Seeds Of Fortune A Great Gardening Dynasty:

Seeds of Fortune Sue Shephard, 2012-11-05 For over a century and across five generations the Veitch family pioneered the introduction of hundreds of new plants into gardens conservatories and houses and were amongst the foremost European cultivators and hybridisers of their day The story begins in 1768 when a Scotsman called John Veitch came to England to find his fortune starting out as a gardener for the aristocracy Realising that horticultural mania had begun to spread throughout the social classes John's son James opened a nursery in Exeter and began to send some of the first commercial plant collectors into the Americas Australia India Japan China and the South Seas By the beginning of the twentieth century the Veitch's had become key figures within the gardening establishment involved with the Royal Horticultural Society from its beginnings and the great Chelsea Flower Show Combining an historian's eye for detail with a flair for storytelling Shephard charts the fortunes of one family and through them tells the fascinating story of the modern English garden Lessons from

Birkenhead Park Robert Lee, 2024-04-15 When it was officially opened on Easter Monday 5 April 1847 Birkenhead Park became the first municipally funded park in Britain It was a pioneer in the development of urban public parks designed for use by everyone irrespective of social class ethnicity or age In terms of town planning it demonstrated the importance of including green infrastructure in urban development as a vital contribution to public health and well being Paxton's design for the park was heralded as a masterpiece of human creative genius it served as a vehicle for the global transmission of the English landscape school and led to the creation of numerous public parks everywhere most famously Central Park New York incorporating many of Paxton's design features This book addresses a long standing gap in the Park's historiography Regarded as one of the greatest wonders of the age the Park is an important contribution to nineteenth century landscape history with a local focus but of international significance The book also seeks to interpret the Park s development until 1914 within a political and cultural context drawing on economic and social history as a means of explaining why it was not until the late nineteenth century that it finally became a focal point for recreation and public health

Visions of Loveliness Judith M. Taylor,2014-12-01 Gardeners of today take for granted the many varieties of geraniums narcissi marigolds roses and other beloved flowers for their gardens Few give any thought at all to how this incredible abundance came to be or to the people who spent a good part of their lives creating it These breeders once had prosperous businesses and were important figures in their communities but are only memories now They also could be cranky and quirky In the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries new and exotic species were arriving in Europe and the United States from all over the world and these plants often captured the imaginations of the unlikeliest of men from aristocratic collectors to gruff gardeners who hardly thought of themselves as artists But whatever their backgrounds they all shared a quality of mind that led them to ask What if and to use their imagination and skills to answer that question themselves The newest rose from China was small and light pink but what if it were larger and came in more colors Lilac was very nice in its way but what if its blossoms were double and frilly While there are many books about plant collectors and explorers there are none about plant breeders Drawing from libraries archives and the recollections of family members horticultural historian Judith M Taylor traces the lives of prominent cultivators in the context of the scientific discoveries and changing tastes of their times Visions of Loveliness is international in scope profiling plant breeders from many countries for example China and the former East Germany whose work may be unknown to the Anglophone reader In addition to chronicling the lives of breeders the author also includes chapters on the history behind the plants by genus from shrubs and flowering trees to herbaceous plants

Claiming Indigenous Plant Knowledge Carey McCormack,2024-11-30 Claiming Indigenous Plant Knowledge From Botanical Exchanges to Resource Extraction in the Indian Ocean World examines the collection and documentation of the natural world s development over the course of the nineteenth century into a vast network of scientists who attempted to categorize and understand nature particularly in the botanically rich Indian Ocean But the process of collecting plants and exchanging knowledge about the natural world went far beyond the labor of botanists and naturalists Naturalists depended on many groups for regional knowledge and local information about the uses names and value of plants Publications and archival materials included local and indigenous knowledge of nature but as exploration led to colonial expansion and botany became a professional science local and indigenous knowledge moved to the periphery of botanical writing Local knowledge never stopped being important but the act of discovery and the claiming perhaps even colonization of botanical knowledge became the limited sphere of professional botanists Indigenous peoples involved in the early days of collecting never stopped their activities but professionals failed to acknowledge their labor and expertise By the end of the century colonial administrations used botanic information collected by professionals to convert colonies into natural resource extraction zones

This shift disrupted indigenous lifeways in the Indian Ocean World and led to environmental issues facing the region today

The Wardian Case Luke Keogh, 2023-01-05 In 1829 surgeon and amateur naturalist Nathaniel Bagshaw Ward discovered that plants enclosed in airtight glass cases could survive for long periods without watering After four years of growing plants under glass in his London home Ward created traveling glazed cases that he hoped would be able to transport plants around the world After a test run from London to Sydney Ward was proven correct and the Wardian case was born It is easy to forget in our technologically advanced and globalized world but prior to the invention of the case it was extremely difficult to transfer plants around the globe as they often died from mishandling cold weather or salt from the ocean In this enthralling book Luke Keogh takes us around the world and through history with the Wardian case He shows that this revolution in the movement of plants transformed the world impacting the commercial nursery trade late nineteenth century imperialism and the global environment The repercussions of this revolution are still with us today The Correspondence

Gardens of History and Imagination Gretchen Poiner, Sybil Jack, 2016-06-03 Whether on the ground or in the mind gardens carry meaning They reflect social and aesthetic values and may express hope anticipation or grief Throughout history they have provided a means of physical survival In creating and maintaining gardens people construe and construct a relationship with their environment But there is no single meaning carried in the word garden as idea and practice it reflects cultural differences in beliefs values and social organisation It embodies personal community even national ways of seeing and being in the world There are ten essays in Gardens of History and Imagination each of which examines the role of gardens and gardening in the settlement of New South Wales and in growing a colony and a state They explore the significance of gardens for the health of the colony for its economy for the construction of social order and moral worth. No less do they reveal the significance of forming and reforming personal identities in this process. For the immigrants, gardening was an act of settlement; it was also a statement of possession for individuals and for Britain. For a long time it was with memories of home, often selective and idealised, that settlers made gardens, but as the colony developed its own character, so did gardening possibilities and practices.
