Philosophers and Kings Gary McCulloch, 2002-04-18 Philosophers and Kings examines the theme of education for leadership in English secondary education during the twentieth century

Secondary Education in England 1870-1902 Prof John Roach, John Roach, 2012-10-12 In this comprehensive and extensively researched history John Roach argues for a reassessment of the relative importance of State regulation and private provision Although the public schools enjoyed their greatest prestige during this period in terms of educational reform and progress their importance has been exaggerated The role of the public school he suggests was social rather than academic and as such their power and influence is to be interpreted principally in relation to the growth of new social elites the concept of public service and the needs of the empire for a bureaucratic ruling class Only in the modern progressive movement launched by Cecil Reddie and the private provision for young women was lasting progress made Even before the 1902 Education Act however the State had spent much time and effort regulating and reforming the old educational endowments and it is in these initiatives that the foundations for the public provision of secondary educational reform are to be found

A Catholic Eton? Paul Shrimpton, 2005 When in 1858 Newman was retiring from the Catholic University in Dublin friends approached him when confronted with the problem of where to educate their sons and he became the central figure in the establishment of the Oratory School Newman and his co founders a trio of brilliant Catholic laymen two parliamentary barristers and Lord Acton faced stiff resistance in setting up the first Catholic public school and once it opened their troubles were compounded by a staff mutiny and threats of closure from Rome This is no standard story because the Oratory School was no standard school It was the school's fate to be caught up in many of the key controversies of the time not least because of its association with Newman and for this reason the tale of its formative years under Newman provides important insights into Victorian life and English Catholic history The story of the early years of the school which counted Gerard Manley Hopkins among its masters Hilaire Belloc among its pupils and Newman as its guiding light is told here fully for the first time

Privatization and Privilege in Education (RLE Edu L) Geoffrey Walford, 2012-05-16 Can privilege be bought Arguments have raged over whether private education in the UK is the cement in the wall dividing British society or whether parental choice is as has also been argued a key component of a free society The author here describes the traditional private sector schools paying attention to the ways in which parents can purchase privilege for their children through attendance at such schools He argues that the privatized system is kept under tight control if a growth in social and educational inequality and a deepening of social class and ethnic group division is to be avoided The book is unique in combining an account of private schools in Britain with an examination of the process of privatization

Gerald Howard-Smith and the 'Lost Generation' of Late Victorian and Edwardian England John Benson, 2016-11-18 Gerald Howard Smith's life is intriguing both in its own right and as a vehicle for exploring the world in which he lived Tall boisterous and sometimes rather irascible he was one of the so called Lost Generation whose lives were cut short by the First World War Brought up in London and educated at Eton and Cambridge he excelled both at cricket and athletics After qualifying as a solicitor he moved to Wolverhampton and threw himself into the local sporting scene making a considerable name for himself in the years before the First World War Volunteering for military service in 1914 he was decorated for bravery before being killed in action two years later Reporting his death the War History of the South Staffordshire Regiment claimed that In his men's eyes he lived as a loose limbed hero and in him they lost a very humorous and a very gallant gentleman As well as telling the fascinating story of Gerald Howard Smith for the first time this important new biography explores such complex and important issues as childhood and adolescence class relations sporting achievement manliness and masculinity metropolitan provincial relationships and forms of commemoration It will therefore be of interest to educationalists sports historians local and regional historians and those interested in class gender and civilian military relations indeed all those seeking to understand the economic social and cultural life of late nineteenth and early twentieth century Britain

Flesh in the Age of Reason Roy Porter, 2004 Starting with the grim Britain of the Civil War era with its punishing sense of the body as a corrupt vessel for the soul Roy Porter charts how through figures as diverse as Locke Swift Johnson and Gibbon ideas about medicine politics and religion fundamentally changed notions of self He shows how the Enlightenment with its explosion of rational thinking and scientific invention of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries provided a lens through which we can best see the profound shift from the theocentric otherworldly Dark Ages to the modern earthly body centered world we live in today As man made in God's image gave way to the Enlightenment's notion of the Self made man the body moved center stage Porter writes brilliantly on the ways in which men and women flaunted decorated tanned and dieted themselves activities that we find familiar but that a Puritan divine would have considered satanic And he explores how at the end of the century the human soul took on a new significance in the works of Godwin Blake and Byron

Respectability, Bankruptcy and Bigamy in Late Nineteenth- and Early Twentieth-Century Britain John

Benson,2022-09-30 Respectability Bankruptcy and Bigamy in Late Nineteenth and Early Twentieth Century Britain explores the vexed question of middle class respectability in Victorian and Edwardian Britain It focuses upon the life of London solicitor Hamilton Pawley 1860 1936 who was barred from working by the Law Society twice declared bankrupt and in 1919 was sentenced to eighteen months imprisonment with hard labour for bigamously marrying a woman practically forty years his junior If Pawley did not suffer the revenge of respectable society it is difficult to think who would Drawing upon the fact that the disgraced and the disreputable have always tended to attract a disproportionate amount of attention the book ranges widely exploring such important issues as middle class education career choices the dynamics of family life and the workings of the late nineteenth and early twentieth century legal system It shows that Pawley was able to hold on to his professional and even gentlemanly status for far longer than seemed likely This all suggests the book concludes that although respectability was as important to the middle class as we have always been told it was both easier to acquire and easier to retain than we have generally been led to believe This book will appeal to all those interested in British society in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries
