers and aims at the university level market as well as coastal scientists, engineers and managers. Standard scientific terminology is used to describe the coast and its beaches. It is illustrated with more than 400 original figures and serves as a benchmark text on the Brazilian coast.

Strategies and Tools for a Sustainable Rural Rio de Janeiro. Udo Nehren, Sabine Schlöter, Claudia Raedig, Dietmar Sattler, Helga Hissa, 2018-08-16. This book is a compilation of recent developments in land ecosystem and water management in the Brazilian state of Rio de Janeiro. The state is located in the biodiversity hotspot of the Atlantic Forest, Mata Atlântica, a biome characterized by high biological diversity and endemism. At the same time, the state of Rio de Janeiro emerged to one of the economic hubs in Latin America. This development process has been accompanied by population growth, industrialization, urbanization as well as consumption and degradation of land and water resources. In the past years, many efforts have been made to stop or at least slow down these degradation processes and restore degraded environments with the overall goal to bring together sustainable management of natural resources, nature conservation and economic development. An overview is provided of the different strategies and tools that have been developed in the fields of agriculture, ecosystem management and biodiversity, integrated water management, land restoration, disaster risk reduction and climate change adaptation as well as environmental governance and economic instruments. This book covers a wide spectrum from applied research to science policy interfaces, planning concepts and technical tools and has a model character for other rural areas in Latin America. Target groups are scientists, practitioners, policy makers and graduate students in the field of environmental management. The different chapters are written by researchers and practitioners of the German-Brazilian project INTECRAL (Integrated Eco-Technologies and Services for a Sustainable Rural Rio de Janeiro), the rural development program Rio Rural under the state secretary for agriculture and animal husbandry as well as invited scientists.

from Brazilian universities and research institutes It bridges existing gaps between science policies and practice in rural development
