Looking Through Letterboxes Poems:

Looking Through Letterboxes Caroline Bird, 2002 Bird at first appears to be a traditional story teller But her stories are suspended in a language charged with metaphor and most of them are built upon foundations which are familiar fairy tale fantasy and the bitter sweet world of romance

Punch, Or, The London Charivari, 1847 Media Parasites in the Early Avant-Garde A. Niebisch, 2012-11-28 Niebisch retraces how the early Avant Garde movements started out as parasites inhabiting and irritating the emerging mass media circuits of the press cinema and wired and wireless communication and how they aimed at creating a media ecology based on and inspired by technologies such as the radio and the photo cell Forum, 1966 Adapting Translation for the Stage Geraldine Brodie, Emma Cole, 2017-07-06 Translating for performance is a difficult and hotly contested activity Adapting Translation for the Stage presents a sustained dialogue between scholars actors directors writers and those working across these boundaries exploring common themes and issues encountered when writing staging and researching translated works It is organised into four parts each reflecting on a theatrical genre where translation is regularly practised The Role of Translation in Rewriting Naturalist Theatre Adapting Classical Drama at the Turn of the Twenty First Century Translocating Political Activism in Contemporary Theatre Modernist Narratives of Translation in Performance A range of case studies from the National Theatre's Medea to The Gate Theatre's Dances of Death and Emily Mann's The House of Bernarda Alba shed new light on the creative processes inherent in translating for the theatre destabilising the literal performable binary to suggest that adaptation and translation can and do coexist on stage

Chronicling the many possible intersections between translation theory and practice Adapting Translation for the Stage offers a unique exploration of the processes of translating adapting and relocating work for the theatre

Writing the Environment in Nineteenth-Century American Literature Steven Petersheim, Madison Jones IV, 2015-09-17

The nineteenth century roots of environmental writing in American literature are often mentioned in passing and sometimes studied piece by piece

Writing the Environment in Nineteenth Century American Literature The Ecological Awareness of Early Scribes of Nature brings together numerous explorations of environmentally aware writing across the genres of nineteenth century literature

Like Lawrence Buell the authors of this collection find Thoreau's writing a touchstone of nineteenth century environmental writing particularly focusing on Thoreau's claim that humans may function as scribes of nature

However these studies of Thoreau's antecedents contemporaries and successors also reveal a range of other writers in the nineteenth century whose literary treatments of nature are often more environmentally attuned than most readers have noticed

The writers whose works are studied in this collection include canonical and forgotten writers men and women early nineteenth century and late nineteenth century authors pioneers and conservationists

They drew attention to the conflicted relationships between humans and the American continent as experienced by Native Americans and European Americans

Taken together these essays offer a fresh perspective on the roots of environmental literature in nineteenth century American nonfiction fiction and poetry as well as in multi genre compositions such as the travel writings of Margaret Fuller

Bringing largely forgotten voices such as John Godman alongside canonical voices such as Nathaniel Hawthorne Herman Melville Walt Whitman and Emily Dickinson the authors whose writings are studied in this collection produced a diverse tapestry of nascent American environmental writing in the nineteenth century

From early nineteenth century writers such as poet Philip Freneau and novelist Charles Brockden Brown to later nineteenth century conservationists such as John James Audubon and John Muir

Scribes of Nature shows the development of an environmental consciousness and a growing conservationist ethos in American literature

Given their often surprisingly healthy respect for the natural environment these nineteenth century writers offer us much to consider in an age of environmental crisis

The complexities of the supposed nature culture divide still work into our lives today as economic and environmental issues are often seen at loggerheads when they ought to be seen as part of the same conversation of what it means to live healthy lives and to pass on a healthy world to those who follow us in a world where human activity is becoming increasingly threatening to the health of our planet
