Postethnic America David A Hollinger, 2006-02-28 Sympathetic with the new ethnic consciousness Hollinger argues that the conventional liberal toleration of all established ethnic groups no longer works because it leaves unchallenged the prevailing imbalance of power Yet the multiculturalist alternative does nothing to stop the fragmenting of American society into competing ethnic enclaves each concerned primarily with its own well being Hollinger argues instead for a new cosmopolitanism an appreciation of multiple identities new cross cultural affiliations based not on the biologically given but on consent on the right to emphasize or diminish the significance of one's ethnoracial affiliation Postethnic America is a bracing reminder of America's universalist promise as a haven for all peoples While recognizing the Eurocentric narrowness of that older universalism Hollinger makes a stirring call for a new nationalism He urges that a democratic nation state like ours must help bridge the gap between our common fellowship as human beings and the great variety of ethnic and racial groups represented within the United States

Good Music for a Free People Nancy Newman, 2010 In this book the author examines the activities and reception of the Germania Musical Society an orchestra whose members emigrated from Berlin during the revolutions of 1848 These two dozen Forty eighters gave nearly a thousand concerts in North America during the ensuing six year period possibly reaching a million listeners Drawing on a memoir by Henry Albrecht the author provides insights into the musicians desire to bring their music to the audiences of a democratic republic at this turbulent time Eager to avoid the egotism and self promotion of the European patronage system they pledged to work for their mutual interests both musically and socially One for all and all for one became their motto

John Mitchel Bryan P. McGovern, 2009 This is an informative balanced biography that embraces a man who seemed defined by contradictions McGovern unravels these to reveal how Mitchel made sense of himself and his world The result is a must read book for anyone interested in nineteenth century Irish and American history Susannah U Bruce author of The Harp and the Eagle Irish American Volunteers and the Union Army 1861-1865 This book chronicles the life and times of John Mitchel a radical Irish nationalist who relocated to the American South where he became an ardent supporter of the Confederacy before and during the Civil War Mitchel was exiled for his beliefs by the British government in 1848 during the Great Famine 1845-52. Though neither a peasant nor a Catholic, he empathized with the plight of over one million impoverished Irish Catholic emigrants who fled starvation. These expatriates believed that they had been forced unwillingly from their homes by the British government, which they also blamed for causing the famine or at least creating conditions that seriously threatened Irish survival. As a publisher of several expatriate newspapers, Mitchel was able to echo the sentiments of his audience and perhaps more importantly, shape the prevailing attitudes of Irish Americans attempting to adjust to a hostile society. Well educated, bourgeois, and respected by the Irish immigrant community, the Protestant Mitchel became an ardent Irish nationalist during a time when most Irish Protestants, including the Scotch Irish in America, were becoming almost uniformly opposed to Irish nationalism. In giving full treatment to his experience in America, this first contemporary biography of Mitchel addresses the basic paradox of his ideology: why an Irish nationalist who called for an end to the British enslavement of the Irish enthusiastically supported the slave society of the American South. It thus sheds invaluable light on how Irish nationalism played out on both sides of the Atlantic and on issues of racism and cultural assimilation facing the United States during the mid-nineteenth century.

Bryan McGovern is an assistant professor of history at Kennesaw State University. He published an essay on Mitchel in New Hibernia Review. Annual Report - National Endowment for the Humanities, National Endowment for the Humanities, 1986.

Frontier Settlement and Market Revolution Charles E. Brooks, 1996. In Frontier Settlement and Market Revolution, Charles E. Brooks explains how the Holland Land Purchase, in which the Holland Land Company purchased 3.3 million acres of land in western New York State, contributed to the development of a frontier region.

Mexican Chicago Gabriela F. Arredondo, 2008. Becoming Mexican in early twentieth century Chicago.

To Tara Via Holyhead Lyndon Fraser, 1997. To Tara via Holyhead provides a fascinating glimpse into the lives and experiences of Irish Catholic immigrants in nineteenth century Christchurch. Lyndon Fraser has used a wide variety of government, local body, and church records to track individuals and families in detail. He shows how the immigrants adjusted imaginatively and creatively to a new environment by forging durable social networks based on ethnic ties. To Tara via Holyhead is also a significant contribution to the study of immigration to New Zealand, as it explores issues of ethnicity, kinship, and community that have been widely debated by historians. Fraser is familiar with these discussions and is able to make valuable comparisons with North American experience.

Unequal Freedoms Jeff Strickland, 2015-09-08. Focusing on Charleston, South Carolina, Jeff Strickland examines the ways that race, ethnicity, and class shaped the political economy of this vital Southern city during the second half of the nineteenth century. National Endowment for the Humanities ... Annual Report, National Endowment for the Humanities.

A Measure of Success Michael J. McTighe, 1994-01-01. As a framework for this analysis, he develops a methodology for measuring the success or influence of religion in a particular society.

Merchants, Midwives, and Laboring Women Diane C. Vecchio, 2006. Diane C. Vecchio's

unique study considers the work experiences of Italian immigrant women and their daughters in the previously unexamined regions of Milwaukee Wisconsin and Endicott New York during the turn of the twentieth century Using Italian and American sources and rich oral histories this study reveals that women in Italy had economic responsibilities that often included work experiences outside of the home including jobs as midwives and businesswomen Demonstrating the regional variation of Italian women s work as well as the skills they transplanted to America balances the image of inexperienced and low skilled labourers that dominates scholarship on Italian working women Vecchio s research on Endicott sheds light on the gendered nature of life in a company town governed by welfare paternalism while her research on Milwaukee emphasizes how Italian immigrant women turned to small business enterprise when local opportunities for wage earning were limited Dutch Immigrant Women in the United States, 1880-1920 Suzanne M. Sinke, 2002 Examining the domain of the home as well as the related realms of education religion health care and worldview Sinke discerns women s contributions to the creation and adaptation of families and communities pointing out how they differed from those of men Through Sinke s articulate and captivating descriptions of real women the statistical evidence comes to life providing valuable and heretofore unexamined views on the international marriage market language shifts the acquisition of American customs the church s role in adaptation and the shifting economies that allowed women to work outside the home A parallel analysis of the United States and the Netherlands as developing welfare states provides a fascinating look at what Dutch immigrant women left behind compared to what they faced in America regarding health care education and quality of life issues BOOK JACKET

Beyond Cannery Row Carol Lynn McKibben, 2006-01-04 Presenting a nuanced story of women migration community industry and civic life at the turn of the twentieth century Carol Lynn McKibben s Beyond Cannery Row analyzes the processes of migration and settlement of Sicilian fishers from three villages in Western Sicily to Monterey California and sometimes back again McKibben s analysis of gender and gender roles shows that it was the women in this community who had the insight the power and the purpose to respond and even prosper amid changing economic conditions Vividly evoking the immigrants everyday experiences through first person accounts and detailed description McKibben demonstrates that the cannery work done by Sicilian immigrant women was crucial in terms of the identity formation and community development These changes allowed their families to survive the challenges of political conflicts over citizenship in World War II and intermarriage with outsiders throughout the migration experience The women formed voluntary associations and celebrated festas that effectively linked them with each other and with their home villages in Sicily Continuous migration created a strong sense of transnationalism among Sicilians in Monterey which has enabled them to continue as a viable ethnic community today Absolute Convictions Eyal Press, 2007-02-20 In 1998 one of only two doctors in Buffalo New York who performed abortions was shot dead by a radical antiabortion activist The son of the surviving doctor now presents a gripping account of a family and a city caught in the crossfire of moral fervor and individual rights in the fierce battle over abortion
