Looking For Hogeye:

Looking for Hogeye (c) Roy Reed, 1986 In that always compelling yet simple style that has made Roy Reed one of the country's foremost journalists he shows us as we share with him delightful moments and rich insights on the way to Hogeye. Southerners still different for being Southerners and country Southerners who are even more so pained by bruises and comforted by salves that are peculiarly their own. I hope that my city friends will not be upset to learn that this book is a little more sympathetic to the Arkansas hill people than it is to New Yorkers. he says I have grown attached to cities over the years but I am still somewhere near my heart a hillbilly. I have gone to a lot of trouble to remember that. This book is a special admission into those hills to Vacation Bible School tent meetings sale barns back roads and pool halls to dog days in Hogeye. To read Looking for Hogeye is to sit with Roy Reed on his wide front porch as he tells by the life he lives why after Washington London and New York he made his home in the north Arkansas hills where he felt as he puts it like Brer Rabbit reentering the briar patch. It is a visit not to be missed and not to be forgotten. Some 13 000 years ago humans were drawn repeatedly to a small valley in what is now Central Texas near the banks of Buttermilk Creek These early hunter gatherers camped collected stone and shaped it into a variety of tools they needed to hunt game process food and subsist in the Texas wilderness Their toolkit included bifaces blades and deadly spear points Where they worked they left thousands of pieces of debris which have allowed archaeologists to reconstruct their methods of tool production Along with the faunal material that was also discarded in their prehistoric campsite these stone or lithic artifacts afford a glimpse of human life at the end of the last ice age during an era referred to as Clovis The area where these people roamed and camped called the Gault site is one of the most important Clovis sites in North America A decade ago a team from Texas A M University excavated a single area of the site formally named Excavation Area 8 but informally dubbed the Lindsey Pit which features the densest concentration of Clovis artifacts and the clearest stratigraphy at the Gault site Some 67 000 lithic artifacts were recovered during fieldwork along with 5 700 pieces of faunal material In a thorough synthesis of the evidence from this prehistoric workshop Michael R Waters and his coauthors provide the technical data needed to interpret and compare this site with other sites from the same period illuminating the story of Clovis people in the Buttermilk Creek Valley
