Globalisation, Criminal Law and Criminal Justice Valsamis Mitsilegas,Peter Alldridge,Leonidas Cheliotis,2015-01-22 The book consists of the keynote papers delivered at the 2012 WG Hart Workshop on Globalisation Criminal Law and Criminal Justice organised by the Queen Mary Criminal Justice Centre The volume addresses from a cross disciplinary perspective the multifarious relationship between globalisation on the one hand and criminal law and justice on the other hand At a time when economic political and cultural systems across different jurisdictions are increasingly becoming or are perceived to be parts of a coherent global whole it appears that the study of crime and criminal justice policies and practices can no longer be restricted within the boundaries of individual nation states or even particular transnational regions But in which specific fields to what extent and in what ways does globalisation influence crime and criminal justice in disparate jurisdictions Which are the factors that facilitate or prevent such influence at a domestic and or regional level And how does or should scholarly inquiry explore these themes These are all key questions which are addressed by the contributors to the volume In addition to contributions focusing on theoretical and comparative dimensions of globalisation in criminal law and justice the volume includes sections focusing on the role of evidence in the development of criminal justice policy the development of European criminal law and its relationship with national and transnational legal orders and the influence of globalisation on the interplay between criminal and administrative law

Globalizing Local Policing David Sausdal, 2023-03-24 The book examines the globalization of local policing through an ethnographic study of the Danish Police Where many studies are looking into how larger inter or transnational policing bodies and policies are changing the world of policing few have gauged how local public police forces are also globalizing This book provides some unique insights into this under researched process Specifically it describes the daily practices and perceptions of two Danish detective task forces tasked with the investigation of organized property crimes committed by foreign nationals In the book readers get to see how the detectives think and work including the many efforts they make in attuning their daily work to a more global reality More so readers get to see how the detectives fail and the many frustrations and concerns that such changes include One the one hand Danish detectives very much understand the need to de localize and develop their work On the other hand they feel that many of these changes are in conflict with what they find to be real and rewarding police work For people interested in contemporary issues of policing the book thus points to a puzzling paradox Globalization might be making for more mobile and even mobilised local forces more technologically driven and collaborating with international partners However these very processes are also making local officers feel more disarmed than ever Ultimately the book describes why that is its consequences as well as how to imagine a form of global policing more in tune with its local actors Forever

The Persistent Prison? Maeve Winifred McMahon, 1992-01-01 The Prison system is widely believed to be an immutable element of contemporary society Many criminologists and sociologists of deviance believe that decarceration movements have failed to yield progressive reform and that feasible alternatives to the prison system do not exist Maeve McMahon challenges these views Reconstructing the emergence of critical perspectives on decarceration she examines analytical and empirical problems in the research She also points out how indicators of community programs and other penalties serving as alternatives to prison have typically been overshadowed through critical focus on their effects in widening the net of control McMahon presents a detailed analysis of decreasing imprisonment and of the part played by alternatives in this during the postwar period in Ontario Drawing from extensive documentary research and from interviews with former correctional officials she charts the changing climates of opinions and socio economic factors which facilitated decarceration By situating her analysis in the context of theoretical and political arguments about the possibility of decarceration McMahon provides in her work a stimulus to the development of progressive penal politics not just in Canada but in all western countries
