Sources for Forging the Modern World James Carter, Richard A. Warren, 2018-09 In Forging the Modern World A History authors James Carter and Richard Warren offer an accessible explanation of key transformations in global economic political and ideological relationships since the sixteenth century The book is distinct from most world history texts in three important ways First it explores the ways in which historians use and produce information Each chapter delves deeply into one or two specific issues of historical inquiry related to the chapter theme showing how new primary sources methodologies or intellectual trends have changed how we engage with the past Second it clearly explains the political economic and ideological concepts that students need to understand in order to compare events and trends across time and space Finally the chapters are organized around global historical themes which are explored through an array of conceptual and comparative lenses While the book chapters proceed chronologically each chapter is written with some chronological overlap linking it to preceding and subsequent chapters This strategy emphasizes the interconnectedness between the events and themes of one chapter and those of surrounding chapters A companion sourcebook follows the main book's organization and includes approximately 67 primary sources with two questions following each source

Modernism, Middlebrow and the Literary Canon Lise Jaillant, 2015-10-06 In the 1920s and 1930s the Modern Library series began to bring out cheap editions of modernist works Jaillant provides a thorough analysis of the series mix of highbrow and popular literature and argues that the availability and low cost of modernist works helped to expand modernism's influence as a literary movement

Cruising Modernism Michael Trask, 2018-05-31 Modern society Michael Trask argues in this incisive and original book chose to couch class difference in terms of illicit sexuality Trask demonstrates how sexual science's concept of erotic perversion mediated the writing of both literary figures and social theorists when it came to the innovative and unsettling social arrangements of the early twentieth century Trask focuses on the James brothers in a critique of pragmatism and anti-immigrant sentiment shows the influence of behavioral psychology on Gertrude Stein's work uncovers a sustained reflection on casual labor in Hart Crane's lyric poetry and traces the identification of working class Catholics with deviant passions in Willa Cather's fiction Finally Trask examines how literary leftists borrowed the antiprostitution rhetoric of Progressive era reformers to protest the ascendance of consumerism in the 1920s Viewing class as a restless and unstable category Trask contends American modernist writers appropriated sexology's concept of evasive unmoored desire to account for the seismic shift in social relations during the Progressive era and beyond Looking closely at the fraught ideological space between real and perceived class differences Cruising Modernism discloses there a pervasive representation of sexuality as well

Iwan Bloch, 1937 Freud and Modern Society Bocock, 2013-04-17 by Ronald Fletcher To devote a volume to Freud in a series on The Making of Sociology might seem to some readers very strange Freud they might argue was not only and very explicitly a psychologist but also and equally explicitly a clinical psychologist whose most immediate preoccupation was that of trying to cure the mental illnesses of his patients Furthermore he was a psychologist who insisted on relating his theories as closely as possible to biological and physiological facts All this of course is true But to adopt this view as one which distinctly marks Freud off from sociology is a basic mistake and one which shows how sadly subjects which were once seen as being essentially interrelated have been forced into false separation by the current vogue of specialization necessary and correct when it is soundly conceived but intellectually disastrous when it is not It is worthwhile to recall that all the major thinkers who contributed to the making of sociology from Comte and Spencer to Ward Giddings Tonnies Durkheim Hobhouse Weber Simmel Pareto this could be a very long list I were in fact convinced about the close relationships between biology psychology and sociology The same is true of all the major anthropologists The simple truth is that all these men were critically and creatively participating in the revolution which was taking place in man's approach to his knowledge of nature and of his own nature and place within it The Book of Life Upton Sinclair, 1922 Book of practical counsel discussing conduct of life from modern standards The Book of Life Upton Sinclair, 2022-01-29 Upton Sinclair one of America's foremost and most prolific authors addresses the cultivation of the mind and the body in this 1922 volume Sinclair's goal was to attempt to tell the reader how to live how to find health happiness and success and how to develop fully both the mind and the body Part One The Book of the Mind covers such subjects as faith reason morality and the subconscious Part Two The Book of the Body develops such subjects as errors in diet the fasting cure food and poisons work and play and diseases and
