Workshop on Patterns of Failure After Cancer Treatment, 1983 Published Scientific Papers of the National Institutes of Health National Institutes of Health (U.S.), 1980 Cancer Treatment An Update P. Banzet, J.F. Holland, D. Khayat, M. Weil, 2013-12-14 This book gathers the educational lectures and the texts of the main presentations given at the 4th International Congress on Anticancer Chemotherapy which took place in February 1993 in Paris and was attended by 5 000 oncologists from all continents physicians students and nurses This book aspires to give update of the most scientific and clinical aspects of modern oncology It aims also at showing the prospects that are opened by the rapid progress of cancer biology The editors are grateful to the authors whose scholarship defines the quality of the book Educational lectures The pathogenesis of human cancer metastasis I Fidler Cancer is a collection of malignancies with each cancer of each organ consisting of numerous subsets This biologic and clinical heterogeneity is probably due to the different etiologies origins and selection pressures Despite this heterogeneity all malignant neoplasms have a uniform characteristic the ability to invade host tissues and produce metastases Clinical observations of cancer patients and studies with experimental rodent tumors have revealed that certain tumors produce metastasis to specific organs independent of vascular anatomy rate of blood flow and number of tumor cells delivered to each organ The distribution and fate of hematogeneously disseminated radiolabelled tumor cells in experimental rodent systems amply demonstrate that tumor cells reach the microvasculature of many organs

(U.S.),1979 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 Surgical Treatment of Bronchial Carcinoma J. Hasse,2012-12-06 If a consecutive series of patients with lung cancer is followed up until the decision is made about therapy it emerges that the role of surgery is quite small Only a very limited proportion will ultimately qualify for rationally conceived surgical therapy most patients are inoperable In a series of 397 patients investigated at our hospital 78% were inoperable on the basis of preoperative evaluation and a further 3% proved nonresectable at thoracotomy therefore only 19% were suitable for resection On the other hand surgery is still thought to offer the best if not the only realistic chance of cure The question operable or not is therefore of vital importance for the individual patient The answer to this crucial question must be based on valid guidelines for patient selection and preoperative evaluation and it should be clearly defined what extent of resection is necessary in order to realize any curative intention In 1972 a thorough analysis of the literature revealed that resection of bronchial carcinoma although 40 years old was being undertaken with very variable indications There was hardly any systematic staging and assessment of results was hampered by the fact that most communications in the literature were based on retrospective analysis Directory of Published Proceedings ,1980 Cancer Chemotherapy: Concepts, Clinical Investigations and Therapeutic Advances Franco M. Muggia,2012-12-06 Experimental chemotherapy continues to be at the forefront of cancer therapeutics Topics covered in the preceding volume on cancer chemotherapy in this series such as study of drugs by alkaline elution the development of the antimetabolite tiazofurin and the treatment of germ cell tumors have become informative references to current experimentalists and practitioners In even earlier volumes reviews of the platinum compounds anthracyclines and osteosarcoma represent topics associated with such rapid progress requiring a look back to provide the appropriate perspective Similarly we venture to predict that the topics in this volume will become useful landmarks for future drug development and disease strategies In the area of drug development what is being learned about old established antineoplastics is raising renewed expectations that it will be translated into improved applications and patient benefit For example we now have the ability to modulate the action of alkylating agents and fluorinated pyrimidines to achieve greater sensitivity A new compound for an old target trimetrexate an antifolate that does not polyglutamate will have a role not only in treatment of neoplastic diseases but also protozoal infection Journal of the National Cancer Institute ,2003 Each issue is packed with extensive news about important cancer related science policy politics and people Plus there are editorials and reviews by experts in the field book reviews and commentary on timely topics Lung Cancer United States,1979 Emerging Molecular Mechanisms of Cell Cycle Regulation in Cancer: Functions and Potential Applications Yueming Sun,Junhui Hu,Mingyan Zhu,2022-03-07 Quarterly Bulletin of the Southern Research Institute Southern Research Institute (Birmingham, Ala.),1975 Research Awards Index ,1976 Research Grants Index National Institutes of Health (U.S.).
