Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1974 The Patchwork of World History in Texas High Schools Stephen Jackson, 2022-11-30 This book traces the historical development of the World History course as it has been taught in high school classrooms in Texas a populous and nationally influential state over the last hundred years Arguing that the course is a result of a patchwork of competing groups and ideas that have intersected over the past century with each new framework patched over but never completely erased or replaced the author crucially examines themes of imperialism Eurocentrism and nationalism in both textbooks and the curriculum more broadly The first part of the book presents an overview of the World History course supported by numerical analysis of textbook content and public documents while the second focuses on the depiction of non Western peoples and persistent narratives of Eurocentrism and nationalism It ultimately offers that a more global accurate and balanced curriculum is possible despite the tension between the ideas of professional world historians who often de center the nation state in their quest for a truly global approach to the subject and the historical core rationale of state sponsored education in the United States to produce loyal citizens Offering a new conceptual understanding of how colonial themes in World History curriculum have been dealt with in the past and are now engaged with in contemporary times it provides essential context for scholars and educators with interests in the history of education curriculum studies and the teaching of World History in the United States The Beliefs and Experiences of World Language Teachers in the US Pamela M. Wesely, 2024-06-11 This book tells the stories of 15 world language WL teachers in the United States at elementary and secondary levels through rich descriptions of their lived worlds and experiences In depth interviews extensive observations learner interviews and document and environment analysis illustrate in detail how teacher beliefs relate to their practices and are mediated and moderated by their learners institutional demands equity and access to WL education and other factors The chapters provide a deep and robust explanation of individual teachers teaching lives and a cross contextual comparison of their experiences shining a light on the realities and demands of modern US schools Grounded in the research literature on language teacher beliefs and cognition this book takes the stance that all teaching is situated and contextual and that addressing teachers methods practices and knowledges in ways that are divorced from their setting and environment has serious limitations It offers fascinating insights for researchers language educators and pre and in service teachers with reflection questions at the end of each chapter to guide readers in drawing connections with their own practice interests and contexts

Transforming the Culture of Schools Jerry Lipka, With Gerald V. Mohatt, Esther Ilutsik, 2014-01-21 This book speaks directly to issues of equity and school transformation and shows how one indigenous minority teachers group engaged in a process of transforming schooling in their community Documented in one small locale far removed from mainstream America the personal narratives by Yup k Eskimo teachers address the very heart of school reform The teachers struggles portray the first in a series of steps through which a group of Yup k teachers and university colleagues began a slow process of reconciling cultural differences and conflict between the culture of the school and the culture of the community The story told in this book goes well beyond documenting individual narratives by providing examples and insights for others who are involved in creating culturally responsive education that fundamentally changes the role and relationship of teachers and community to schooling

Instructional Communication Competence and Instructor Social Presence: Enhancing Teaching and Learning in the Online Environment Sherwyn Morreale, Patrick R. Lowenthal, Janice Thorpe, Larisa Olesova, 2024-05-16 The coronavirus pandemic mandated unexpected instant transitions to remote learning and accelerated student demand for online courses As a result colleges and universities in the U S and around the world began and have continued to expand their online courses and degree programs The online learning industry is projected to pass 370 billion by 2026 and one third of post secondary school administrators indicate they will continue to offer both remote and online course options even after their campuses completely resume offering in person face to face courses Students have demonstrated there is an increased demand for online courses as well A national survey of 1 413 students registered at U S higher education institutions in fall 2020 and spring 2021 said their experiences with learning remotely during the pandemic left them with a positive attitude toward online and hybrid courses This increased interest calls attention to the need for more scholarly examination of online teaching and learning

Researching Pedagogy and Practice with Canadian Mathematics Teachers David A Reid, Christine Suurtamm, Annie Savard, Elaine Simmt, Dominic Manuel, Lisa Lunney Borden, Richard Barwell, 2020-06-01 The past two decades have seen an increased interest in education especially in core areas such as mathematics language and science This is in part a consequence of the increase in the number of international comparisons of educational outcomes such as PISA

and TIMSS Much research has focused on the contributions that curricula financial resources parental support and so on might have on educational outcomes A factor that seems likely to have a very significant effect on student achievement teachers practices and beliefs has received little attention This book reports results from a research program that sought to develop and employ research methods to compare teachers practices and beliefs across Canada It provides insight into the challenge of such research and describes teachers contexts beliefs and practices and how they differ in four regions and across two languages Using a multivocal ethnography approach Tobin 1999 teachers were involved in the preparation and discussion of videos of their own teaching and that of others This approach resulted in not only insights into the teachers pedagogies and practices but also opportunities for the teachers to reflect on their own teaching in new ways and for researchers to reflect on research practices and orientations The work is innovative in several ways In a field crowded with research on teachers practices beliefs and knowledge this research helps to unearth the implicit values that underlie the way teachers see teaching itself Through the process of observation of each other s practice the teachers became aware of their own pedagogies giving them new insights into their values and practices Researchers also engaged in a parallel process of reflection on their own practices as observers of teachers with similar insights into the values guiding their work This book will be of interest to government policy makers teachers and teacher educators as well as researchers in Mathematics Education Members of the AERA SIG in Research in Mathematics Education the Canadian Mathematics Education Study Group the NCTM and provincial Mathematics teacher associations are potential readers Praise for Researching Pedagogy and Practice with Canadian Mathematics Teachers What a treasure This book is an important resource for anyone interested in high quality mathematics teaching It fills a gap in our understanding of how mathematics is taught across Canada where students are among the highest performing on international mathematics assessments The studies reported are conceptually grounded methodologically rigorous and filled with nuanced observations of the similarity and variation in classroom teaching across many of the Canadian provinces Edward A Silver Senior Associate Dean for Research Graduate Studies William A Brownell Collegiate Professor of Education Professor of Mathematics University of Michigan utilizes verbal judo much more than its physical counterpart This book written by industry experts Elijah Shaw and Dale June also narrows the focus centering in on an exciting but misunderstood sector that involves working with celebrities ranging from actors to musicians and entering into their world of touring filming and promotional appearances While many may think that celebrity protection is one size fits all nothing could be further from the truth as you are not only dealing with the protection of the client but the client s reputation All this with the added pressure of the entire world looking over your shoulder just waiting for a misstep With real world advice tactics and techniques on how to identify and defeat potential attackers as well as covering everything from dealing with overzealous fans to hyper aggressive paparazzi this book offers proven solutions from two experts that have covered the gambit from the Grammy Awards to the White House

Professional Vision: Implementing novel Technologies, Methods and Theories Christian Kosel,Tina Seidel ,Christian Hartmann,Ann-Sophie Grub,2024-07-25 A classroom full of students can be overwhelming for teachers It is critical that teachers are able to filter and meaningfully interpret the relevant information in this complex scenario Much of this filtering and interpretation occurs through selective visual perception Over the last decade a rapidly growing number of studies in empirical educational research used eye tracking to investigate teachers selective visual perceptual processes in the classroom Theoretically visual attention and perception are often conceptualized as knowledge based noticing coupled with knowledge based reasoning about what is visually perceived Recent eye tracking studies have shown that experienced teachers in particular show improved selective attention of classroom events through faster detection of relevant information and improved monitoring of learning relevant situations Researchers agree that a critical driver of selective attention processes is the professional knowledge declarative procedural and metacognitive of experienced teachers which controls selective perceptual processes in a top down process The findings are significant and provide important insights for research on teacher professionalization
